Couldn't Understand a Euphemism. "Why are you so sad, dearest?" "I am mourning over the crumpled rose leaf." "Bother! I will get you fresh roses." "Oh, dear! I mean that there is a fly in our ointment." "What ointment? I didn't know anybody had anything the matter." "Oh, George, dear, I mean father has refused to give his consent!" "Jumpin' Jehosephat! Now you're talking! I know what that means!"

You Will Appreciate a Pleasing and Profitable Proposal. Sub-divisions Worth $300 per acre At Wholesale Price. Plan and Price Below. Why Not Buy the Best While Land is Cheap?

Land just outside the present active speculative area of Portland and within a few miles of tidewater, is probably the most inviting of all fields for investment. There is an element of safety and it will double and treble before the completion of the Panama canal and then some more.

I am developing 190 acres 12 miles southeast of Portland, near the O. W. P. R. R., on a direct line to Mt. Hood, a fine view of which is had. A perennial stream flows through it, which will irrigate half of it by gravity, greatly increasing net profits of products. All of it is rich virgin soil, much is sedimentary, containing two beaver dams. A zone of 20 acres is suitable for celery ($1000 per annum can be taken from an acre), as much more is onion land and, say, 40 acres for apples. Fruit is the overshadowing industry. Scientific gardening brings quicker results and is equally profitable.

I wish to interest a high-class gardener, a florist and a greenhouse man, a dairyman and a fruitman.

They can form a Home Builders' Association, each having a water right and a wood lot. Am clearing with an engine and saving the saplings and logs, which will amount to at least 1000 cords of free wood for the furnaces. An auto truck can carry their aggregate products over the fine plank road to the depot, seven-eighths of a mile distant. A dozen families would have constant employment.

Much of this land equals the $500 per acre land. It will be suburban at an early day. My price for a short time is $185 per acre.

Discriminating and intelligent buyers will be interested and are invited to communicate with the owner.

J. D. LEE, Lents, R. F. D. No. 1.
