The first thunder storm of the season visited this section on Monday evening. It was not very severe at Heppner, and was accompanied by a slight shower of rain, but out toward Hinton creek and the Butter creek section it was much heavier and the rain more abundant. The storm reached as far as Lexington and they experienced a good shower of rain there. Much rain is needed at this time to help out the spring sown grain, but we hope that it will not take a notion to all come down in one big storm. A little spreading out of the forces would bring more beneficial results.

Our esteemed friend, D. C. Ely, is still confined to his home by sickness. This is the sixth week of his illness and he has not been able to leave his bed; in fact, he has not been well at any time since returning from his labors as sergeant-at-arms of the legislature the past winter. His children have all been at his bedside at intervals during his sickness to render their aid and sympathy, and he has been thoughtfully cared for by his neighbors. The nature of his illness is such that he will have to patiently wait it out and we are pleased to note that the prospects for his recovery are getting better day by day.
