

MONTAVILLA

Rev. T. F. Oberg, who has been seriously ill, continues to improve, but very slowly.

H. E. Happersett spent Christmas with his family. He reports bridge construction work on the S. P. rushing.

S. G. Nickerson has rented the Leach cottage, 511 Olney street and will shortly occupy the same.

S. W. Moore has moved into a cottage on Thurlow street, which he will occupy until his new home in Katherine addition is completed.

The dance given Christmas eve, at Warren's hall by Berg and Marshall, was a great success socially and financially. B. Sloan and partner carried off the prize for the best waltzers.

The Bone and Feather club has two fine turkeys in its treasury. Date of exhibition will be given later.

F. S. Hallock and family are spending the holidays with relatives of Mrs. Hallock at Newberg.

The Baptist Sunday school will hold its Christmas services this Friday evening.

ing. A fine program has been prepared after the rendering of which presents will be distributed among the children present.

J. F. McCaslin has purchased the A. J. Delans property at 209 Wabash avenue. This is one of the most beautiful homes in the Villa, both as to house and grounds.

Miss Emma Godfrey, who has been visiting in Portland for several months, will return to her home in Salem next Sunday. She will be accompanied by Miss Margaret Hansett, who will spend several weeks visiting friends and relatives.

Jas. Hansett spent Christmas in Salem.

The broom factory has closed down for the holidays. It will resume operations after New Year.

Christmas eve was suitably observed by the Sunday school of the M. E. church. A fine program was rendered and a beautiful Christmas tree bore luscious fruit in the shape of presents for the little ones at the close of the exercises. Rev. W. W. Shuler, the superintendent, called the teachers to the platform and presented each of them with a sealed packet, which proved to contain an elegant souvenir card upon which was mounted a life like photograph of himself. A more acceptable gift could not have been given them.

The Herald is under obligations to Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Dickinson for favors last week.

A series of misfortunes, sickness and other unavoidable causes, caused us to carry over a lot of local matter that was gathered almost at the last minute last week.

B. Patterson of Portland was a recent guest of D. H. Perkins.

Mrs. Sarah Goodwin of Hibbard street was married last week to Elizabeth Hawkins.

W. O. Sims, an attorney of Sheridan, Ore., was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. LaRouette last week.

J. W. Gilman, one of Montavilla's most substantial citizens is taking an active interest in the work of the Improvement League, the widening of Villa avenue and an 80 foot boulevard from Portland to Fairview.

Aylesworth and Epton, who recently launched into the real estate business desire to announce to their friends that they have opened an office next to the McCaslin store near the end of the car line and are prepared to deal in real estate of all kinds. They have met with splendid success so far, among the sales made by them in the past few days was the Goodwin farm to Mrs. Woodard, the D. W. Butler property on North Hibbard street to Ed Aylesworth and the house near Woodward hall to L. Goodwin. List your property with them.

Montavilla Circle is well worth spending the time and going the distance to visit. You can always count on a jolly time there. They have organized what they call a "Good Attendance Crusade" and appointed two of the best workers as Captains of the "Sides." The object are to bring in new members, increase attendance of old members and entertain by introducing any novel method of entertainment they know of, for which points will be given. The side getting the least number of points up to the end of the Crusade will entertain the other side by a literary program to which their friends will be invited. On the evening of November 1 they had visitors and after the business was concluded, refreshments in the form of pumpkin pie, doughnuts and coffee were served.—A. R. C.—Pacific Echo.

Russellville Grange Elects Officers

At the last regular meeting, Dec. 22, the Russellville Grange elected the following officers for the ensuing term: master, John Webbes; overseer, Frank Hickman; lecturer, Edna Barrell; steward, Clayton Lewis; assistant steward, John Mickelson; lady assistant steward, Anna Anderson; chaplain, Mrs. W. H. Addie; secretary, Martha Jesma; treasurer, O. Pittman; gatekeeper, E. E. Brown; flora, Mabel Mickelson; pomona, Clara Andersen; ceres, Rosa Littlefield; musicians, Viola Glazier and Julia Mickelson; executive committee, Emmett Huffman, K. W. Gill, and Milton Hager. R. W. Gill, the present master, and Emmett Huffman, the present lecturer, refused to be candidates for reelection and John Webbes, overseer, was promoted to the masters chair. Russellville Grange has made a remarkable growth since its organization sixteen months ago it now has 110 members and is still increasing. It has the largest membership of young people of any grange in the county. Their meetings are well attended averaging about 70 present at each meeting, great enthusiasm and pride is shown among the members. They have a hall fund started with $100 cash on hand. This grange has a dramatic club which is preparing a drama to give this winter. Russellville Grange meets the second and fourth Saturday nights of each month and visitors are always gladly welcomed.

Emmett Huffman is on a trip to La Center, Wash., to deliver a reassignment of nursery stock.

George Gill, of Dufur, Wasco county, Ore., is visiting his brothers this week.

John Wilkes is recovering from a long illness and will soon be able to be about again.
