EDITORIAL COMMENT

THIS is the season of the year that the fly gets in his deadly work. About a year ago The Herald printed a valuable article concerning the real status of the fly. We have just read an article in the September McClures on the subject. The article is worth the price of the magazine to every household. By all means get it and read it and then put the advice into practice. We have heard people say that flies were a blessing. Just see how much filth they dispose of? Have you ever stopped to consider how he disposes of it? Besides being a rapid breeder and heavy feeder on decaying filth of all sorts in his larval state, the fly is a great fellow to return to the filth from which he has escaped. He deliberately walks around over it nibbling here and there and getting his legs and feet plastered with the rotten stuff; then proceeding on airy wings he enters our homes, walks all over our faces, the baby's face, the vegetables uncooked, the meats, both fresh and prepared, and in fact pries into everything and every where he goes he leaves a trail of filth and destructive germs. He visits the hog pens, the manure piles, out-houses and every other place where filthy offal can be found, goes back to our kitchens to inoculate the butter and milk and roast meats, fruits and preserves with the germs of typhoid and dysentery. Now is a good time for the complaints to appear and we know of two instances where they have developed within the last week, very likely from this same source. If you want a good explanation based on good reasoning read the article mentioned. For fear you overlook it let us repeat some of the advice it offers. Since the odors from our kitchens escape mostly through the upper parts of doors and windows if opened, use screens at that point. Remove all garbage at least once a week and clean the cans and buckets that contained it. Burn as much of it as possible. Vaults exposed to the air should have frequent doses of crude oil. Even the barnyard compost should be kept in bins and covered with screens. But it would not be advisable to use oil on this if it is to be used as manure. The oil would not be good for the soil. Darken your rooms somewhat and let a little light come in from the shady side of the room and thus entice the fly to leave the room. If you make it quite dark the fly will settle and refuse to move.

Our correspondents will confer a favor on us and themselves, too, if they will adopt the custom of putting their signatures to their correspondence. We like to know who is trying to assist in the good work.

THE prospect of all outstanding cases against persons held for land frauds being dropped has a very bad appearance and no amount of explanation can get away with the idea that something is wrong. Either the men who drew the original indictments were unqualified to judge of the merits of a case and involved the government in a lot of expensive litigation without sufficient cause or else they have been open to "undue influence." Perhaps they have grown tired of the cases. That is neither here nor there. If the men who have been indicted are guilty they should be punished, whether the offense was committed yesterday or twenty-five years ago. The fact that later cases have arisen to demand their attention is no excuse. On the other hand this very example of defeating the purpose of the law by delay leads to other cases. If these big fish were promptly tried, condemned and put where they belong other cases would be less frequent. Mr. Heney, who has had the most of these cases in hand, has won some praise for securing the convictions. If he had been as vigorous as he is pictured there would have been a lot of other convictions and a few of the convicts would have been serving time. As it is, who has paid for his crimes? Most of the sentences are pending or on appeal. A pretty time to draw out, isn't it? We suspect that Mr. Heney lacks vigor, is indifferent to anything but his own interests and hardly escapes the stigma of willful neglect of duty. He began the fight on land frauds and he should have carried it through till every convict was quickly placed behind the bars. Another reason for complaint here is the limited sentences doled out to those who were convicted. If a man is sentenced to the rock pile for 90 days for taking some old clothes, how long should a fellow get for taking a few townships of land—about 90 years. Did they get it? No. Eighteen to thirty months with a few hundred dollars fine have marked the limit. If our influence or opinion is worth anything we would suggest that there is a lot of hot air about lawyers in general and Mr. Heney in particular.

Annexing Part of Clackamas.

The following communication suggests to us that others of our readers may wish to express their views through the columns of The Herald on the question of annexing some of Clackamas county. If there are others we would be pleased to allow a limited space each week for such articles as may be sent in.—Editor

Editor The Herald:

I was much interested in your recent editorial in regard to a part of Clackamas county being annexed to Multnomah county. I hope this will be done at the next session of the Oregon legislature. The part of Clackamas in question really belongs to Multnomah for geographical and commercial reasons as the streams and roads of northeast Clackamas lead across to Multnomah county and finally to or near Portland. The famous "Sandy country" is all tributary to Portland and it would be a distinct advantage, both in commercial and sentimental ways to have it in the same county. If this were done Clackamas county would still be much larger than Multnomah and it would not make any particular hardship on the rest of the county.

As a property owner of northeast Clackamas I hope to see this change brought about in the near future and will be always ready to do what I can to have it accomplished.

I enjoy reading the "popular home weekly" and believe it is working for the best interests of the state and that it has a great influence in this way.

Grange Fair Notes.

The poultry show at the fair this fall bids well to be a big feature. Superintendent Windle says that a large number of local poultrymen will not go outside of the county to exhibit this year and that only makes it the more probable that they will show in this fair. He has already a good number of special prizes and feels sure that he can get a number more. There is considerable interest, too, in the juvenile show. Boys from the vicinity of Montavilla are very much interested in it and there are others farther out. Gresham has at least one intending contestant and it is likely that others will show up.

The regular monthly meeting of the fair directors will be held at the grounds Monday afternoon, Sept. 6, at 1:30.

Quite a little interest is being taken by persons who are desirous of taking concession space. As yet no contracts have been made but several are practically closed. Every effort will be made to secure reliable and desirable attractions.

Wouldn't it be a nice feature to have a driving course in connection with the fair is a question that is being asked by a good many just now. Perhaps it would and it would not be a very difficult thing to do if people set their heads that way. There is no reason why such a thing could not be a profitable and useful adjunct to the fair. It might be a source of some dissatisfaction if it were conducted loosely and if it were used for more than pleasurable sport or an exhibition track where purses were offered for the best animals in various classes. But there is no reason why such could not be kept within reasonable limits and be a drawing feature for the association.

[Granges are requested to send to The Herald information as to what a brief card can be run under this heading free. Send place, day and hour of meeting.]
