Geo. J. CURRAN, Local Agent.

J. E. Cronan, the Ione banker, is quite proud of being instrumental in bringing about a deal which has interested Mr. Richard Wilson, of Portland, in Morrow county real estate. Mr. Wilson is a capitalist of Portland, and also a dealer in Black Polled Aberdeen-Angus cattle, and some time since sold quite a number of his herd to C. S. Whitcomb, of Morgan. In the deal for the cattle, Mr. Wilson takes over a half section of land. There is also turned over to Mr. Whitcomb a fine stallion. Mr. Wilson is much taken with our county, and may make more extensive investments here.

L. V. Gentry, Frank Elder and Joe Hayes returned on Saturday from St. Louis and St. Joe, Missouri, where they made a delivery of a train load of sheep. While they are not boasting much over the venture as a financial success, they did pretty well, had a good trip and gathered a whole barrel of experience. To be sure, riding a stock train from here to the Mississippi river is no picnic, but it affords a splendid opportunity to see the country.

Good rains this week and farmers all happy. Some hay up and down the creeks that was cut just in time to receive a soaking may not get a chance to dry out, but there is not a very great amount of it, and the hay farmers will have forgotten this slight injury by the time the next crop is put in the stack. People say this is the best country on earth with plenty of moisture, so let it come.

Mrs. L. E. Cohn has opened the millinery stock and has to offer to her patrons, felt hats, ready to wear, value to $3.50, for $1.00. Shapes, value to $3.00, for 50c. Taffeta ribbon 20 cents the yard. Beaver hats $2.00 each; children's hats, 50 cents. Every article at cut rate price for cash. Pattern hat display complete. Also veiling, plumes, and everything found in a first class millinery store.

Pacific Homestead: One sow of the Duroc breed has yielded a profit of $700.20 in three years, her offspring included. She belongs to a farmer in the Palouse country, Washington, and the financial income from her keep shows the possible profit that can be obtained from swine production in such states as Oregon, Washington and Idaho, where climate and soil conditions are similar.

P. M. Morris, of Athena, has leased 700 acres of land from Walt Smith, agent of the Oregon-Dakota Land Co., and will move onto it at once. This is known as the Keys place and is located 4 1/2 miles south west of Ione. Mr. Morris is a practical farmer and has taken this land for a period of five years.

S. J. Wing, formerly engaged in the furniture business at this place, was in Heppner a few days the past week, a guest at the home of B. G. Sigabee. Mr. Wing now lives at Vancouver, B. C., and is engaged in the real estate business. He departed for home on Monday.

The opening number of the lyceum course will be given by Prof. Maynard Lee Daggy, Nov. 7. Prof. Daggy never fails to please his audience. The musical number by The Strollers Quartette will be given Dec. 22. Edward Reno, the Magician, will be with us Jan. 8, and Opie Read, Feb. 3. The date for Ratto will be announced later.

Upon recommendation of the state board of health, Prof. J. F. Morel, of the department of animal husbandry, of the O. A. C. has been appointed state veterinarian to succeed Dr. W. H. Lytle, of Pendleton. Prof. Morel will serve as state veterinarian in addition to his work at the College. Dr. Lytle will continue to serve as sheep inspector.

Frank Barlow has purchased 400 acres of land from D. E. Gilman, lying on the bottom and west of Rhea creek, and between the place of Ralph Becket and D. S. Barlow. This is another of those ideal tracts along this creek suited to fruit raising and diversified farming and Frank Barlow is the man to make it go. The cutting up of these lands into smaller tracts and getting more families located on these good creek bottoms is the right move, and many good little homes can be thus established.

MINOR & CO.

"It Could Not Suit Me Better If It Had Been Built to Order for Me."

This is a common expression where the Royal Standard Typewriter is used. Court Reporters, Telegraph Operators and Expert Stenographers in all lines of business find in the Royal those "built-to-order" qualities that represent to them the ideal writing machine. You will say the same when you have become the owner of a
