

Necessaries for the Cook

If the old adage is true that the way to win a man's heart is through his stomach then we are the instruments for furnishing necessaries for the discriminating cook.

As in the past, we shall endeavor to carry a full line of Red Cross and Monopole goods which are the best. Also a full line of the leading brands of Footwear, Overalls, Jumpers, Shirts, Underwear and Hosiery. We also carry a fine line of hand made Trunks and Suit Cases. If you are wanting Hardware, Tools, Stoves, or nearly anything used on the farm come and see us. We will treat you right.

Once there was an old maid who said she did not need to marry, she had a parrot that swore, a monkey that chewed tobacco and a cat that went out nights. The man who has an Edison Phonograph might say he never needs to go anywhere for amusement as he has an instrument that will play dance music, sing the popular songs, tell funny stories, render the old ballads, give selections from grand opera and play ragtime, all with equal facility.

Women Who Do

Mrs. Alexander, the Newly Elected Trustee of the State University of Illinois, is a Highly Successful Business Woman

The state political tickets of each party in Illinois bore the name of a woman candidate. Mrs. Carrie T. Alexander, nominated for trustee of the state university on the Republican ticket, won. Mrs. Alexander is a prominent and public spirited citizen of Belleville. She is a widow. Her husband, Henry A. Alexander, was manager of several street car lines and had other commercial interests. All these, including the operation of the street car lines, Mrs. Alexander took on herself at his death and conducted them with signal ability. A woman successful in private business enterprises can be trusted with large public ones.

Tel Hinomiya.

Among free scholarships at Smith college is one allotted to girls from foreign lands. This scholarship is now held by a charming maiden from Japan, Miss Tel Hinomiya. She is in the freshman year. The patience, industry and earnestness manifested at school by the little brown girl from the orient put to shame many an American feminine college student. Tel Hinomiya works in the college dining room three hours daily to earn her board. Her father is one of Japan's new men, and he encourages his daughter in her aspiration to be a new woman. He conducts a school at Matsuyama, and his daughter noticed how difficult it was for him to get instructors who could teach English. It was then that she resolved to come to America, take a college course and go back to Japan as a teacher. She is a graduate of the Concord (Mass.) High school and delights in mathematics.

A Woman Olive Grower.

The ripe olive trade of California is not actually founded was pioneered and owes much of its present flourishing condition to a woman, Mrs. F. Ehmann. Always interested in olive culture and preserving, Mrs. Ehmann came to deal with the fruit commercially eight years ago. Her specialty was ripe olives, both producing oil and pickling and shipping the ripe olives themselves. She had experimented enough to discover superior processes of extracting the oil; also of pickling ripe olives. These she considers far better for the digestion than the crude, hard, green olives bottled and sold by grocers.

Mrs. Ehmann began her ripe olive enterprise in a small way financially, but she knew her business and had undying determination to succeed in it. The first year she sold only 200 gallons of pickled ripe olives and oil. Now her trade amounts annually to 100,000 gallons. She is at the head of a large company composed of members of her own family. They operate a factory 200 feet long, which contains all the machinery most approved for pickling olives and extracting oil. Even with all these facilities the demand for Mrs. Ehmann's products is greater than she can supply. She is an enthusiast in her chosen line of work. She tells visitors how the dried ripe olive may be eaten like figs or dates and that it will to a considerable extent take the place of meat. The woman pioneer in the ripe olive trade is now well to do. Grit and perseverance always win out.

Woman Pleads For Cattle In Transit

At the annual meeting of the New York Federation of Women's Clubs was read a paper written by Mrs. Minnie Madden Fiske, the distinguished actress. Its aim was to induce women's clubs all over the country to unite in an effort to stop the cruel treatment of food animals in long railroad trips from west to east. Mrs. Fiske's practical suggestion in the case was that those animals be slaughtered on the ranges where they have been fattened and their meat then shipped in refrigerator cars to eastern cities. In her theatrical tours through the country Mrs. Fiske declares she has been many a time sickened by the sufferings of the dumb brutes in cattle cars. One winter in Michigan a car that had been filled with live beaves at the starting point was unloaded before her eyes with every animal frozen stiff.

Notice for Publication. Timber Land, Act June 3, 1878. United States Land Office, Portland, Oregon, October 29, 1896. Notice is hereby given that in compliance with the provisions of the act of Congress of June 3, 1878, entitled "An act for the sale of timber lands in the States of California, Oregon, Nevada, and Washington Territory," as extended to all the Public Land States by act of August 4, 1892, Joseph R. Cooney, of Portland county of Multnomah, State of Oregon, has this day filed in this office his sworn statement No. 297, for the purchase of the S. 12 of N. W. 14 of Section No. 13, in Township No. 1 North Range No. 2 East and will offer ground to show that the land sought is more valuable for timber or stone than for agricultural purposes, and to establish his claim to said land before Register and Receiver at Portland, Oregon, on Wednesday the 17th day of April, 1907. He names as witnesses: Charles Cooney of Portland, Oregon, Edward Trickey of Palmer, Oregon, C. O. GILSWORTH of Portland, Oregon, J. T. Bagley of Hood River, Oregon. Any and all persons claiming adversely the above described lands are requested to file their claims in this office on or before said 17th day of April, 1907. ALGERNON DRESSER, Register. First publication Feb. 15, 1907; last publication Apr. 12, 1907.

Taxing Planes in France. The monster which French lawgivers intend to attack is ubiquitous. Its name is "plano," and the minister of finance seriously thinks of proposing a tax on those instruments not used in a professional capacity, and they, of course, form the majority. There are in France about 500,000 planos, and a tax of, say, 10 shillings would bring in the respectable sum of £250,000. It is very tempting to a minister who struggles with an annual deficit.—London Bystander.

A Simpler Way. "She caught her husband making love to the hired girl." "I suppose she discharged the girl at once." "Oh, no, she discharged her husband. Girls are much harder to get than husbands these days."

PERT PARAGRAPHS. Although the world is your oyster, you sometimes have to dive into a sea of trouble to bring it to the surface. Some women regard a husband merely as a sort of wireless instrument for communicating with the bank.

WOOD SHED. If the child were really the father to the man he would take the old gent into the woodshed occasionally and give him a talking to.
