Hyman H. Cohen, commercial editor of the Portland Oregon Journal, was a visitor in Heppner on Tuesday, Mr. Cohen is traveling over the wheat sections of Eastern Oregon and Washington and writing up the crop outlook for his paper, getting his knowledge first hand. He is glad to state that he finds the prospects in Morrow county far ahead of what he had been led to believe before coming on the ground. He says we have a wheat country up this way, and his only criticism is that too many of our people are not doing the farming that they should. As stated before in these columns, a season like the present one is a splendid demonstration of the result of good farming, and from what we can gather there is to be more of it done in the future. Mr. Cohen goes over the ground and takes in the crops as they stand and does not take the word of anyone for it, and in this way he is able to intelligently judge of exact conditions.

Puzzled.

An aged colored man was passing a fish store when he stopped to examine a huge turtle chained in the doorway as an advertisement

He had never seen a turtle before, and he prodded the strange creature curiously. Suddenly he popped his finger into his mouth with a howl of pain. After the finger had stopped bleeding he gazed at it ruefully, then eyed the turtle apprehensively.

"What's the matter, Rastus?" asked the fish dealer, with a grin.

"Nuffin', sah; nuffin'. Ah was jest wonderin' whether Ah had been bit or stung."—Lippincott's.

The Artistic Temperament.

A famous singer was undergoing the ministration of the ship's barber.

"I 'opes," said the barber, "that we shall 'ave the pleasure of 'earin' you at the concert tonight."

"No," explained the famous singer, "I've had a long and exhausting season in America and within a few days I am to open in London. I have decided not to do anything on this voyage."

"It's the same way with me," said the barber understandingly. "When I'm hashore I never looks at a razor."—Success Magazine.
