I WILL!

I will start now this morning with a higher, fairer creed.

I will cease to stand complaining of my rough neighbor's greed.

I will cease to sit reining while my duty's call is clear.

I will waste no moment whining and my heart shall know no fear.

I will look sometimes about me for the things that merit praise.

I will search for hidden beauties that elude the gumbler's gaze.

I will try to find contentment in the paths that I must tread.

I will cease to have resentment when another moves ahead.

I will not be away by envy when my rival's strength is shown.

I will not deny his merit, but will strive to prove my own.

I will try to see the beauty spread before me, rain or shine.

I will cease to preach your duty and be more concerned with mine.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

We wish to commend the excellent reports sent in from two of the neighboring granges this week. If our other grange friends would treat us as well we would soon have one of the best grange departments in the state.

Don't forget our advertisers. They make the newspaper possible. If you want to ensure the life of your paper patronize the people who know enough to advertise their goods, and tell them you saw it in the paper.

The call is now out for a meeting of subscribers to the stock of the Grange Fair Association to be held Tuesday, August 11th, at 2:30 p. m. Let every subscriber be present and have a voice in the selection of officers. We hope to see the offices distributed to the various parts of the county so far as is consistent with the ready transaction of the association's business.

It is a pleasure to know with what good will the solicitors for fair stock have been received by most everyone whom they have called upon. All admit that the fair will be a fine thing. Several spoke of surprises they met and benefits they got from the attempt of last year, and general approval is given to the plan to make the organization permanent and the exhibit an annual one.

We are still hoping to see some action taken to provide a public well or watering place. Troutdale has wisely provided free water to whosoever needeth and Fairview is also prepared to assuage the thirst of wayward beasts of burden, but Gresham has not considered our debt to brute creation and prepared to repay it by supplying nature's best beverage, and don't forget that man sometimes finds the wayside fountain a source of comfort.

Three sites are now available for a city park at Gresham, namely, the Sleret tract, the Thompson tract, and ten acres of the Studdards place. Arrangements have been made by the County Court, the sheriff and the attorney who has the tract in hand, to sub-divide it and sell the Studdards tract in two or more pieces. Since it will be bought for public purposes, it is hoped that bidders will give Gresham a reasonable chance to obtain it. Persons who have looked over the tract speak very highly of it as a park site and no doubt it would be satisfactory to the citizens.

Mrs. J. N. Clananah sent to The Herald office, Tuesday, a sample of Lambert cherries from her trees. The cherries support the Lambert reputation for size and quality.

Some little anxiety has been expressed by certain persons about the attitude of Gresham toward the property to be provided by the Fair Association. Statements have now been made and signed to the effect that Gresham will lease the association the ground as long as it wishes to use it under a lease; that it will then sell the ground to the association at an arbitrated price, or that it will permit the association to move the buildings and other properties to another site. In fact, the association will have everything its own way and it is to be hoped the city's attitude will be properly appreciated.

The local granges will be interested to learn that The Herald office has been promised the contract for getting out the new grange organ, the Pacific Grange Bulletin, the consolidated grange papers of Washington and Oregon. The proposition of consolidation was made some time ago and we have had it under consideration. Considerable interest was exhibited in the question of consolidation throughout the state, and while The Herald is pleased to get the contract for getting out the new paper we would have been about equally as well pleased to have handled the Oregon paper alone. There would have been proportionately less risk and less outlay to prepare for the new demands upon our equipment. The Bulletin will be issued monthly as before, and will have a circulation in Washington and Oregon of about 10,000 copies or upwards. Some advertising will be accepted to assist in covering expenses. The editorial work will be conducted by the lecturers of the two state granges. The business management will be conducted from The Herald office at Gresham.

The growth of interest in industrial education at this period of our history surpasses all expectations or even the dreams of the most progressive school men of the past. The education of our ancestors was largely for polish; the education of today is for practical purposes. Evidence of this is shown in the large number of special courses offered by correspondence schools, private institutions and colleges and universities supported by the state. Even the university acknowledges the practical need of courses allied to modern industrial trend. The agricultural classes have not been overlooked in this change. Congress has made liberal appropriations to support schools that may enable those connected with farm life to better understand the subjects and questions that confront them. The state also has added its portion in recognition of the benefits to be derived.

