CYNTHIA A. BERGE.

On last Thursday, midnight, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Eph Eskelson, three miles southeast of Lexington, death called from this earth one of our most worthy pioneers in the person of Mrs. Cynthia A. Berge. Mrs. Berge had not been real well for some time, but feeling some better than common, she went to the home of her daughter to spend a few days. For some hours before retiring on Thursday evening she was in the best of spirits and spent a very pleasant evening in the home of her daughter, but not a great while after going to bed she took sick and became suddenly very ill and died before aid could be called in. Funeral services were held in the Congregational church at Lexington on Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Bradstreet, and the remains were laid to rest in the Odd Fellows cemetery at Lexington, being attended by a very large number of relatives and friends of the deceased; in fact it seemed as though almost everyone in Lexington and vicinity turned out to pay their respects to the departed, for she was a woman who was greatly beloved in that community.

Cynthia A. Sheffer was born in Williamsport, Indiana, December 4, 1832, and died near Lexington, Oregon, June 1, 1911, aged 78 years, 5 months and 27 days. Her parents were Nicholas V. and Matilda Sheffer. She was married in the state of Indiana to Dr. Lewis Berge and they removed to Iowa where they resided for a number of years. Crossing the plains in 1862, they settled in the Walla Walla valley on land on which a part of the city of Walla Walla now stands. They lived in Walla Walla and Umatilla counties in the early days and assisted in pioneering that section. Dr. Berge, while a physician, was also an educator, and one of the early teachers of this country, in which work he was ably assisted by his wife. He was a member of the first board of county commissioners of Umatilla county, being an associate in the county court with the late William Mitchell. He also served as school superintendent of the county by appointment in the year 1869. Dr. Berge died December 21, 1872, at Walla Walla.

Mrs. Berge came to Morrow county in 1884, with her family, and settled on land near Lexington, where she remained until the year 1900, when she left her farm and removed to Lexington to reside in the little home she had built there. She was the mother of eleven children, five of them now living. These are Frank H., of Berge, Adams county, Wash.; Ralph L., of Lexington; Mrs. G. M. Henderson, of Colusa, Idaho; Mrs. C. P. Barnett, of Pendleton; and Mrs. Eph Eskelson, of Lexington. She leaves also fifteen grandchildren and nine great grandchildren. The members of her own family now living were present at the funeral.

Mrs. Berge was a woman well respected in her own community and elsewhere in the sphere of her acquaintance; indeed she was beloved by all. She had had many of the hard experiences of life, yet she was of the most pleasant disposition and came through all trials with the smile of one who is victorious over all of life's difficulties. She always had a pleasant word of cheer and comfort for the sorrowing in her neighborhood, and many are those she has left behind who will rise up and call her blessed. She died without an enemy in this world, and with the full assurance that she is waiting for her a home in that mansion not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

ELIZA RHODES BEAMAN. Eliza Rhodes was born in the State of Indiana, January 7, 1838. She was 8 years of age when taken to Iowa by her parents, where she grew to womanhood and was united in marriage with Justus Beaman. To them were born five children, two sons and three daughters. The eldest, a daughter, died in girlhood. Mr. and Mrs. Beaman came to Oregon in 1864 and settled in Marion county near Silverton where they resided for twenty years. In 1884 they came to Morrow county, settling in Black Horse canyon, about six miles north of Heppner. It was here that Mr. Beaman passed away, after a lingering illness of several years, on November 9, 1895.

Two years later, in 1897, Mrs. Beaman disposed of her farm and with her son Elmer E. took up her abode in Heppner where she has since resided. In her early life she became a Christian and from that day forward never faltered in her faith, and by a life of trust and service was prepared for the change that came to her on the morning of June 3, when she as quietly fell asleep upon the everlasting arms, as does a tired babe upon its mother's bosom. In accordance with her last request, a brief funeral service was held in the home, conducted by Rev. J. V. Crawford after which her body was laid to rest beside that of her husband, in the cemetery at Lexington. The large turnout at the funeral attested the high esteem in which she was held by her friends and neighbors. A goodly delegation from the Odd Fellows Lodge, acting as an escort, accompanied the remains to their last resting place.

RAGGED GAME

WON BY IONE Heppner Weakened in 6th Canto and Visitors Piled Up Scores.

B. CHESTON MADDOCK) Ione won a swiftest from Heppner, Sunday, by a score of 14 to 6. Heppner got a poor start in the first. The bases were filled through errors by Eaton and McCarty, but Elder settled down and held the visitors scoreless. In the second canto, with hits by Hagwood, Elliot, and a few errors, Ione netted three runs. Clark's home run hit over centerfield, with two down, was one of the cleanest hits ever made on the Heppner grounds. Up to the sixth inning the game was close, but in this canto Elder blew up and after this the game was easy for Ione. Heppner tried hard for a score in the sixth when Jaynes reached first on a hit after two men were down, but Yeager failed and this was their last chance. Not a man reached first after the sixth. Beasley's one-hand stab of Eaton's fly in the fifth was the best catch of the game. Jaynes, lately from Milton Blue Mountain league, did some star work about first and also some timely hitting. Eaton's one-hand catch of a high liner robbed Ione of a good hit.

