JOHN Q. WILSON DIES AT SALEM.

Was Prominent Stockman of This Section a Num- ber of Years Ago.

John Q. Wilson, a retired capitalist of Salem, and well known in this county where he resided for a number of years and was engaged in the raising of stock, owning the big ranch of several hundred acres just east of Heppner on Hinton creek, died suddenly at his home in the Capital City on Thursday last, aged 83 years, 7 months and 14 days.

Concerning him, the Salem Statesman says:

John Quincy Wilson was born May 18, 1828, in Ohio. He spent the first twenty-four years of his life in his native state and in Indiana. He was employed in a mercantile business at Crawfordsville, Ind. While there he was a young man with Lew Wallace and others who became prominent in the nation. In 1852 he had a desire to go west and outfitted with a team and a prairie schooner, with a friend, started for the Willamette valley. He first settled in Marion county. He was in the mercantile business at Jefferson and other points in an early day and later engaged in business at Salem. He was also in business at Heppner, and conducted farming operations in Marion county as well as in eastern Oregon. He held many positions of public trust, including the county judgeship of Baker county. He was a member of the legislature from Umatilla and Morrow counties, as well as from Marion county. He also had the distinction of being Salem's first mayor and held minor offices at different times. He has made his permanent home in Salem for about thirty years and has always been a most highly respected citizen with a multitude of friends.

Mr. Wilson was one of seven brothers and four sisters, and the last survivor of the entire family. Deceased leaves a widow to mourn his departure from this life, they having had two sons, both of whom died very young. Robert W. Halley of this city and John Wilson of Sodaville, are two nephews of deceased.

Mr. Wilson was a devoted Odd Fellow, being the oldest in the order in Salem, and possibly in the state. He was initiated in Chemeketa lodge June 9, 1856, in which he remained until January 14, 1868, when he became a charter member of Olive lodge No 18, and continued in that till the two lodges consolidated.

A few years ago his lodge brothers presented him with a fifty-year veteran's jewel, Judge Geo. H. Burnett making the presentation. Mr. Wilson was greatly affected by the gift.

He was one of the extensive property owners of the city and county. Mr. Wilson was universally respected and his kind and sympathetic disposition won for him scores of friends.

Liggett's and Fenway's candy; all kinds, all sizes, all prices. Fresh stock every week. Patterson & Son. The REXALL Store.

Clerk Hill is busily engaged in making the extensions on the tax roll and will soon have the same ready to turn over to the sheriff.

DAVID McCULLOUGH.

Was born in Belfast, Ireland, where he lived until the year 1901, when he emigrated to America, and settled in Morrow county, where he has resided continuously since.

In his early manhood he was united in marriage to Miss Mary Brown. To them were born eleven children seven sons and four daughters.

Mrs. McCullough and one son died in Ireland about fourteen years ago, their deaths occurring within a week of each other, and now the death of the father has occurred within a week of the death of his daughter, Mrs. Hisler. David McCullough came from a long line of sturdy ancestors, and was himself a splendid specimen of that hardy and indomitable race that has played such a prominent part in Empire building in the last three hundred years.

He was a farmer by occupation and by industry, and honorable, upright business methods he accumulated a comfortable competency and retired from the active labors of farm life some thirty years ago.

For much the greater part of his life he was a ruling elder in the Presbyterian church and maintained an upright, Christian character to the day of his death.

During his long, and sometimes strenuous life, he was never sick, but for twelve or fourteen years past gradually declined until four o'clock last Sunday morning, January 7, 1912, he gently fell to sleep.

The funeral was from the Christian church in this city January 9, the sermon by Rev. J. V. Crawford, and interment in the Masonic cemetery beside the grave of his daughter so recently buried.

A. L. Ayers and wife came in from Parker's mill on Tuesday. They left the mill early Monday morning and were caught in the blizzard on the way and compelled to stop over with friends until the storm abated. In the meantime relatives and friends at Heppner were not a little anxious about their safety until a phone message announced their whereabouts at noon. They report the storm as very severe.

Cameras, kodaks, films, plates, papers and chemicals. Everything for the amateur photographer. Patterson & Son, the REXALL Store.

Some Horse Sales.

Adams & Campbell, Portland horse buyers, shipped a car load of horses to Portland from Heppner on Saturday morning, besides leaving behind some 11 head that are being cared for at the stable of McRoberts & Evans. The most of the horses purchased were big, draft animals. J. G. Doherty furnishing eight head, and this bunch were perhaps the top-notchers and brought an average price of $175 per head. French Bros. also contributed a few extra fine animals, while there were among the lot some saddle horses and light buggy animals, all bringing good prices considering the present conditions of the horse market. These gentlemen expect to return to Heppner in a few weeks and buy up enough more to finish out another car load.

If you don't want to pay Gilliam & Bisbee for fixing your pipes take care of them and don't let them freeze.

The plan of the organization is to have an address from some outside party once a month, and a good line of speakers have been secured for future meetings.
