THINGS YOU MAY NOT KNOW

Penny postage is pressed between Great Britain and Turkey.

Electric mouse traps, which kill rodents which enter them with the ordinary 110-volt current, are a recent invention.

American capitalists are trying to form a merger of every acre of timber producing land in Nova Scotia, investing $5,000,000.

A tack hammer, the head of which folds into a recess in the stick for convenience in carrying, has been patented by a Pennsylvanian.

The North British Locomotive Company has just completed and tested the first steam turbine locomotive. The new engine is pronounced a success.

At seventy-three, it is announced, Sir William Schwenck Gilbert is at work on a new comic opera which will shortly be produced at the Savoy Theatre in London.

France sold the United States $5,679,810 worth of champagne in the first six months of 1909, a quantity which exceeds the previous highest returns for a whole year.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Adams of Norwich, N. Y., are parents of triplets, two boys and a girl, weighing less than eight pounds total. The father himself is one of triplets.

For fifty-one years Isaac W. Hallam has served the same telegraph company at Wilmington, Del. During all that time he has not missed a day at his desk, with the exception of a furlough of one week that he took in 1864 for a honeymoon. Mr. Hallam is now in his eighty-second year.

Captain Charles E. Shillaber, who is building a canal from Tampico to Tuxpan for the Mexican government, is seventy years old. He was a sailor for twenty-three years and his great-grandfather, William Shillaber, was on the Bon Homme Richard with Paul Jones when he captured the Serapis in the English channel after a desperate fight.

Pigs in Portugal are more docile than anywhere else in the world, said G. E. Thompson, F. R. P. S., in a lecture at the Royal Photographic Society's exhibition. Instead of prodding and pushing the animals along the market women carry panniers filled with savory things that pigs enjoy, and the drove trots behind them without any trouble.—London Globe.

Early Methodist preachers had reason to deplore the power of the all-mighty landlord. Charles Wesley himself suffered. For he was summoned and fined £10 ($50) and heavy costs—not for firing ricks or uprooting hedges, but for walking across a field to address an audience. Here is the record: "Goter versus Wesley; damages, £10; costs taxed, £9 16s 8d; July 29, 1738. Received of Mr. Wesley, £19 16s 8d for damages and costs in their cause.—William Gason, attorney for the plaintiff."

An interesting addition has been made to the contents of the army museum in Paris in the shape of the red and white ensign, ornamented with gold beetles, which Napoleon gave to the troops in the island of Elba during his sojourn there. A French contemporary informs us that the flag came into the possession of Col. Campbell, whom the allies set to keep watch over the emperor, when he made his sudden departure from the island, and has remained in the family ever since. The gift is one which the French nation will no doubt be glad to have in its possession.—Westminster Gazette.

The London Lancet, in a discussion of the use of salt for removing snow and ice from walks and pavements, remarks that "it is a pity that to flood snowbound streets with a plentiful supply of hot water is so far impracticable in our cities." However, effective salt may be in removing snow," adds the Lancet, "there can be little doubt that the resulting mixture is most unpleasant to pedestrians, and inasmuch as even good leather does not appear to be proof against the cold slush, there is reason for believing that the mixture gives rise to injury to health."

"Smith" is, according to Professor Mahaff, the oldest English surname. In a list of names he discovered when investigating the Petri papyri, there is one, he says, "which appears regularly in the same form and of which we can give no further explanation. It is the name Smith—unmistakably written. We have never found anything like it before and it is surely worth telling the many distinguished bearers of the name that there was a man known as Smith in the twentieth year of the third Ptolemy, 227 B. C., and that he was occupied in brewing beer or selling it."

Strictly speaking soap is the only chemical that should be used in a first class laundry, but most laundries find it necessary to use caustic or washing soda to soften down the water. Some times in order to whiten the clothes a bleacher is put in. Such is usually chloride of lime, but in case of wine, iron or fruit stains either oxalic acid or chloride of tin comes in handy. Many patent laundry preparations are used to whiten clothes accidentally stained at home or in laundering. All these chemicals do little or no harm provided the laundryman understands the use of the chemical and weakens it right, but the most important of all is that the bleach should all be washed out at once with fresh water.—New York Press.

What Inspired Him.

"The melancholy days have come"—So sang the weary bard; He'd just been raking autumn leaves Again from his back yard.—Chicago Tribune.

For Old People.

After reaching the age of forty the human system gradually declines. The accumulated poisons in the blood cause rheumatic pains in the joints, muscles and back. These warnings should be promptly relieved and serious illness avoided by using the following prescription which shows wonderful results even after the first few doses and it will eventually restore physical vigor:

"One ounce compound syrup of Sarsaparilla; one ounce Tonic compound; half pint of high grade whiskey. This to be mixed and used in tablespoonful doses before each meal and at bedtime. The bottle to be well shaken each time." Any druggist has these ingredients or he will get them from his wholesale house.

Dangerous Risk.

"Look out, H!" shouted the farmer's wife as the big balloon soared over the farm with a trailing anchor. "Them thar aryanauts will hook you up like a fish if you don't watch out."

"Gosh, Mandy!" gasped the old farmer as he dropped his rake. "You don't think they'd try to do such a thing purposely, do you?"

"Wouldn't trust them, H. That tall chap looking down here with the eyeglass is one of them thar Indiana writer folks and he's working on a book called 'The Uplifting of the Farmer.' Reckon you better keep your eye on that anchor."
