Ridout—Peterson Wedding.

The parlor of the Montavilla hotel was the scene of a happy wedding on Christmas day, when Rev. Harold Oberg of the M. E. church tied the knot which made Miss Anna Peterson and Mr. C. L. Ridout one in the eyes of the law and according to the divine decree. The wedding took place at five p. m. and was attended by a few intimate relatives and friends. Miss Della Burns acted the part of bridesmaid and Mr. Vernai Herman as best man. Supper was served at six o'clock, Mrs. Herman doing the part of hostess. The bride wore a beautiful white silk dress with lace trimmings and orange blossoms, the groom looking his best in the regulation black. Mr. and Mrs. Ridout will make their home in Montavilla for the present. The Herald joins their many friends in extending congratulations and best wishes.

is in a miserable condition. Improvement League, can't you hustle up the city officials and have them advertise for bids? Rubber boots will soon be a necessity for pedestrians on this street unless something is soon done.

Have you fastened up your cow yet? Look out for the poundmaster.

Installation of officers of the United Artisans occurred Monday evening. After which an elegant oyster supper was served. O. A. Stevens is the newly elected, Master Artisan; J. W. Mills and Mrs. Mills were re-elected secretary and treasurer respectively. Other officers are Neil Laylor, Morrel Matlock and J. C. Martin.

OLD STYLE LANGSHAN.

At any rate, many of the British breeders are arguing that the Langshan, under the requirements of the modern standard of perfection, is losing the characteristics which first made the breed popular and that its former remarkable utility qualities are being literally refined out of it. There is probably a kernel of truth in this charge but the first experiment looking toward what seems to be a step backward in poultry culture will be watched with interest. The illustration here with gives an excellent idea of a Langshan cock of the old type.

Snuffles in Belgian Hares.

The most common disease and perhaps the worst that the Belgian hare is subject to is snuffles. In the treatment of this disease aim to build up the system, says a writer in American Poultry Advocate. Give food that is extra nourishing, put a little tincture of iron in the drinking water and the animal will probably be able to throw off the disease. If you feed a mash put a spoonful of flaxseed in it, and if it is simply a case of sneezing and discharge from the nose resulting from a slight cold nothing more in the way of treatment will be required. It will be well to spray the nose with lukewarm water to which a little salt has been added. After sneezing wipe dry.