The result is seen in the general interest taken in all questions pertaining to farm life. The farmer reads his paper or bulletin intelligently now, whereas twenty-five years ago "book-farming," or "newspaper farming," was a topic for the jester. Rotation of crops means something now. Spraying, pruning, seed selecting and breeding have become topics of thoughtful interest because our homes have come in touch with the agricultural school. We will try sometime soon to show how, directly, the state has been a gainer by this institution. In the meantime, we call your attention to the opportunity offered in this state to participate in these practical educational opportunities.

GRANGE NEWS IN BRIEF

Evening Star Grange had a very large attendance at its meeting on Saturday, August 1st. Many members and visitors were present for this time of year when many are away on vacations.

The morning session was devoted to business and the discussion of various live subjects. There was no initiation. The dinner with ice cream was greatly enjoyed.

The lecture hour began at 2 o'clock with Miss Willida Beckman, overseer, in charge. This was Woman's Day and they had complete charge, the men not being allowed to take part even in the music. Short talks by Mrs. Elizabeth Dunning and Mrs. E. J. Spooner on the subject, "What I most enjoy in the grange," were appropriate and well received. A solo was given by Mrs. Pollock in her usual fine style, and was applauded and twice encored. A well-written essay entitled "Vacation for the farmer and his family," by Mrs. Saylor Smith, was appreciated by all and State Lecturer Johnson announced his intention of having it published in the next Bulletin. Two finely rendered solos were given by Miss Delia Johnson, Mrs. Welch and Mrs. Webb told of salads and salad making and described their favorite way of making this dish. Their words elicited remarks and questions even from the men who found it hard to keep still all the time. Mrs. Vail discussed "Methods in the home," and told of its benefits rather than working in any old way. Mrs. Buckley, a local author, read an original paper on Domestic life, and also gave a recitation of one of her own poems, both of which were very well received and appreciated. The numbers were interspersed with grange songs, the women standing, the men remaining seated. The women were congratulated by the men upon the success of their program.

Mrs. Vail then took charge of the regular work and called upon Brother A. Nichols for remarks, stating that it was his birthday and also that he had just returned from an extended trip East. He responded with an interesting talk about his trip, the reunion of old soldiers, the visiting of old battlefields and other places in the South, of the friendliness shown towards him there while wearing the badge and buttons of an old Union soldier, and of his preaching in an M. E. Church, South, but he refrained from mentioning the date of his birth.

Remarks on general topics were made by Mr. Himes and Mr. Blanchard. This grange since last meeting has lost by death the late J. F. Caples and a committee on resolutions was appointed and the Charter draped in mourning.

Greetings were brought from Oswego Grange by Bro. C. W. Bryant and also an invitation to attend a meeting of that grange on Saturday, Aug. 8th, when the 88th birthday of Worthy State Chaplain Oscar E. Eaton will be celebrated. Brother Eaton is also chaplain of Clackamas Pomona and Oswego Grange.

The announcement was made that the next meeting of Evening Star was the 35th anniversary of its founding and that a program suitable for the occasion would be rendered. All friends and members are invited to be present at that time.

Damascus Grange, No. 260, met in their hall on the first Saturday in the month with a good attendance and a good program, all members taking part. Dr. Castro of New Era was present and gave an interesting talk on the history of the Damascus Grange, past and present, many of the first members being still with the grange. Dr. Castro is 82 years old and takes a great interest in all grange affairs. He presented the grange with a very fine box of Lambert cherries raised on his own farm.

Hon. Austin T. Buxton of Forest Grove, master of the Oregon State Grange, will personally attend the Good Roads conference to be held in the convention hall of the Portland Commercial club, August 11th. He is anxious that each subordinate or local grange in the state send one delegate, and he suggests that such delegate be named, at once and report made to W. L. Crissey, at Portland.

The 88th birthday of Oscar Eaton, chaplain of the State Grange, will be celebrated next Saturday at Oswego in connection with the regular grange meeting at that place. Father Eaton is well known, has been an honored member of the grange for many years and his many friends will take this occasion to wish him well.

The quarterly meeting of the Masters' and Lecturers' association will be held with Rockwood Grange, Saturday, Aug. 15th. The new hall will probably be completed and furnished by that time and the grange will be ready to receive all visitors. There will be ten candidates for initiation and several others will be re-initiated. All granges are invited to be present. The usual monthly ball given by the grange will be given on Saturday evening, August 22d.

Pleasant Valley Grange, No. 348, will hold an open meeting in their hall Saturday, Aug. 8, 1908, at 8 p. m. A very nice program of music, tableaux and recitations has been prepared. Everybody come and have a good time. Coffee and cake will be served after the program.
