EDITORIAL COMMENT

AT A MEETING of the Fair directors on Monday it was decided to go a head with the Juvenile poultry contest. A plan was proposed that will likely work out satisfactorily, and all that is needed now is the boys and girls to enter the race. No additional expense will be necessary to the plan as it will be carried through on the part of the boys and girls. The important thing will be to commence early, for early chickens grow best, have less to contend with in the way of vermin. Early chicks are always stronger, and they will outweigh all opponents by October first. The Herald will try to run some 'chicken talk' occasionally, and all parents are urged to interest their young people in the subject. Clip the articles out and study them, as a final test will be given as a means of securing a standing on the number of points necessary to win. The rating will probably be in this order, and the one winning the highest number of points will secure first prize, etc.:

- Best birds shown in the Juvenile class, possible points 25
 - Best plans for yards, coops, nests 25
 - Best and quickest dressing for market 25
 - Best test on reading on poultry 25
 - Total possible points 100
- No particular breed of birds is necessary and no particular expense will be essential to an effort. Premiums amounting to $20 have been arranged and the one getting highest number of points out of the possible 100 will be awarded the first prize. That is not all. The chickens thus raised will be a source of profit for the home and will form an excellent basis for a flock for a more important contest next year.

THERE IS a pretty strong movement on foot now to stir up an interest in the market day so much spoken of a few months ago. It is a good thing. If the right amount of energy can be put into it it is bound to be a big success. Portland is too large to ever put up an interesting market day, but Gresham, being well located, has an advantage. It is located on good roads leading east; its connections to the west are the best in the country. Lying here in the valley at the foot of the mountains, its position so easily reached from all directions, would seem to give it every advantage. It also has one good electric line and every prospect that another will be completed within a year. The farmer of eastern Oregon or even of eastern Multnomah or Clackamas can bring his horse or cow, pigs, sheep, goats, or a piece of unnecessary machinery, to this point and sell it or exchange it for something he does want. In a few months our market day will be an event that every man for miles around will come to feel is necessary to his social and business interests, and we will have an institution established which will be of benefit to everyone—merchant, smith, farmer and general traders.

DON'T NEGLECT to serve the community by failing to be present at the Push Club meeting on next Tuesday evening. Come out and assist to reorganize or revive the old club on a better basis.

GRANGE NEWS

Lents Grange held its usual second Saturday meeting on March 13th with a very good attendance. While no business of special importance was transacted, the session was an interesting one. Mrs. Christie Thomas read a paper on How to Keep Well which resulted in a general discussion of the subject.

Following this Mrs. Geisler gave a talk on Hygienic Schoolrooms, which was also discussed at some length. The Grange hall managers reported that only fifty shares of stock remained yet unsold and invited the grange to use the hall for the first public entertainment to be given therein. It is expected that some such entertainment will be given about April 1st, and it will be a money-raiser, the proceeds to be used in preparing the hall for final occupancy. A committee was appointed to investigate the purchasing of a piano for the hall.

About 30 years ago Mr. Cottle came with his family to America and settled on the farm where he lived and died. In April, 1907, his companion passed away. Early in life Mr. Cottle was converted and joined the Baptist church. He was esteemed as a good neighbor and Christian. He was a member of the Cottrell Baptist church. He leaves two grandchildren, a son and daughter, and many friends to mourn his loss. The funeral was on Monday and burial was in the Pleasant Home cemetery.

Good Cough Medicine for Children.

The season for coughs and colds is now at hand and too much care cannot be used to protect the children. A child is much more likely to contract diphtheria or scarlet fever when he has a cold. The quicker you cure his cold the less the risk. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the sole reliance of many mothers, and few of those who have tried it are willing to use any other.
