

OREGON PRESS ASSOCIATION MEET

Entertained at Newport Last Saturday to Monday.

Mrs. Duniway and Mr. Chapman Among Speakers.

The Oregon Press Association met at Newport, Ore., last Saturday morning and continued in session until Monday night, Sept. 24th. President J. C. Hayter, of the Dallas Observer, occupied the chair. Albert Tozier, secretary, was also present and attended to the duties of that office.

No better spot could have been found for the quill-pushers to have held their semi-annual meeting than this beautiful location to be found at Nye Creek. Col. Irwin kindly placed the Club, with its comforts and conveniences, at the disposal of the editors and here they proceeded to business.

Saturday was devoted to the reading of papers and the discussion of those things appertaining to the art of printing and journalism in general. Among the speakers were Mrs. Abigail Scott Duniway, mother of the Oregon Press, as the boys delight to call her. Mrs. Duniway told of her first experiences as an Oregon editor which were both instructive and amusing. She also suggested that she would like to have her boys and girls of the Press to assist her in the coming woman suffrage campaign.

Hon. Frank Davis, of the Salem Statesman, made a strong speech on the practical side of newspaper life which was well and favorably received, as was also the article on special editions, by Editor Woodard, of the Newberg Graphic. Timothy Brownhill told of the good things to be found at the National Editorial Association and also spoke along the line of higher ideals for the country press.

Other speakers were Rollie Watson, of the Tillamook Herald, Historian Himes and Mr. Champion, of Portland, Factorson, of Central Point, J. C. Hayter, W. J. Clarke, C. L. Ireland and others.

Sunday was spent in a visit to the lighthouse and sightseeing on the beach. The writer is unable to speak further of the meeting at this time.

CEDAR GROVE FARM

RESIDENCE OF CHARLES CLEVELAND

Gresham School Attendance Large

The public school opened last Monday with an attendance of 141 against an attendance of 92 on the opening day last year. Of those who entered last Monday eighteen are in the high school against 14 the first day last year. The attendance in both the high school and the grammar department will in all probability be much increased as soon as the young people are able to leave their work. The following non-residents have entered the high school: Laura Burkholder, Maud Michel and George Schantlin.

Geo. Metzger has about completed his 6-room house and will move in it next week.

Miss Hattie Pierce and Miss Nettie Beard are boarding with Mrs. McColl.

Miss Laura Burkholder is making her home with Mrs. McColl and attending school here.

DANCE—In Metzger's Hall, Gresham, Saturday night, Sept. 29th. Music by Gresham Orchestra. Good time sure. Metzger, manager.

Mr. Price, of Baker City, is reported to have bought the John Sieret place.

J. H. Miller has bought Geo. Hill's place and has moved on it. Mr. Miller is from Wisconsin.

Many new families are moving into this vicinity, and one meets new faces every day.

WIN MANY PRIZES AT STATE FAIR

Charles E. Cleveland of Cedar Grove Farm

Captures Most of Prizes Given for Fine Sheep.

The following list of prize winners will indicate the character of stock raising carried on at Cedar Grove farm under the supervision of Charles Cleveland and his son, Charles E., who is the owner of their flock of near one hundred and fifty sheep of the Shropshire strain. Out of this band a bunch of twenty head were taken to the State Fair and won a good share of the prizes offered. First prize, two-year-old ram; first and second, yearling ram; second, ram lambs; first and second, two-year-old ewes; first and third, yearling ewes; second, ewe lambs; first, breed flock; sweepstakes, four lambs the get of one ram; sweepstakes, best twelve of middle wool sheep; diploma for champion ram and ewe.

In competition with from nine to fifteen entries in each class including the leading breeders of the state this is a remarkable showing. The first-prize, two-year-old ram was exhibited last year in the yearling class at Lewis and Clark Fair and as a lamb the year before at the State Fair and won first at each, and hence has never been beaten. Chas. E. Ladd, who is one of the leading Shropshire breeders of the state, bought the ram of Mr. Cleveland, paying a good price. Mr. Cleveland has other rams growing which give evidence of being as good. The first-prize two-year-old ewe beat the grand champion ewe exhibited at the International Stock Show at Chicago as a yearling last year.

The Shropshire breed of sheep were more largely represented than any other breed, showing thereby their popularity.

In addition to the sheep three head of Jersey cattle were exhibited by Mr. Cleveland and winning second on two-year-old cow and Jr. yearling bull against leading herds of the state.

Eleven Essex hogs exhibited by Mrs. Cleveland took all the prizes, or, in other words, the sweepstakes for everything.

Cedar Grove farm will earn a national reputation for the finest stock at this rate, before long, and our community is glad to share in the distinctions that come by honest persistent efforts on the part of its respected citizens.

Enlisted.

I once lived in a valley
 Where the flags of gain were furled,
 And far beyond its borders
 Throbb'd the drumbeat of the world.
 Through many a mist of morning
 I heard the throbbing call:
 From many a cloud of passage
 I saw the shadows fall.

One day I climbed the mountains
 That round the valley ring.
 No more I saw my castles
 Or heard the throbbing sing.
 But in that mighty battle
 Where many a bolt is hurled
 I heard my fellows marching
 To the drumbeat of the world.

Here in the crowded city,
 From dawn till close of day,
 Whereon each human anvil
 A thousand hammers play,
 My shoulder to my fellow,
 The flag of gain unfurled,
 I march—oh, heart, take courage!
 To the drumbeat of the world.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE

An Institution of Which the State May be Proud.

Few people of Oregon know little or nothing about the Oregon Agricultural College. Certain it is that the writer knew nothing of its work or its equipment until last Monday morning, when, through the courtesy of Prof. and Mrs. J. B. Horner we, together with other editors, were shown over the college grounds and buildings. The college is situated at Corvallis near the foothills of the Coast range, in the heart of the beautiful Willamette valley, and is one of the most picturesque spots to be found in the state. Promptly at 8 a. m. about 400 sturdy looking boys marched out of the armory in squads and were drilled on the lawns by their teachers for 40 minutes in health giving maneuvers of different kinds, were then disbanded and gathered in the chapel, where President Thos. M. Gatch conducted divine worship for 10 minutes, after which the boys and girls commenced the work of the day. Nearly all branches are taught here, including household economics, agriculture, the languages, chemistry, mechanics, electrical engineering and everything else likely to be of practical use to the man or woman of affairs. After a splendid lunch at the girls' dormitory, we were compelled to cut our visit short, but expect to speak of the college in future issues of the paper.

DANCE—In Metzger's Hall, Gresham, Saturday night, Sept. 29. Good music, good time. Metzger, manager.

Continuous Care.

Acquired characteristics, such as the milkier qualities of the dairy cow, which have been developed under favorable conditions, best care and abundant food, are only to an extent hereditary or fixed. The same care, abundance of feed and favorable surroundings must be continued if it is desired to maintain these acquired characteristics.

Seaman, the new "funny man" of London Punch, has taken to lecturing in private houses. Doubtless he was not sure of his ground and recalled the generous offer of America's first humorist, Artemus Ward, to call at the homes of those of his audience who couldn't see through his jokes and explain their intricacies in detail.
