CHERRY FESTIVAL PLEASES CROWDS

Many Exhibits on Display and Premiums Awarded.—A Large Crowd Attends.

The first Cherry Festival for this part of the country was successfully carried to a close on last Saturday. While several things prevented the interest of the public and a larger attendance, namely, the lateness of the season and consequent delays in farm work and the large amount of such work on hand at this time, haying and gathering fruit. Then the latter part of the day turned out badly and frightened many persons away. But a liberal amount of cherries were donated, 1500 pounds, so that all might have a taste of the fruit and it might be said that all would have had an abundance had not some carried away too freely. Quite a number of fine cases were entered for prizes and also won high praise for the quality of the fruit and excellency of packing. The only mistake that was made was in allowing people to carry cherries away from the building. But that was an unforced error on the side of hospitable treatment and should not have proven an abuse of courtesy.

Below are a list of those who donated cherries and list of those who gave premiums and those who won them:

Following are those who donated cherries: E. P. Smith, N. L. Smith, S. S. Thompson, J. W. Townsend, John Sleret, Lewis Shattuck, E. E. Linsey, A. F. Johnson, D. C. Ross, Miss Clara Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Parsons, Ed Roberts.

Those donating premiums: Eastwood Nurseries, Gresham Drug Co., Carlson

CITY'S HORDES HIKE TO COUNTRY

The Call of the Wild Heeded by Many.—Laws Governing the Nimrods.

With the advent of Summer there is a restlessness among mankind to get back to nature, to revel in the primeval where conventionalities are thrown to the wind and where one may breathe the pure ozone of the forest and mountains free from the city's din and clamor and the consequent burdens of a busy life. And there are few who fail to yield to the seductive voice of this siren call of the wild and hie themselves to the sylvan shades of the mountain. With rod and gun, a few cooking utensils and bedding, the city's hordes of humanity are just now on the hike for the rural districts. Each day caravans of these folks are to be seen passing through Gresham on their annual outing tour and the unfortunate who is detained at home can only find consolation in his dreams. And where do you find more real enjoyment than on the banks of some mountain stream in the cool shade of some tall fir angling for the finny tribe or chasing a buck deer o'er hill and through dale? Nothing like it—let us take a week off!

In this connection it might be well to note, and avoid trouble for those who have not taken time to look up the law, that the season for buck deer does not open until August 1, closing November 1. A new law recently enacted makes it a violation to kill female deer at any time. The breaking of this law is punishable by a fine as high as $500. Hunting deer at night or running them with dogs is unlawful, nor must deer under one year old be killed. Skins of deer in shipping must be properly tagged, tags being secured from any county clerk or justice of the peace.

For native pheasants, quail and grouse the season opens October 15 and closes November 15, and it is unlawful to trap or snare them. The bag limit for either of these three species of game birds is five in one day or ten in one week.

The duck season opens October 15 and closes February 15. The bag limit is 35 in one week.

Elks are protected until August 1, 1909.

Hunter's and angler's license are good anywhere in the state. An unusual number of licenses have been issued by the county clerk this year to the angler and with the opening of the hunting season there will no doubt be many issued to the Nimrods.

The above laws governing the killing of game in this state are wise laws and should be heeded for without them Oregon would soon be as free from game as is the Sahara.

R. I. ANDERSON, Auctioneer.

Dr. Belt of this city has just returned from a short visit to the Seattle Exposition and while in that city he delivered an address before the Loggers Congress of America on "Camp Sanitation," a subject on which he is a recognized authority. After the address he was the guest of honor at a banquet given by the officers of the Congress at the New York building. The Seattle Daily Times quotes the doctor as saying that the chief evils of the logging camp are impure water, poor cooking, improper care of the food and poor sanitation. He advised the construction of bath houses and even gymnasiums, saying that it would pay the companies in the long run to provide these agencies for better health conditions.

Lauren Sloop, the three year old twin child of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Sloop at Orient, fell into the well yesterday afternoon and was drowned. The doctor was summoned but the boy was past recovery.

Death of Miss Bell Giese.

