

BEAVER STATE HERALD

Succeeding Gresham Vindicator, Gresham Gazette, East Multnomah Record, Multnomah Record and Montavilla Herald.

Published Every Friday at Gresham, Ore., by the BEAVER STATE PUBLISHING CO.
H. A. DARNALL, EDITOR AND MANAGER.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES: Per Year, $1.50 strictly in advance. In foreign countries, $2.00. Six months $1.00. Three months $0.75. Single copies 5c. Ask for clubbing rates.

REMITTANCES: Should be sent by Express or Postoffice Money Order, Registered Letter or Check. Checks accepted up to 30 cents.

RECEIPTS: For subscriptions are not sent unless requested. The label on your paper will indicate within two weeks the receipt of your remittance. If it does not please notify us.

DISCONTINUANCES: In keeping with well recognized business principles, all subscriptions will be stopped promptly upon expiration of time paid for.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS: In ordering change of address give old as well as new address.

DISCONTINUANCES: In keeping with well recognized business principles, all subscriptions will be stopped promptly upon expiration of time paid for.

ADVERTISING RATES: LOCAL ADVERTISING, set in headed six point, 10c per line first insertion; 5c per line each subsequent insertion. DISPLAY ADVERTISING—No position guaranteed—25c per single column inch each issue. Liberal discount allowed for either time or space advertisements, but not both.

FOR POSITION (any size) 5c per inch additional. READERS: 10c per line first insertion, 5c per line each subsequent insertion. LOCALS (want columns only), 1c a word each issue, counting two figures, an initial or an abbreviation as one word. No local accepted for less than 15 cents. PROFESSIONAL CARDS (one inch), 25c each issue. CARDS OF THANKS (not exceeding two lines), 50 cents. LETTERS OF CONDOLENCE (not exceeding four lines), $1.00. OBITUARIES for actual subscribers or members of their families, up to 100 words, free; all over 100 words, 1c a word (strictly in advance). Count the words and remit accordingly.

All Log, Grange, School, Church, or other notices or advertisements of societies, parties, dances, concerts, theatricals, etc., given for a profit, charged for at regular rates.

In order to insure change of ad. advertisers must have copy in this office not later than Tuesday preceding day of publication.

JOB PRINTING: is our specialty. We are well equipped to do the best work at current prices. Especially farmers' and business men's Letter Heads, Envelopes, Butter Wrappers, Stationery, etc., in small or large quantities. Auction Bills, Badgers, Posters, etc., printed on short notice.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Gresham, Oregon.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The eastern end of the county will not lack for opportunity to exhibit its patriotism this year, in the way of Fourth of July celebration. Latest developments are a celebration at Gresham, of which we will speak at more length next week. Let no one worry, there are enough people in the county to make several successful glorious Fourth.

We have been watching the reports from various places where the market day plan has been tried. Tho we were not prepared to give it a support based on experience, from our understanding such an enterprise can be handled from Gresham very successfully. The location of the place is favorable. Good roads lead in all directions. We are in the midst of one of the most productive areas in the state. Hay, grain, vegetables, fruit, stock, and natural products are on every side. An occasional gathering of the people in this district will promote social good feeling and the business interests as well. Let us keep the movement going and spare no opportunity to make it a success.

The announcement that there is still some doubt as to who shall be our next United States Senator from Oregon might cause us some surprise if such attempted disrupt of public trust had not been anticipated. The majority of candidates for the Legislature were elected to carry out the will of the people in this matter and if they have any honor they will not disappoint their constituents, were the popular candidate an anarchist. But Mr. Chamberlain is a most useful, good citizen. If he differs from us in some matters, we concede that he doubtless will do all he can for the state. It is a little humorous, however, to see him posing as a non-partisan candidate.

The action of the city council in its work of Monday evening should not pass unnoticed. To accomplish so much in so short a time would suggest that our city fathers are of a very unusual sort. First demanding our commendation is the proposition to erect a suitable band stand. The boys should vote them thanks and serenade the members of the council individually. The plan to enforce the closing of saloons on Sunday should meet the approval of every one, the saloon men themselves. They need a change of atmosphere as well as the rest of us. That the selling of liquors and tobacco to minors should be prevented goes without question. And the proposed ordinance to compel the saloons to close after midnight is perfectly proper. There is no occasion for an all night business in anything at present running in the town. It suggests possible illegitimate proceedings when we see that a day's work cannot be done in a day and in the day light at that.

The decision to celebrate the Fourth properly at Gresham was a little late but that need not interfere with its success. Such affairs are more frequently hurt by having too much time than by want of it. The work of arranging details will be accomplished before it gets tiresome. Don't worry, Gresham will show you as good as the best.

GRANGE DIRECTORY

Oregon State Grange Officers.

