Perry Carter.
The fourth number of the Heppner Lyceum Course was presented at the Christian church last Friday evening, and the large audience in attendance were delighted with the work of Perry Carter, Cartoonist, who was assisted in the entertainment by his wife, Marie Carter, vocalist and pianist. To our mind, this was the very best number of the course so far. Mr. Carter is a cartoonist of national repute and his ability to entertain an audience with recitation and word pictures while making the chalk fly on the canvas, is remarkable. Few cartoonists are able to do this. Mrs. Carter sings beautifully and her numbers on the program were highly appreciated.

Off For Ireland.
Brian O'Conner, who has been working for Minor Bros., and the Penland Live Stock & Land Co., for the past ten years, departed for his old home in Ireland last Thursday morning. He is one of the young fellows from the Emerald Isle who has made good, and leaves for home with a nice little stake tucked under his belt. He did well here, and while he has left the impression with some that he will remain for the rest of his days on the cold sod, yet there is a very strong suspicion among many others that he will return to the Morrow county hills when the balmy breezes of spring begin to blow, and that instead of one, there will be two of him.

On Three Legs.
Ed Huston, of Eight Mile, was in town on Tuesday for the first time in five weeks, and was moving about by the aid of a crutch. He is slowly recovering from injuries received by the kick of a horse. While he suffered no broken bones, his leg was so badly injured as to lay him up for several weeks, and recovery from the effects of the hurt is slow. The ankle of the right leg received the main force of the blow.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Schafer, of Monument, are in Heppner for a few days.

Ray Huddleston and wife, of Lone Rock, are visiting in Heppner.

JUNIORS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

Third Year Class Puts it Over Freshies in Deciding Contest.

In a fast game of basketball at the skating rink last Thursday evening, the junior class team dealt a solar plexus blow to the rookies (beg pardon! the freshmen), putting that class out of the race for the 1911 pennant by the narrow margin of one point.

From the first whistle until the very last minute of play, both teams were at it hammer and tongs, because it was the deciding contest of a series of six games participated in by the junior, sophomore, and freshmen teams of the Heppner High school.

The first half was played with the ball in junior territory most of the time, the juniors securing a lead of one point and maintaining that lead throughout the game. Many clever plays were pulled off in this half, as well as the majority of fouls. The juniors threw every foul but the freshmen missed one.

For the juniors, "Sal" Crawford did the most effective work in holding the ball in junior territory. He likewise made several points for his team. Sid Hallock played a star game at center. He surprised the spectators and brought credit to himself by gingering up when caught in a tight place and throwing a basket. And Sidney didn't get all fussed up about it, either. Slocum played a good game, but judging from his inclination to bat the ball, it looks like he would be more of a success at baseball. "Tige" Kenton played a good game at guard, so far as guarding his man was concerned, but a little better handling of the ball on his part would raise his grade in the basketball class. Cohn delivered the goods as forward, playing a consistent game throughout.

For the freshmen, Vernon Jones played a rattling good game at guard. If his man got a basket it was not without a great effort. Bernie Cox is a good goal thrower, but was not given many chances. He delivered one field basket which would do credit to the forward of a college team, but at other times his work was not high class. Bob Young played center in good form. He couldn't always hear the "toots" of the whistle, and consequently allowed Sid to get away with the ball, but his playing was satisfactory. In the second half a slight injury retired him and "Banta" Maddock was sent in to finish the game. And Creston wasn't so slow, either. The way he shot those near-baskets caused a great falling off in junior stocks, but the ball seemed hoodooed and after spinning about the top of the basket several times dropped off on the outside. Vain Jones and Harvey Young were always in the game and blocked several plays very effectively.

The game ended with the score 8 to 7 in favor of the juniors. That being the fourth game won by them, the juniors were declared champions, and the class is now anxiously awaiting the arrival of the pennant.

In a slow, disinteresting game, Friday evening, the sophomores won from the freshmen, 31 to 6. The freshmen had other things on their minds and could not get interested in the game.

Wallace A. Thompson.

The death of Wallace Atwood Thompson occurred at about 7:45, at Echo, Saturday evening, Jan. 21. He was standing in the confectionery store of F. J. Young talking with some friends at the time, and without warning fell to the floor and expired at once. A physician was called, but nothing that he could do could restore any signs of life. Death was the result of heart trouble.

