MAKE NO CHANGE.

It has been previously announced that the county court of Morrow county would likely abandon its present method of conducting county road work, sell what equipment the county has in the way of teams, wagons, etc., and revert back to the old way of doing things; a way that everybody knows has proven a failure.

While the court has been subjected to some very severe criticism, much of it seems to not be merited, and the Gazette maintains that unless a better method can be suggested than what is now followed, the court should carry on the work as it has been doing. It is no more expensive than was the old plan, and there is no question whatever but that much better results have been obtained.

Morrow county, by its tax levy, raises the sum of $16,000 annually to be expended on roads. At the last meeting of the county court in Umatilla county, bills were allowed for road work alone, not including bridges, amounting to above $16,000; this for only one month's work, as the court meets in that county every month. Yakima county, Washington, raises by special levy, $70,000 to be expended upon its public highways annually, and many of the counties of Oregon are expending vast amounts of money each year on their roads, yet our court is expected to do great things on an allowance that should be perhaps three or four times as large in order to get the required results.

The plan as it is followed in this county at the present time, was adopted by our county court after having attended a meeting of the county judges and commissioners from all over the state, down at Portland last winter. The great majority of opinion of that meeting favored the plan; many counties had already been working it and were well pleased with the results, and what seemed to be the best way to handle county road work to the majority of those then present in this convention, was thought by our commissioners to be the best way to do the work here.

Now all things of this nature have to be worked out largely by way of experiment, and when a good plan is discovered, we think it should be persistently followed up that permanent results may be obtained, and we urge the county court to stay on the job and work their plan to a finish. Good roads is what is wanted by everybody. It takes time to build them, and when you are restricted in the amount of money at your disposal, it necessarily takes just so much longer to get around and give the people what they want. But it is false economy to do work on the roads that will not last, and so much money has already been spent in former years in doing temporary work. Other counties are fast learning this lesson, and Morrow county will learn it.

The Gazette is beginning to hear from some of our people on this question of Boys' Hog Clubs for Morrow county. This is a great scheme, and we hope that the boys and men of the county will wake up to it, and that together we may be able to get some good, live clubs organized. The business men of the different communities are undoubtedly interested in this movement; if you are, drop us a line and let us know about it. Anything that helps to build the county and bring its resources to the front, should appeal to our business interests, and here is a fine chance to do this.

With T. B. Wilcox, Dan Malarkey, Ben Selling and Stephen A. Lowell all out as avowed candidates on the republican ticket for United States senator, we can now begin to understand why Jonathan Bourne said he would not spend a cent to be re-elected to the senate. He can probably see that with four republicans out against him for the place he will have no trouble in landing the nomination. Multiplicity of candidates makes it easy for Jonathan and there will be no need to spend any money in the primary campaign.—Eugene Register

Eastern Oregon people should unite on Judge Lowell. He could put Jonathan to sleep, politically, and in our judgment is far the best man of those mentioned above. Morrow county residents think a lot of Stephen A. Lowell.

Umatilla County will have a great wheat crop of about 6,000,000 bushels. This county grows about 1 per cent of the cereal produced in the United States.

After nearly three years' work, the first two miles of the Cello canal have been completed by the construction firm having the contract. This includes the upper end of the canal and Cello Lock. It is expected that by another three years the canal will be open to navigation.

After visiting 45 towns of Eastern Oregon, J. J. Sayer, field secretary of the Oregon Development League, is back at the Portland office, much impressed by his trip through the interior. He is enthusiastic about the possibilities and the future in store for Eastern Oregon. Mr. Sayer starts this week for a similar trip through the coast counties.

Banks of the state show good gains in deposits and resources as compared with similar figures compiled last year. State Bank Examiner Wright finds deposits have grown over $2,500,000 and in practically all departments of the banking business there is good advance. The latest report sets forth conditions as they existed at the close of business July 3.

A letter to this paper states: "I notice what the Gazette has to say about the proposed Morrow County Hog Club for boys. * * * We have two boys that could join; one is 14 the other 12. We believe in doing all we can for the improvement of the county." This is the way to look at it. This is a move to improve the county. It is something practical. There is much talk about advertising our resources, but there is no better advertisement than to produce the goods. Let us get the boys and girls to work along practical lines and produce stuff that will take the prizes at the district and state fairs, and make it known that no part of the state can beat us. We can do it. Are you with us?"

The Guest's Kick

A good story reached the Palace Hotel last week concerning a guest with a grouch. He carried it to the proprietor.

"Look here," he said, "things around here are just about as rotten as they make them. When I went to lunch today I found hair in the ice cream, hair in the honey, and hair in the apple sauce. Now, what do y' think o' that? Is that a good hotel?"

"Well," explained the genial proprietor, "I can explain the hair in the ice cream; that likely came from shaving the ice, and I suppose the hair in the honey came off the comb, but I don't understand about the hair in the apple sauce. I bought those apples myself and they were everyone Baldwins."
