SECTION LINE
Death of Mrs. J. Winters

Our little bug was shocked to its center by the sad news of the death of Mrs. John Winters which occurred in the early hours of last Tuesday morning. With but comparatively a few hours of illness, caused by spinal meningitis, she was taken away to that bourn from whence no traveler returns.

She was laid to rest in the Gresham cemetery beside her husband, whose death occurred over two years ago.

Mrs. Winters was aged 67 years, was born in Hamburg, Germany. She was the mother of several children, among them being, Louis, Anna Allshouse, May Burtonshaw and a son and daughter in the east.

One by one the pioneers are passing on, the hands which cleared the land and made possible the beautiful homes, are crossed on quiet hearts, not forgotten, but enjoying the long sweet rest so well deserved.

HIGH SCHOOL RALLY WILL BE SATURDAY

J. H. Ackerman and R. F. Robinson Will Speak—All Should Attend.

The citizens of Gresham have invited the good people of adjoining school districts to join them Saturday afternoon in a general educational rally to decide on the best course to pursue to secure the needful high school privileges for the boys and girls of eastern Multnomah county.

State Superintendent J. H. Ackerman and County Superintendent R. F. Robinson will be present to answer any questions that may come up relative to the new union high school law.

The Oregon Water Power Railway brings much territory in the southern part of Multnomah county and northern Clackamas county within reach of Gresham. The Troutdale spur and the new railroad now being surveyed bring all districts east of Russellville and west of the Sandy river within reach of this center. Let us then lay aside any local differences that may exist and all work together for a strong union high school that will give the children of all this eastern part of the county educational advantages as good as those of the city.

Separate petitions will be prepared and any districts desiring to unite with Gresham district for high school purposes only will have a chance to vote on the matter at the annual school meeting. The voters of Gresham will vote "yes" or "no" on the question of consolidating with each district that petitions to come into the union.

If the union high school district is formed it will be governed for the first year by a board of five appointed by the district boundary board. At the first annual meeting following, a board of five will be elected by the voters of the union district, the vote being taken in the annual school meeting of the respective districts. These retire one each year and one new director will be elected to fill the vacancy.

Circulars have been mailed to school patrons of the surrounding districts by the board of district No. 4, requesting their presence at the meeting on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The letter said in the Grange hall, but it was later found impossible to hold it there and the meeting will be in the old Methodist church building.

Take a half holiday on Saturday and come to this rally. Come prepared to ask questions and to lend your influence toward a union high school which shall be accessible to the youth of this section. Your counsel and advice are needed. Come!

Child Burned to Death

(Mrs. John Miller, mother of the little girl mentioned below, is the daughter of Rev. D. L. McLain and a sister of Mrs. J. W. Lawrence and Mrs. P. Mitchell of Gresham.)

A sad accident occurred at Wilbur, April 26, 1907, resulting two days later in the death of Alta Irene Miller, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Miller. Her clothes caught fire from the fireplace. The flames were quickly extinguished by her aunt, Mrs. Inez Miller, who wrapped a quilt around the child, but not soon enough to save the little life. No one could be blamed for the accident. The external burns were serious, but not fatal. Death resulted from inhaling the heat, which burned the tongue, throat and bronchial tubes. A large funeral and an abundance of beautiful flowers and decorations showed the sympathy of the entire community, and the esteem in which the little one was held by all who knew her. The members of the Junior League marched by the grave, each dropping flowers on her last resting place.

Alta was an interesting, intelligent and affectionate child for her age. It was her custom to run and meet her father in the evening when he was coming home from work. Only those who had such a loss can realize what a vacant place is left when a loving child is gone from the home, and to know these little incidents in the activities of every day life must cease forever. She loved all the church services and was especially devoted to the Sunday school and Junior League, to which she belonged. The evening before she was burned she repeated the twenty-third Psalm, little realizing she was soon to walk with the Good Shepherd through the valley of the shadow of death. She also sang her favorite song, "The Little Ones of Bethlehem" and "No, Not One," the chorus of which she often repeated:

"Jesus knows all about our struggles,
He will guide till the day is done,
There's not a friend like the lowly Jesus,
No, not one; no, not one."

But such little ones who come and go so soon have an important mission in the world, not of great deeds or words of wisdom, but lessons of trust and simplicity that touch the deepest chords of our nature, bind us close to heaven and leaves us richer in all the best things of this life.

Hurry Means Worry.

Time was when one started on a journey without giving a thought to the perils of the road. Now no one ventures without more or less apprehension, a state of things not conducive to the comfort of travelers. The world managed to jog along in very comfortable fashion, to transact its business, pay its visits and enjoy its pleasures, before there were any railroads, and it can make no serious difference to any one whether he is eighteen or twenty-four or thirty hours in going a thousand mile journey. Let us give the railroad authorities to understand that we want them to slow down till travel becomes safer.

The reckless rate of speed which we have grown accustomed to is only the manifestation of the general rush and hurry of our lives on the side of travel. We should get more out of existence, prolong it and make it more rational, tranquil and enjoyable if we set a less rapid pace all around.

During the quarter of a century that Commander Robert E. Peary has been in the navy he has been relieved from regular duty for more than fifteen years. And now the navy department has granted the explorer three years' leave of absence for the purpose of making another search for the north pole. At sea Peary's salary as commander is $3,500, on shore it is $3,000, and on leave of absence it is $2,300.

Lieutenant E. R. W. McCabe of the Sixth cavalry has been ordered by the war department to ride a horse of the Arabian strain from Portland, Ore., to New York city, a distance of 3,181 miles, to test the endurance of the animal and to determine the value of the breed for cavalry purposes. Up to date the American horse holds the record for long distance cavalry marches on this continent.