Master, Austin T. Buxton, Forest Grove
Overseer, A. T. Shumaker, Central Point
Lecturer, J. Johnson, Portland
Steward, W. A. Young, Astoria
Assistant Steward, E. W. Staats, Astoria
Chaplain, Oscar Eaton, Oswego
Treasurer, H. Hirschberg, Independence
Secretary, Mrs. Mary S. Howard, Madras
Liaison Keeper, I. S. Lambert, Stayton
Penman, Mrs. L. E. Miller, Albany
Ceres, Mrs. Cora Legg, St. Helens
Flora, Mrs. Susie Wells, Clifton
Lady Steward, Mrs. K. K. Brown, Clatskanie

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE:
Austin T. Buxton, Forest Grove
C. E. Spence, Clatskanie
Eugene Palmer, Albany

LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE:
Austin T. Buxton, Forest Grove
A. J. Hill, Hood River
F. M. Gill, Estacada

(Granges are requested to send to The Herald information so that a brief card can be run under this heading free. Send place, day and hour of meeting.)

MULTNOMAH GRANGE, No. 71. Meets the fourth Saturday in every month at 10:30 a. m., in Campbell's hall, Orient.

CLACKAMAS GRANGE meets first Saturday of each month at 10:30 a. m., and third Saturday at 7:30 p. m.

PLEASANT VALLEY GRANGE No. 248. Meets second Saturday at 7:30 p. m., and fourth Saturday at 10:30 a. m., every month.

ROCKWOOD GRANGE meets the first Wednesday of each month at 8 p. m., and third Saturday at 10 a. m.

FAIRVIEW GRANGE meets first Wednesday at 10:30 a. m., third Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, each month.

RUSSELLVILLE GRANGE, No. 333. Meets in Russellville schoolhouse on the second and fourth Saturday nights in each month.

EVENING STAR GRANGE meets in their hall at South Mount Tabor on the first Saturday of each month at 10 a. m. All visitors are welcome.

GRESHAM GRANGE meets second Saturday in each month at 10:30 a. m.

DAMASCUS GRANGE, No. 280. Meets first Saturday of each month at 10:30 a. m.

LENTS GRANGE meets second Saturday of each month at 10:30 a. m.

CLACKAMAS GRANGE, No. 298. Meets the first Saturday in the month at 10:30 a. m., and the third Saturday at 7:30 p. m.

COLUMBIA GRANGE No. 367. Meets in all day session first Saturday in each month in Grange hall near Corbett.

GRANGE NEWS IN BRIEF

Pomona Grange meets June 17th, the third Wednesday in June, at Pleasant Valley near Sycamore station on the O. W. P. electric line.

At the last meeting of Evening Star grange on June 6th there was the usual attendance of members and visitors and nine candidates were initiated in the first and second degrees.

This was Flora's day and the program was in charge of the Worthy Flora, Miss Lela Johnson. It was also Children's day and the members of the Juvenile grange gave some very interesting readings, recitations and music. Others who took part were Sister H. L. Vail, who rendered a solo, J. G. Kelley, a solo, and Prof. H. A. Darnell who gave a reading, "Romance of Flowers."

Several pieces of instrumental music were rendered by pupils from the Oregon Conservatory of music. Brother Johnson spoke about the session of the last state grange to which he was a delegate and was elected to the office of lecturer.

The next meeting will be held on the evening of July 1st at 7:30 so as to avoid the Fourth of July as that is the regular meeting time. The program for that evening will be in charge of the men and the sisters are looking forward to something nice.

National Temperance Congress.

In the year 1808 there was organized in the town of Moreau, New York, the first temperance society of Moreau and Northumberland of Saratoga county. The moving spirit in the organization was Dr. Billy J. Clark. In his work of faithfully ministering to the sick he had exceptional opportunities for observing and studying the effects upon the people of the drink habit, and became greatly roused upon the subject. The increase and marked disastrous effect of the habit pressed heavily upon his heart.

During the winter of 1808 at a court of common appeal Dr. Clark attempted to organize a central county temperance society, but without success. All the members of both bar and bench pronounced the proposed project visionary and impracticable, but Dr. Clark was not discouraged. On a stormy night in the spring of 1808 after a day of toil and anxiety among his patients, dripping with rain and covered with mud, he unceremoniously entered the parsonage of his pastor, abruptly accosting the pastor with the words, "Sir, we will become a community of drunks unless something is speedily done to arrest the progress of intemperance." As a result of his agitation, a meeting was called to form a temperance society. It was held in the public house of Captain Peter Mawney of Clark's corner. Resolutions were adopted, the chief of which was that "In the opinion of this meeting it is proper, practical and necessary to form a temperance society in this place. The chief object of this society is wholly to abstain from ardent spirits."

Dr. Billy Clark was elected secretary and Honorable Sidney Berry president. To celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of this first society, a world's temperance centennial congress will be held at Saratoga near Moreau. All temperance societies throughout the entire world will participate in this unique celebration, also all churches and many other organizations.

