Call Another Meeting.

The election of directors for the Fair Association has been considered by the board at the regular meeting held on the 18th and it was suggested by some of those who were elected that the plan and result was questionable. It was considered that the election of nine in December—probably at 1 p. m. Among other things to be voted on at that time will be the consigning of the date of annual stockholders meeting to the 1st Monday in December, the reduction of the board of directors and some minor matters.

The officers have about finished the allotment of premiums. It has been a tedious task, because of the insufficient data and some defects in the premium list. These defects can be easily corrected and the experience with these difficulties will help to make a better list another time.

Obituary.

Mrs. Lena B. Heiney was born in Whiteside County Illinois, June 25, 1876, and died at Gresham Oregon, October 21, 1909, aged 33 years, 4 months. She leaves a husband, father, Mr. Andrew B. Gibbs, brothers and sisters who reside in and near Gresham. On the same day occurred the death of the adopted infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Heiney aged 17 months. Mrs. Heiney came to Oregon with her parents in 1878, was married to Mr. Ross Heiney, November 7, 1898. During her residence in this community Mrs. Heiney made many acquaintances and was widely known. To those who knew her intimately she was a person of kind and affectionate disposition. The circumstances of their death seem specially sad.

Limit Your Spending

—and SAVE the balance. That is a better way to get a start than to limit your saving and SPEND the balance.

Why You Should Carry an Account with the First State Bank

- BECAUSE —the cash buyer gets the most for his money. Have a checking account and be a cash buyer.
- BECAUSE —a checking account will make you careful and systematic, thereby providing a method to reduce your expenses and enabling you to get ahead in the world.
- BECAUSE —a checking account enables you to acquire a better credit than any other method.
- BECAUSE —Their statements always show carefulness and conservatism in the management of the bank—no excessive expenses; no schemes to promote.

SOME CAUTION FOR THE BOYS

A Little Timely Advice Pertaining to Hallowe'en Celebration.

Hallowe'en draweth near and besides the many little social features that are planned, and library and church benefits, there will doubtless be a good many little parties organized on the quiet to participate in out-door fun. There is no reason why the occasion should not be one of innocent amusement. A great many things can be done that would give relief to youthful energy and at the same time be, entirely unobjectionable. Serenading by a quartette or party of joy finders would give pleasure to all concerned. A little tick-tocking affords harmless fun, but it is neither wise nor kind to carry things to the extremity to which they are frequently carried. Any trick that will offend, injure or cause a loss to any one, ceases to be fun and becomes a risk for all concerned. The danger of carrying a joke too far is never more clearly shown than at Hallowe'en times. Scarcely a year passes that does not show instances of personal injury or personal loss. The idea seems to be among a good many boys and girls that they are not liable for injuries committed at this time. There is nothing in the law to that effect. On the contrary they are more likely to be held for offenses at that time than at any other because of so many irritating incidents arising then. And we are especially reminded that former pranks have not been forgotten this year, so we are urged to suggest a milder form of fun for this years celebration. Let us bear in mind that property broken up or misplaced causes many inconveniences and much actual loss, and the observation of the Golden Rule should apply here as elsewhere. Do then unto others as you would like they should do with you.

Our good friend Donald MacMillan, while renewing a subscription, tickled The Herald force by a fine treat of fruit and vegetables. Carrots 15 inches long and 11 inches around! No need of going hungry in this beautiful land of Oregon, especially near Gresham.

Why My Papa and Mamma Bank With The First State Bank of Gresham.

[The following article, written by a Gresham boy, 14 years of age, was entered for the special prize of $10 offered by the First State Bank for the best essay on the subject. This was the prize article. We regret that more of our boys and girls did not enter this contest. It was a bona fide offer with no strings on it. The boy immediately put most of his money on deposit at the bank and intends to invest it in a paying business. He has a bank account of his own and believes in every argument in his article. In the case of his parents it will be noted that his papa and mamma both have checking accounts with the bank and say they find it a very safe and convenient way of doing business. The boy modestly requests that his name be withheld from publication but it will be given you at the bank if you want to know it. We are also prepared to verify all the claims made in his article, and more.]

There are many good reasons why a man receiving and paying out money should have it pass through the bank. My parents have saved considerable by paying by check. On more than one occasion when they paid a bill the payee neglected to credit them with the amount paid. They had the indorsed check and the stub to show which were as good as a receipted bill.

My parents put their money in the First State Bank because it is a help in keeping accounts and shows just how they spend their money. They can also tell when they pay a certain bill or draw a check for anything. They often save the cost of a money order by sending a check. Time and money have also been saved by sending a check instead of going in person to pay a bill. The bank also affords a place of safety in which to put their money. The bank is much safer than a private dwelling. While my parents do not expect to be troubled by fire or burglars, they always deposit their money in the First State Bank.

My papa and mamma believe that banking with a home institution has an influence on the children. It also teaches people to save their money.

This bank is insured against loss by fire and burglary and there is no danger of bankruptcy in such a strong bank. A short time after the First State Bank was established a gang of expert safe-crackers used the safe on which to try their skill. They knocked off a knob in the combination, put in nitroglycerine and wrecked the front of the safe. They got nothing for their pains and the bank lost nothing as it was fully insured against loss by burglary.

In the financial panic of 1907 the First State Bank did business as usual and served its patrons without inconvenience.

The bank has always shown a willingness to accommodate my parents with a loan.

My parents have been treasurers of various funds which they always deposited in the First State Bank, because of the convenience and safety.

They believe the methods of the First State Bank to be correct and know the institution to be safe and a credit to the town.
