Additional Gresham Locals

Bigger and the Misses Rachel and Constance King, all of Portland, visited Mrs. Kate Anderson and daughter Hope last week.

A. F. Johnson, one of the Herald's staunch friends, paid us a pleasant visit Tuesday. Friend Johnson is one of the many who are making a splendid financial success of farming in East Multnomah.

D. C. Ross, a progressive farmer of Pleasant Home, dropped in to see the editor last Tuesday, and to say that he proposes to take more than a passive interest in the fair. He will be on hand Saturday and count one on the fair buildings, and will also see that Pleasant Home is represented by a fine line of farm exhibits. D. C. is after that Studebaker wagon, and is liable to land it, too.

Dr. L. Dechmann, and E. J. Davidson of the Fairbanks-Morse Co., were callers at the Herald office the fore part of the week. Mr. Davidson is arranging a big exhibit at the fair for his company, and will put in a big pumping plant for the use of the horticultural department.

L. H. Wells, the Oregonian's special correspondent for the East Side district, and a member of the fair publicity committee, was a visitor in Gresham last Monday. Mr. Wells is a staunch friend of East Multnomah, and has done as much as any one man toward making the big fair known to all Oregon.

Miss Kate Simpson of Woodlawn and Miss Vivian Sprague of Portland visited their cousin, Mrs. O. L. Neal, on Saturday.

Mrs. Chas. Witter and Miss Filkins of Cedar District were shopping in Gresham a few days ago.

Mrs. Frank Heiney and Mrs. Alva Hevel were doing business in Gresham last Saturday.

Mrs. Mary Leslie entertained her daughter, Mrs. Orland Zeek, and family of Pleasant Home and also her daughter, Mrs. Alva Hevel, and family, Sunday.

W. W. Clark, one of the Herald's warm friends, paid the editor a pleasant visit last Saturday.

J. L. Hicklin of Troutdale, who has been suffering from various ailments for several months, is now at Portland sanitarium, where he will receive medical treatment for a month or six weeks.

O. M. Richey, a popular and prosperous young farmer of Barton, while doing business in Gresham recently, dropped into the Herald office to assure the editor of the fact that he couldn't very well get along without "The Popular Home Weekly."

The many friends of Newton Orr, until recently the popular stage man of Sandy, will be glad to learn of his marriage September 26 to Miss Gertrude Schnitzer, one of Portland's finest girls. Mr. and Mrs. Orr will make their home at 1186 Union avenue, Portland. Mr. Orr has engaged, with a number of others, in the stone and cement business in the metropolis, where he will be pleased to greet his numerous friends.

P. J. Quesberry and wife were doing business in Gresham last Saturday.

Robert Tassel, the Cottrell merchant, was looking after business interests in Gresham on Saturday of last week.

The Gresham public and high school now has an enrollment of 180, of which number 40 are in the high school grades, with four in the twelfth grade.

Dr. S. P. Bittner and Miss Nellie and Harold Swafford of Oregon City were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Clananah Sunday. Mr. Swafford surprised his friends while here with his splendid whistling ability.

Mrs. E. M. Douglas, chairman of the ladies' needlework department for the fair, has appointed Mrs. John Clananah chairman of that department for Gresham. Mrs. Clananah has appointed the following ladies to assist her. Mesdames Emery, Forrester, Kenney and Wilkenson.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gibbs expect to move into their new home east of Gresham tomorrow.

Frank Gibbs suffered severely from a sliver in his eye last Wednesday.

Mrs. Chas. Lewis of Montavilla was a Gresham visitor this week. She reports that they are doing well financially and like their new home very much indeed. While here, Mrs. Lewis arranged for the continued visits from The Popular Home Weekly, Beaver State Herald.

Orin Byers of Independence has been visiting his uncle, Wm. Byers, of late. Miss McNeil was out from Portland Sunday, visiting Miss Inez Lusted.

S. F. Steele of Troutdale was a visitor at the Herald office this week. He is thinking of leaving his place and living in Portland this winter.

Secretary Thorpe and H. C. Schellhorn, manager of the poultry department of the Multnomah County and Grange Fair and Carnival, were boosting affairs of the latter's department in Gresham last Friday.

Mrs. Gust Larson is visiting a sister in Washington.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Childers will regret to learn of the serious illness of their baby boy.

John D. Regner and Max Davies have kept The Herald office in a state of uproar for several days this week. They are tearing down the private office of the editor in the rear of the main building and rebuilding the same in the front part of the building. The improvement will doubtless be complete tomorrow.

Louis Ekstrom of Ekstrom Bros. of Powell Valley was a Herald visitor last week on his way to Portland. Ekstrom Bros. are making a success of their business by means of up-to-date methods and fair dealings.

Dr. J. P. Powell was doing business in the metropolis Saturday.

Home Training Association Meets

At the meeting of the Home Training association last Friday afternoon, plans were laid for a year of aggressive work. The president, Mrs. J. D. Sullivan, suggested that the association follow up one particular line of work, and mentioned "Home Employment for Girls" as a subject of live interest. Nothing better was offered, and the women decided to study conditions and make an effort to see if remunerative employment can not be furnished to girls in their homes, so that they will not be compelled to leave home for the stores and factories in order to earn a living.

Some of the best speakers in Oregon have already been secured for this year's program, and the entire list will be published later.

A special program committee, with Miss Harriet Thayer as chairman, will provide at least three popular numbers for each program.

The next meeting will be held in the schoolhouse, Friday, Oct. 18. A large audience is desired.

Death of Oregon Pioneer

Captain Chas. LaFollette, a pioneer of 1849, died Sept. 23 at the home of his son, C. C. LaFollette, at the age of 78 years.

Captain LaFollette was a man of large intellect and broad culture. Coming to Oregon in the early days, he was well known as a professor of penmanship in Willamette university, and also as a gifted extemporaneous speaker.

During the greater part of his life he was active in politics, choosing rather the side he thought right than following his party blindly. He was twice elected to the state legislature, and all through his long life stood on the side of right.

honor in favor of the defendant. It appears that defendant Floss had tied a horse in Benfield's barn. The horse got loose, and is believed to have killed a coil of plaintiff's valued at $150. The plaintiff brought suit on the grounds that defendant negligently tied the animal in the stall, and placed him in the barn without permission from the plaintiff.

Reckless Shooting

While S. F. Steele and wife of Troutdale were about to sit down to supper Sunday night, someone riding past on horseback fired at the house. The ball from a 32-caliber revolver entered the side window, struck the wainscoting, bounced to the other side of the room and fell on the couch. Had the inmates been seated at the table it is quite certain someone would have been hit. This is not the first time random shots have been fired in the neighborhood.

Herald, has moved from Boring to Park Place, Oregon.

W. J. Mickelson of Russellville was in Gresham last Friday. Mr. Mickelson is an enthusiastic supporter of the fair and will have a good showing of fruits on exhibition.

Mrs. A. D. Giese and Ray Kesterson, her grandson, were callers at The Herald office last Saturday. Mrs. Giese is very enthusiastic over the prospects of the county fair and thinks every farmer in Multnomah county should take an active interest in the exhibits.

Why send your work elsewhere when we can do it for you here just as cheap and just as well or better?