Among other interesting features of the congress will be a "Department of Exhibits." This will embrace literature, historical scientific advertising, covering bills, cartoons, billboards, etc., also public utterances, resolutions passed by organization and political parties and hygienic foods, such as non-alcoholic extracts and drinks. Another feature of the congress will be "A Woman's Round Table," and Oregon has been favored by the appointment of Mrs. Lucia Faxon Addison, as leader of this feature. Mrs. Addison is one of the delegates appointed from Oregon by Governor Chamberlain, Father O'Hara of the Anti-treat movement and Harry Stone, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., are the other delegates. No feature, possibly, will be of more interest than this woman's congress as it will be interesting to note the advancement of woman's vote in the century of reform. The program as outlined by Mrs. Addison will treat of the "Evolution of Woman in the Ministry, in Rescue Work, in General Philanthropy, in Industry and in Politics." Mrs. Addison left for New York on the 7th.

The Herald hopes to have an interesting account of the great doings from Mrs. Addison's pen.

Wheelbarrow Procession

The latest in election developments of course falls to The Herald and Gresham. For the past month the Chamberlain and Cake factions of The Herald force have been combating each other at every opportunity. It came to a climax last week when Dalles Simonsen (job printer) and Mr. St. Clair (foreman) made the following freak election wager: Simonsen was to wheel St. Clair down the street in a wheelbarrow if Cake was elected and if Chamberlain was elected, St. Clair should take the shafts. As we all know, George and Simonsen won out and St. Clair and Cake, well, they hadn't yeast enough in their batter.

The line of march starts from The Herald office, thence down Powell street to Main, up Main to Shattuck's store, returning to the starting place. The girls of the force (the bookkeeper and typist) have the preparations well in hand and have set Monday evening, June 15th, at 8 p. m. as the date for the ride to take place. A large number of spectators is expected.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

The prominence of velvet is very marked for street and fancy dresses alike.

In all of the tailored and semi-tailored suits the novelty note is conspicuous, and indications point very strongly to a continuance of this feature in the coming spring designs.

Dark colors are very much more in order this season than light, and particularly is this true of the velvet costumes, all of the more exclusive of which are, if not black, then some one of the rich dark shades, with braiding done always in self tone.

For formal wear velvet costumes in one piece are the rule, although, like the pretty semiprincess gowns of last summer, the two parts may be joined with passementerie or band trimming. The princess style and velvet have always been most congenial, and the princess is still the most effective mode for the New York Post.

ONE NIGHT ONLY
TUESDAY, JUNE 16
GRANGE HALL, GRESHAM
—The Beautiful Drama—
"THORNS AND ORANGE BLOSSOMS"
Specialties between the Acts.
PRICES, 15 and 25c.

VERMONTNER IN NATIONAL GRANGE

Hon. George W. Pierce, Who Succeeded Ex-Governor Bell.

One of the new members of the national grange will be Hon. George W. Pierce, master of Vermont state grange. As the grange is playing such an important part in the economic and educational development of the country, his personnel is of wide interest.

Mr. Pierce comes of a fine old New England family whose names are famous in the annals of their state, says Farm and Fireside. He secured the beginnings of an education in the country schools and has built upon it by a life given over to study, investigation and observation. His position in society has been such that he has been thrown with men of affairs in the business and governmental world. When thirty-two years of age he became manager of a large public utility farm, the Retreat, which he brought to a high degree of productivity. In 1862 he was appointed member of the state board of agriculture. In 1867 commissioner to the Tennessee Centennial exposition, in 1890 to the farmers' national convention. For six years he was secretary of the Vermont State Dairyman's association, for one year its president and declined reelection. Elected to the Vermont senate in 1904, he became an active champion of farmers' interests. After the committee had reported unfavorably on a grade crossing bill which he was pushing, one member only voting for it, as brought it through the committee and secured its passage.

He has been a member of the grange thirty years, for three years master of his own grange, during which time he added 176 members. He has held many positions of honor and trust and promises to be a strong member of the national body.

Good Roads in Ohio.

Ohio state grange and the state board of commerce are working untiringly for road improvement in that state. It is designed to ask the legislature to authorize the state road department to take up the work in default of action by the county commissioners. An appropriation of $5,000 will be asked for each county to start with. The two organizations named propose the following amendments to the existing legislation: To ask the state to pay 50 per cent of the cost of the roads instead of 25 per cent, the county to pay 30 per cent instead of 50 per cent, the townships 10 per cent. A new phase of the road improvement question has arisen in that state, as farmers are objecting to the destruction of the roadbed by autos. It is claimed that these machines running at a high rate of speed sweep the top dressing from the surface of the material from which the roads are made and that the wind scatters it in the fields, on the grass and growing crops.

The Mediaeval Grocer.

In an interesting and informing lecture at the Agricultural hall Mr. J. Aubrey Rees discussed on "Grocers Past and Present." "Grocers," he said, "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to John Guter, a "grocer" of Soper lane. The title means that "were once called pepperers, because they dealt in pepper and spices. Their history would seem to begin about 1180, when there is an entry on the Pipe Rolls referring to the London Guild of Pepperers." Then in 1310 Mr. Rees finds a reference in the city records to one William Chambers being apprenticed to