There is an old fashioned precaution of keeping a goat in a stable. Supposing always that the animals are loose, the goat will leave the stable on the outbreak of a fire, and the horses will follow the goat when no amount of persuasion from man will get the terrified creatures to budge.—London Mail.

"Thought you said you had plowed that ten acre field?" said the first farmer.

"No. I only said I was thinking about plowing it," said the second farmer.

"Oh, I see. You've merely turned it over in your mind."

Mr. Chellus (sternly)—I've come for an explanation.

Miss Gidday—About what?

Mr. Chellus—I want to know what you mean by being engaged to Jack Gayman and to me at one and the same time.

Miss Gidday—Nothing.

A successful competitor for a cup as a prize in a foot race at Savannah made this graceful temperance speech in accepting it: "Gentlemen, I have won this cup by the use of my legs. I trust I may never lose the use of my legs by the use of this cup."—Kansas City Journal.

Sunday School Teacher—Tommy, the lesson says it is more blessed to give than to receive. Can you give me an example in which that is true?

Tommy Tucker—Yes'm. It's when maw's away from home and 'stead of writin' to paw she sends him picture cards.—Chicago Tribune.

A curious incident happened during a stag hunt on Exmoor, England. After a fine gallop the stag was taken, and in his struggles he upset several hounds. Hounds and field were routed, and it was some time before the stag's body could be recovered by men swathed in muslin.

On Monday an offer was made to the experienced wood-pulley men, who have been receiving $2.50, to take them on again for $1.75 but the men refused.

Information for Subscribers

Under this head we will answer a limited variety of questions relative to the farm or home provided they do not require extreme technical knowledge and are brief.

J. In what manner must a barbed wire fence be constructed to be a lawful fence? W. L. M. C.

Section 4348, Oregon laws, specifies that a barbed wire fence must have a board six inches wide, one inch thick or pole four inches in diameter, not less than eight inches below the top wire.

Geo. K.—Try the following simple remedy to clear your poultry house of vermin: For keeping lice and mites out of the poultry house I have tried quite a few remedies, but the best yet is green cedar. Clip off an arched green twig, put them in a kettle, put a shovelful of live coals on it and close the door and windows tight. When you go in again you will not get any lice on you. A little sulphur thrown on the burning twigs will give better results.

If E. L. will follow this advice his trouble may be avoided: The well-being of the entire body depends greatly on the care given the feet. The feet should be washed daily in tepid water with soap, finishing with a dash of cold water. This will quicken the circulation and prevent the feet becoming too sensitive or cold. Callouses and corns will not occur if the feet are washed often. Half an ounce of Borax to a pint and a half of water makes a good rinsing solution. Boracic acid in powder may be dusted on feet which perspire disagreeably. If feet are sweaty or too moist, rinse in water containing a little powdered alum, vinegar or ammonia.

Mrs. G. C.—The best time to transfer bees is during fruit bloom while the bees are bringing in honey, at which time there is less danger from robber bees. There are several ways of transferring; the old way of cutting open the old hive and transferring the combs to the frames, and fastening them in with wire or twine is a disagreeable job. A better way is to have your new hive ready with full sheets of foundation in each frame, then when the bees swarm, have them in the new hive; place the new hive where the old one was and set the old one back of the new one. Seven days after swarming place the old hive on top of the new one. Twenty-one days after swarming all the brood in the old hive will be hatched out, then dump all the bees out of the old hive in front of the new one, and nothing remains in the old hive but some old comb which you can reduce to wax. Your colony will then be in good condition to harvest a crop of white clover honey if we have a good season.

SIMPLE HOME RECIPE.

Mix This Simple, Helpful Recipe at Home and Try It, Anyway.

Get from any prescription pharmacist the following:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Shake well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful dose after each meal and at bedtime.

The above is considered by an eminent authority, who writes in a New York daily paper, as the finest preparation ever written to relieve Backache, Kidney Trouble, Weak Bladder, and all forms of Urinary difficulties. This mixture acts promptly on the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys, enabling them to filter and strain the uric acid and other waste matter from the blood which causes Rheumatism.

Some persons who suffer with the afflictions may not feel inclined to place much confidence in this simple mixture, yet those who have tried it say the results are simply surprising, the relief being effected without the slightest injury to the stomach or other organs.

Mix some and give it a trial. It certainly comes highly recommended. It is the prescription of an eminent authority, whose entire reputation, it is said, was established by it.

A druggist here at home, when asked stated that he could either supply the ingredients or mix the preparation for our readers, also recommends it as harmless.
