POWELL VALLEY

Christmas services were held in the Swedish Lutheran church Christmas day at six a. m. with quite a large attendance though the weather was stormy.

The Sunday school entertainment on Christmas day was a success. The church was tastefully decorated and crowded full of people. A good program was rendered, consisting of songs, recitations, dialogues, etc. Rev. E. S. Nystrom delivered an address. The little children did very good and the superintendent reported a good attendance during the year.

The Sunday school entertainment in the Mission church was also very good. The big Christmas tree was very prettily decorated, a big crowd had gathered. Rev. Jonas Johnson gave a very interesting speech.

LUSTEDS

Mr. Wallace Manary who went from here sometime ago to Montana reports that hunting is good since the snow. Wallace was the lucky one to shoot three deer and his brother-in-law, Dick Bradley, two mountain goats in their recent hunt.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Ormsby of Goebel, Ore., came home to spend Christmas with her mother, Mrs. R. Neibauer.

Miss Maud Manary came home to visit her parents over Sunday. Mrs. J. Manary who has been on the sick list is much better.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Mouton spent Saturday evening with E. D. Hamilton.

Miss Kitty Long was home and spent Christmas with her mother, Mrs. R. Neibauer.

We wish to join the editor in saying that the past year has been a prosperous one and we hope the coming year will be as fruitful and we would wish to say to those that are not subscribers of the Herald to subscribe and join us in reading the good story. There are five in our family and we are all anxious to get the paper in fact we can hardly wait for it.

In speaking of Christmas festivities there was none enjoyed better than the one held at W. H. Hamilton at St. Johns which was a complete surprise given by the children on the old folks. There was about thirty-two children and grand-children present, W. H. Hamilton and family of Vancouver, Fitzer Hamilton and family of Gresham and E. D. Hamilton and family of Lusted were part of those present. A good dinner was enjoyed and a good time had by all and we will say we left the old folks in better spirits having found out their children had not forgotten them.

GRANGE AND PRESS.

THE LATTER A STRONG ALLY OF THE FORMER.

"Let's Get an Editor In Every Grange," Said Founder Kelly In 1868 When About to Organize the First Granges.

(Special Correspondence.)

From the incorporation of the Order of Patrons of Husbandry to the present day the newspaper has been the powerful ally of the grange. Its assistance has been sought after by leaders of the movement and its influence has always been appreciated. In 1868, when there was but one subordinate grange in the United States, O. H. Kelly, the originator of the Order, saw the necessity of "getting on the right side" of the editors, and wrote these words to F. M. McDowell, also one of the founders of the Order:

I send a Philadelphia paper today in which you will see a letter by Dr. Trimble. Have a portion of it published in one of your papers. Interest an editor in the grange that is to be established in your neighborhood, so as to have his aid. Take editors in "deadhead" and let's see if it will fall. Let us get an editor in every grange!

The above shows Brother Kelly's faith in the success of the Order and likewise the estimate which he frankly placed on the editor's value to the grange, because of the publicity which he was in a position to give it. When Brother Kelly started out on his first tour of organization, he says in his history that the influence of the village press was what he most desired to secure.

In making his monthly report to the national grange, among other things he wrote:

I can now report to you the friendly aid of five agricultural papers whose columns are open to our cause—viz, the Prairie Farmer, Chicago; Farmers' Chronicle, Columbus, O.; Ohio Farmer, Cleveland, O.; Rural World, St. Louis; Farmers' Union, Minneapolis. Besides these, the various daily and weekly papers in this state (Minnesota) will publish any matter to advance our interests.

We have given sufficient testimony to the fact that the press was deemed almost a sine qua non to the success of the grange in its early days. And we wish to emphasize the statement that the Order would not have been the success that it is without the substantial aid given it by the press of the country. In this opinion all who are familiar with the progress of the Order will agree.

KELSO.

The new plank road is now finished.

Miss Annie Jarl, who has been spending the holidays at home will return to Portland, where she will resume her studies at High school.

Miss Annie Nelson has returned home after spending a month in Seattle, Washington.

In last week's Herald there was a mistake in the following item: "The school recently purchased a beautiful new flag." It said place for flag.

And what is the explanation? It lies in the fact that country editors, as well as the editors of smaller dailies, who are in close touch with their constituents, believe it to be their high privilege and their duty to help along every worthy cause, and they do it unselfishly and for the public good. It is unfair and unkind to attribute to them any ulterior motives. Figured in dollars and cents, the returns they receive for the publicity they give the grange are as nothing to the cost of it. The average editor does more for the community in which he lives than any ten millionaires who may be his neighbors.

It becomes, then, the plain duty of the grange to manifest, on occasion may permit, a due appreciation of the assistance rendered the organization by the public press. We are glad to note in the annual addresses of our various state masters their appreciative words of the press. We make a single extract from one of them, which says:

Again have we cause to express our hearty appreciation of the valuable service rendered our Order the past year by the press, both the strictly agricultural papers and the daily and weekly newspapers as well. To such publicity, wisely directed, much of our success may be attributed, and if we are wise we shall continue to avail ourselves of the opportunities for extension of grange principles afforded through the kindness of the newspapers.

It wasn't so bad an idea of Founder Kelly, after all, that impelled him to say, "Let's get an editor in every grange." The only exception we take to the suggestion is that there are not editors enough to go round. But the editor may be invited to your public meetings and your picnics, and his report of them will be more to the point and more helpful to the Order than anything a less tactful or less facile writer might contribute. As you meet him thank him for any good word spoken for the Order or any writup he may have given your meetings or for the grange column which he may publish every week. He will appreciate your appreciation of his efforts—believe that!

Just so long as the Order of Patrons of Husbandry "behaves itself" (to use an expressive term) so long will it find in the press an earnest advocate and friend. Just so soon as it does things unworthy of itself, its avowed principles and declared purposes, so soon will it be likely to find in the press a severe but just critic and opponent. And why should it not? J. W. D.

Women and Office Holding.

The Governor of Indiana has appointed Miss Mary A. Stubbs, State Statistician, to fill the vacancy in that office caused by the death of her father. The office is an elective one. Commenting on Miss Stubbs' appointment a leading Indiana newspaper says, "If she is competent to fill an office in the gift of the people, why is she not competent to vote for a person to fill the place?"