Mr. Thompson was a member of the Masonic fraternity, being senior warden of Echo lodge. He was a son of O. F. Thompson, pioneer of Butter creek, and was born and raised on the old homestead, where he was living at the time of his death.

He leaves his mother, Mrs. O. F. Thompson, three brothers, Asa B. Allen, and Sloan Thompson, and three sisters, Mrs. Percy Jarmon, Mrs. C. H. Bartholomew, and Miss Rilla Thompson, and a host of friends to mourn his loss.

The funeral was held at Echo, Monday, under the auspices of the Masonic lodge.

Married.

At the Catholic church, Monday morning, Jan. 23, by Rev. M. J. Kelley, Michael Doherty and Miss Maggie Girt, both of Morrow county. Following the ceremony, a splendid wedding breakfast was served to the newlyweds and a large number of their friends at the Palace Hotel, after which Mr. and Mrs. Doherty departed for their home at the mouth of Sand Hollow, where Mr. Doherty is running sheep.

Birthday Surprise.

The friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hayes to the number of about 30, came in upon them unannounced on Tuesday evening, giving them a complete surprise. The occasion was the birthday of Mr. Hayes, and the evening was spent in music and the playing of games, followed by a splendid luncheon prepared by the guests. At 12, m., the friends departed, wishing Mr. Hayes many happy returns.

Visit California.

Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brock will leave for Los Angeles and other points in Southern California upon an extended visit. They expect to be gone about six weeks and while away Mr. Brock will investigate some of the high schools of southern California for the purpose of acquiring information for use in the construction of the new local high school. He is a member of the Pendleton school board.—E. O. Jan. 22.

Arm Broken.

Andrew Donahue is carrying his left arm in a sling, the result of an accident that happened to him several days ago. He was thrown from a load of hay, and landed with most his weight on his arm, breaking the bones of the wrist. The break is a bad one, but the injured member is doing nicely at this writing and will be all right in due course of time.

Historic Shoes.

In the window of the Cash Shoe Store you will see a pair of shoes with a history. They are Buster Brown Shoes; have crossed the Atlantic Ocean twice and withstood the rugged paths of Scotland for three months or more. They are good shoes yet. Take a look at them.

Women of Woodcraft.

Monday evening was an enjoyable time for Maple Circle No. 259. It was the time of their annual installation of officers, and besides this there were initiation ceremonies whereby 13 new members were added to the roll of the Circle. This was all followed by a splendid banquet. Officers installed were: May Kenton, guardian neighbor; Loretta Yeager, past guardian; Rose Richardson, clerk; Cora D. Crawford, banker; Elsie Stevenson, adviser; Hannah Briggs, magician; Maggie Cox, attendant; Ida Gray, musician; Mrs. W. S. Conner, manager; Mrs. Hart, inner sentinel; Ellen Florence, outer sentinel.

Butcher Shop Robbed.

W. R. Cochran, the lone butcher, is now mourning the loss of $28.00 and a gun. Rufus employed a "hobo" butcher to work for him in his shop, and on Sunday morning, said hobo proceeded to help himself to all the available cash in the till, took a good gun that was at hand and struck north for the main line. He was tracked by Deputy Sheriff Nash and others as far as Ells, but made good his escape and is doubtless far out of the country at the present. This is a practical demonstration of the fact that it does not pay to give employment to fellows who are tramping from one end of the country to the other, for it is reasonable to expect that in nine cases out of ten, if a man is what he should be, especially if he is a tradesman, he can have steady employment and has no need of joining the ranks of the "weary Willie." Mr. Cochran has our sympathy and it is too bad that this fellow was not apprehended and landed in charge of Sheriff Hayes at the county bastille.

Shipment of Jerseys.

C. R. Pointer, of Lexington, returned from the Willamette Valley the past week with a shipment of 24 head of grade and pure bred Jersey heifers, which he has distributed among the farmers about Lexington. They were gathered up at Halsey and Junction City, and come from proved milk stock. The shipping in of these cattle is at the suggestion of R. Rasmussen, the Lexington creamery proprietor, and it is a good move. Let others go and do likewise so that the milk herds can be built up and increased and more of our farmers be in a position to add to their bank accounts from this source. Scarcely a farmer but can keep a few head of good milkers, and this product can be taken care of by the creamery, and what the farmer gets is to a very large per cent. clear gain.