The funeral of Miss Belle Giese was held at the Baptist church in Gresham at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon. Miss Giese had been ailing for some time and has been seriously ill for over three weeks. She has long been known in Pleasant Valley where the family has lived for many years, and commended for her benevolent disposition and traits. The immediate cause of death was heart trouble. She leaves two brothers and one sister.

A Word to Correspondents.

If our correspondents would send in their communications not later than Tuesday or Wednesday it would give us more time on press day (Friday) in which to do other important work and get the paper to the subscribers on the earliest mail. The Herald has one of the best corps of correspondents of any weekly paper in the state and takes a pride in this fact.

The Oregon fir is becoming a favorite wood for car builders, says A. B. Washtell, secretary of the Oregon and Washington Lumber Manufacturers' Association, who has just returned from the East. Not only is it used for sills and heavy timbers in building passenger equipment but for siding and finishing as well.

PENNANT RACE NEARING CLOSE

The Giants Have a Long Pull For the Flag.—No Game Here Last Sunday.

Interurban League Standing.

Team	Won	Lost	P. C.
Union Meat Co.	8	1	.888
Gresham	5	2	.714
Police	4	3	.571
Russellville	4	4	.500
Spalding	3	7	.300
Willamette Iron Works	2	6	.250

The contest in the Interurban League is drawing to a close after a warm race for the pennant. From indications at hand it appears to be almost in the grasp of the Union Meat Company of Troutdale. But there is a chance for this husky bunch to lose the coveted prize and as long as there is a chance there is hope. The only possible rival, as the percentage stands, is the Giants and while there are many chances against our boys they intend to give those carnivorous Meats a run for their money in this pennant winning business. Troutdale has but one more game to play and that game is with Russellville. If they lose—ah, there's the rub! The Giants have three yet to dig out of the hole. If they win these three games and Troutdale loses with Russellville these two teams tie for honors. That's what Gresham has anchored her hope to and we are yet to see how deftly she extricates herself from the meshes in which the Meats have wound her.

Troutdale was the scene of another slaughter last Sunday when the Union Meats defeated the Willamette Iron Works to the requiem of 8 to 2. It was Higgins on this occasion who bottled the Works and sent them home. This new twirler, who is gaining a local reputation equal to Christy Mathewson, struck out 12 men, allowing only five hits. Aside from a few good plays scattered through the game neither team seemed to be in their usual form.

The Policemen had an easy beat to tread Sunday when they met the Russellville team and held them up for 11 marks to 5 and took third place in the percentage column. It was an exhibition of slugging, both teams landing heavy on the sphere during which the Cops secured 16 safe hits and refused to ask for more.

Batteries—Police: Howard and Marshall; Russellville: Wilson and Marshall.

Owing to the recent deaths of Mr. Charlie Merrill and Miss Lena Ginder which sad events threw a pall of gloom over our community, the Giants-Spalding game, which was to have been played on the local grounds, was postponed. Next Sunday the Giants play the Willamette Iron Works on the local grounds.

Don't go into a newspaper office and ask an editor to roast somebody. You don't know how it looks or you would not do it. Here's a parallel case: You step up to a friend and say, "Bill I wish you'd go over there and give that fellow a good cussing for me. I'm a little afraid to do it myself."

Patronize Your Home Bank

IT PAYS

DID you ever think WHY IT PAYS? There are many good reasons. You may want to borrow money some day and would rather ask your home banker for a loan than go to a bank in a neighboring town. You would, however, not like to ask him for a loan if you had not been keeping your money on deposit with him when you had money to deposit. He naturally cares for his own depositors first when they are in need of funds. You cannot blame him for that. He is interested in building up your home town and so are you, especially if you own property there. Back up the Bank whenever you can. It Pays to be a Booster. You can boost a little by keeping your money on deposit with your home Bank, and, as long as you know as much or more about the condition of your home Bank as you know of the condition of the Bank you have been patronizing, you will find it more convenient and just as safe to keep it at home. The fact that it is a small Bank is an argument in its favor. It is not so hard to know all about it.