Timber of Great Value.

That the timber of Morrow, Umatilla and Grant counties is of great commercial value is declared by M. C. Griswold in an interview in the Oregonian of the 4th inst. Mr. Griswold has but recently closed up deals for a large portion of our timber lands, and it is his belief that the Oregon yellow pine, or Western pine, surpasses any of the finest grades of Michigan pine. Discovering the fine belts of pine in Grant county and the southern parts of Umatilla and Morrow counties three years ago, Mr. Griswold and his associates began buying up the timber in that district, and their holdings have been added to from time to time, so that they aggregate more acreage than is held by any group of men in Oregon, with the exception of the Wechsauer syndicate. The Griswold holdings amount to 45,000 acres, carrying saw timber to over 500,000,000 feet. This timber is all several miles remote from transportation. Mr. Griswold intimates that when his company is ready to manufacture this timber into lumber, they will build their own railroad to connect with the Columbia river, but they will be in no hurry.

"I do not care to divulge what our plans are in regard to the timber operations," said Mr. Griswold. "Before we began to buy up these holdings, we looked over the West pretty thoroughly and nowhere did we find such fine-grained timber as in Grant, Umatilla and Morrow counties. This timber contains but little pitch and is therefore, light but strong."

Mrs. Ida B. Cox, of Ellensburg, and Mrs. Edith Brady, of Portland, sisters of E. E. Beaman, were present at the funeral of their mother, returning to their homes on Monday.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Stevenson died Tuesday evening at the home of its parents in Heppner, and was buried yesterday afternoon, Rev. C. H. Davis conducting the services. The child was about two months of age.

Isaac Large and wife, former residents of the John Day Valley, arrived here Friday with their household goods, and say that they have come to stay. Mr. Large was very successful during his former residence here, and has many friends who are glad to see him back. He will look around for a suitable location, and is living in the Frost house at present.—Spray Courier.

J. M. Beaman, of Sunset, Whitman county, Wash., arrived in Heppner on Monday. He came to be at the bedside of his mother, and would have reached here in time for the funeral, but the delay of trains caused him to miss connection and he arrived too late. He is now farming in that section of the country, and likes it there very well. It has been thirteen years since he left Morrow county.

Dan McDevitt son of Bernard McDevitt who resides north of Ione, cashed in 82 coyote scalps with Clerk Hill, Saturday. On Monday John Cochran, of Ione turned in 61. These were the scalps of both old and young coyotes. Clerk Hill states that he paid for 423 scalps for the month of May and this brings the record up pretty close to that of Umatilla county, whose clerk is claiming for that county the championship of Eastern Oregon in the coyote killing business.

A Gazette reporter visited some of the ranches north of Lexington last Saturday in company with Banker W. G. Scott, and made note of the fact that there are some very splendid prospects in that locality for crops. Sorry to note, however, that there is too much spring sowing and volunteer. All of this seems to be very short, and much of it cannot possibly make a crop of any kind. It was impressed upon us very strongly that it pays to farm well. Spring sowing is seldom ever a crop in this section, and volunteering of grain is a gamble with all the odds against the farmer. There is some good wheat on the farms of Evans Bros., John Piper, Pointer Bros., and McMillan Bros., and it was also noted that a number of other farmers in that section were doing some splendid summerfalling, getting ready for next season. There is no part of the county that lies better for farming than that portion north of Lexington and covering some three or four townships and reasonable rains will bring a fair crop from there this season.

Supt. Nelson informs the Gazette that teachers examinations will be held June 21st to 24th. There will be no examination in August.

CARD OF THANKS.

To all our friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted and tenderly waited upon our mother during her late illness; and also to the members and brethren of Willow Lodge No. 66, I. O. O. F., and friends who assisted with the funeral services following, we extend our sincere and heartfelt thanks.

Masons Entertain.

Members of Ione Lodge No. 120 A. F. & A. M., to the number of about 12, were entertained by Heppner Masons on last Friday evening. As a part of the entertainment, P. O. Borg and R. F. Hynd gave illustrations of their recent visits to foreign lands, from postal cards, by a machine that M. Hynd has for that purpose, and following this a banquet was spread to which fully sixty Masonic brethren sat down. Several addresses on the order were made at the banquet table, and the occasion was made highly edifying and instructive as well as pleasurable. Quite a number of visitors from Monument lodge, and other outside points, were also present.

After More Jersey Stock.

C. R. Pointer, of Lexington, departed for Willamette Valley points on Saturday morning and will gather up another car of Jersey milk stock to be distributed among the farmers of the county in his vicinity. This will make three carloads that have been distributed in that locality, and Lexington is surely becoming the home of the Jersey cow. The little creamery down there will soon be supplied with butter fat sufficient to tax its full capacity and the farmers will add more dollars to their bank accounts. The Jersey cow is a paying investment.
