GOOD PROSPECTS FOR THE FAIR

Amusement Features are of the Best Quality—Agricultural Exhibits Extensive.

The opening day for the big annual Grange fair will find everything in apple order. Every arrangement for the entertainment of the public will have been consummated and no delays will be experienced in placing the entries that arrive late; box stalls are specially prepared to accommodate the livestock that has been on exhibition at other fairs on the Northwestern circuit. Several pure bred prize winners will be placed for the approval of the judges.

The committee in charge of amusements has completed all arrangements for the various amusements with which the public visiting will be regaled. Arnold's Combined Shows will supply the Midway attractions, also the free acts to be pulled off in front of the grandstand between the races. Too much cannot be said of the meretricious attractions offered by the Arnold aggregation, as the concern is absolutely high grade in every respect, and their individual Midway shows are moral and instructive. The exhibitions are such that a family man can feel safe in allowing the ladies and children to attend any attraction offered by this sterling association of amusement caterers without escort. No graft games of any nature are tolerated around the Arnold Combined Shows.

The agricultural exhibits will be one of the feature attractions at the big Fall Fair this year. Several thousand acres of virgin land have been broken during the past year in this district and the products from this new soil, aided by irrigation in spots, will be a never ending source of interest to the many outsiders attending the annual exhibition. Not only will the product of these new farms create an interest among the visitors, but will be looked upon with deep interest by the oldtimers who will readily appreciate the more favorable and modern methods employed by present day husbandmen of the soil than when they first settled in this locality. Every year brings forth more perfect methods of cultivating the soil along scientific lines and one of the greatest stimulants to that end is the annual exhibition of the various articles of an agricultural nature for which premiums are offered. The grains and grasses will be awarded a prominent place in the exhibit hall as will the fruits. Apple culture has been more favorably pushed in the entire Northwest during the past year and the exhibit of this fruit of the kings will be watched with interest. Large displays of this particular, delicious specimen will be made by the many growers who will be represented.

A large force of men are at work on the new buildings. The first work raising began Friday. They will all be well along to completion before another week. A series of ball games are being arranged by manager Patenaude, to be played during the Fair. It is planned to have four teams play, the winners of the first two games to then try for a $50 purse. There will also be $25 in prizes for each of the first two games. There is also a probability that the Portland high school will engage the Gresham team in a wild and woolly foot ball game on Saturday the 16th.

Dancing at the Fair, every afternoon and evening.

Prof. Schaffer of the State University has been delegated to represent the institution on the afternoon of the 16th. Prof. Schaffer is one of the best informed men in the state and should be heard by every person in the county.

Dr. Brougher announces his subject for Sunday afternoon, the 17th, "Hens, or Scratching for a Living." The musicians from the White Temple will render a concert in connection with the lecture.

For good work go to the Gresham Feed Mill; new rollers; open Tuesdays and Fridays.

Married in Montavilla.

Wade H. Osburn and Miss Mary Froom were married Tuesday evening at Mr. Osburn's home in Montavilla, Rev. J. M. Comer officiating. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served after which Mr. and Mrs. Osburn left for a trip through California. On their return they will make their home on East 79th street.

Mr. Osburn is well known in eastern Multnomah, having formerly resided near Fairview, but for the past three years has been associated with his brother, S. P. Osburn, in the real estate business in Portland. Mrs. Osburn is a daughter of Mrs. E. E. Froom of Portland and a sister of Dr. A. C. Froom of Seattle. She is a graduate of the Nurses' Training School of the Portland Sanitorium.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to extend to all of the many friends who have so kindly sympathized with us in the sad bereavement we have suffered through the loss of our son and brother, Andrew J. Miller, our heartfelt thanks. We also express our gratitude for the assistance rendered by friends and neighbors during the ceremonies attending the funeral services.

SHALL GRESHAM HAVE FACTORY?

Proposition Being Considered by Commercial Club to Land one Here.

What is macite? What is it used for? Can Gresham secure the factory soon to be built in this part of the country? These are questions discussed at the Commercial Club meeting in the Grange hall last Tuesday night. The subject was presented by Mr. Pearson, president of the Macite Company of Portland, who came out to meet our citizens at the instigation of one or two who had heard of the possibility of locating the factory here.

Macite is a building material, made largely from gypsum and is used for partitions in large office buildings, hospitals, theatres, etc., and for deadening floors. Mr. Pearson spoke of the cost of manufacturing and said it could be made to advantage in a place like Gresham on account of cheapness of land and labor. A plant such as he proposed would give employment to from thirty to a hundred men.

Of course there were certain conditions for the people here to fulfill and a committee consisting of H. A. Darnall, R. R. Carlson and D. S. Johnson is now investigating to see if the necessary money can be raised.

There was a good attendance and considerable interest was shown in plans for advertising this section. Thousands of homeseekers are coming to Oregon to live and other thousands are traveling through the state but never a leaf of literature do they see telling the plain, simple truths about our beautiful scenery and inviting opportunities for the farmer, gardner, dairyman or investor.

A few weeks ago the club offered a prize of $5 for the best descriptive article on the products and possibility of this section, to be used for publicity purposes. D. S. Johnson's article was accepted and awarded the prize by the Publicity Committee. The club listened to the article read at its last meeting and authorized its publication. Many inquiries are received every week and this will be used in answering them. Other plans were suggested and favorably received which will doubtless be used later. It is the general opinion that nothing is too good to tell about our resources, that there is ample room and opportunity for all who come and that the simple statements of facts will interest all who read and lead many to seek a home here.

A Word of Warning.

Why pay from two to three dollars more for an inferior heating stove when you can buy a Cheerful right here at home at R. R. Carlson's and save a trip to Portland in order to get one, when you would be perfectly safe in buying it here? Last year's sales were the opening of a new era in the heating stove line, when he sold two dozen of these stoves and has doubled his order for this year's trade, as each sale means a satisfied customer and more sales.
