Cecil Humphreys and family, and T. J. Humphreys went to the mountains Tuesday, to enjoy an outing for some time. They are camped at Ditch creek.

F. C. Marquardsen made a flying trip to Pendleton Sunday, by auto, returning the same day. He went to meet Miss Cora Platt who will visit here for a fortnight.

Ye editor is ruminating in the wilds about Herren's mill this week, so if this great family journal isn't up to the usual standard you will know that the "devil" has had his round at the scissors and paste pot.

Mike Szepanek, who for some time has been at work in the blacksmith shop of H. C. Ashbaugh, has taken up a homestead at the mouth of Sand Hollow and near the John Kilkenny place. He is now completing his house and will move his family on the land at once.

R. S. Wilson was up from Rhea siding the last of the week. People down that way are getting up their second crop of alfalfa, but it is very short, having been struck by the very hot weather of the last of July just at a time to mature the crop too soon and made it blossom about two weeks before it should.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Boyer of Heppner, who made an overland trip from Heppner to The Dalles by automobile, spent a few days in town as the guests of Mrs. J. N. Willerton. On returning home Saturday they were accompanied by Mrs. Willerton and daughter, Bertha. Miss Willerton expects to make an extended stay, visiting friends in Heppner. Mrs. Boyer was formerly Miss Clara May of this city.—The Dalles Optimist.

W. S. Wharton and family departed Tuesday for The Dalles. After visiting there for a short time they will proceed to Hood River where Mr. Wharton has business interests. It is his desire to take a good long vacation and for that reason has not decided on a permanent location. Heppner can ill afford to lose such worthy people as the Whartons and the best wishes of a host of friends go with them wherever their future home may be.

The Palace for chicken dinner Sunday and a good steak on Monday.

Theodore Anderson was in town from the Eight Mile farm the first of the week.

OUTWITTED THE ORIENTALS.

An Experience With the Customs Officials at Kermanshah.

In eastern lands the collecting of customs dues is attended with perhaps more than ordinary fraud. In his book, "From Batum to Baghdad," Mr. W. B. Harris has told his experience with the customs officers of Kermanshah. The incident had its comical feature as well as its serious lesson:

Two hours later than I had intended we made a start and, proceeding through the long tunnel-like bazaars, emerged from the town. Here fate had annoyances in store for me. At the local custom house the guards wanted to search us and make us pay duty on our scanty baggage.

I had hired a mule to carry our saddlebags as far as Baghdad, using the owner of the mule, a wily old Arab who accompanied us, as a guide. These two, mule and man, the guards absolutely refused to let pass without my bestowing a perfectly illegal and illogical baksheesh. This I stoutly refused to do, and, knowing that in the end a show of temper is of no avail, I swallowed my wrath and argued coolly and collectedly with the soldiers.

Soon they confessed that they had no right to touch either me or any animal of mine, but they maintained that the mule and the rider were both Arabs and that therefore I could not interfere.

This was just what I wanted, and I solved the matter in a minute. I put the Arab on my horse and I rode his mule. There was no question about it then. The guards on their own confession could stop neither me nor my horse, and we rode quietly on amid the laughter of the men to change our mounts again fifty yards past the custom house.
