The Shah's Dagger.
One of the treasures of the shah of Persia is a diamond set in one of his scimitars, which renders its possessor invulnerable. There is also a dagger with the same property, but it is ordained that those who use it should perish by it. It is therefore carefully shut up in a sandalwood box on which is engraved a verse from the Koran.—Chicago News

Just Right for That.

The visitor's host was showing him through the more or less celebrated town that has grown up around the Pullman shops.

"I don't see very much vegetation here," observed the visitor. "The soil seems to be too sandy."

"We raise the juiciest melons here you will find anywhere in the world," briefly responded his host, who happened to be a stockholder in the company.—Chicago Tribune.

Conceded It.

"Colonel, don't you think, as the result of your observation during many years of public life, that the holding of a government position tends to take away a man's independence and makes him merely a machine?" asked the inquisitive acquaintance.

"Undoubtedly," said the Internal revenue collector. "There was a time, for instance, when, if you had asked me such a question as that, I should have kicked you out of my office, but I have become used to such things now and don't mind them at all."

Too Slow for This Age.

"Grandma, you never took a joy ride, did you?"

"Yes, child, once; but you wouldn't call it joy riding nowadays."

"When was it, grandma?"

"Sixteen years ago. I took a ride in the Ferris wheel."

"How fast did you go?"

"The wheels made one revolution in about fifteen minutes."

"Slacker!"—Chicago Tribune.

Tit for Tat.

Stranger (to prominent clergyman)—I came in here, sir, to criticize your church management and tell you how it ought to be run.

Prominent Clergyman (amazed)—What do you mean, sir? How dare you? Who are you, anyway?

"I am the humble editor of the paper you have been writing to."—Life.

Wanted a Small One.

Customer—My wife told me to stop in and buy her a bathing suit. What are your prices and sizes?

Dealer—We have a very nice one here that I'm sure she will like. A $50 bill will just cover it.

Customer—That is just about the size she wants. How much is it?—Springfield Union.

Well Meant, but Rude.

The wedding was over and the guests had departed, when a terrific din broke up the stillness.

The tooting of fish horns, the beating of tin pans, and the ringing of cow bells could be distinguished clearly, while agonizing screeches from unidentified instruments and the diabolical noise produced by drawing a scantling across one edge of a dry goods box contributed their share to the volume of sound.

The bride, a young woman recently from Boston, turned pale.

"Harold," she said, turning to the bridegroom, "those friends of yours doubtless mean well, and I appreciate their heartiness and sincerity, but I shall consider it a great favor if you will go out and request them to discontinue their epithalamium. It is quite too boisterous and may attract attention."—Chicago Tribune.

She Was Frank.

Miss Mary Morris, daughter of the late William Morris, poet and craftsman, said at a dinner in New York: "I like the American taste for its frankness. Better be frank, even if wrong. The pretty American girl was by no means hopeless whose comment on first seeing the incomparable glory of the Venus de Medici was, 'I wouldn't be seen dead with ankles like 'hat!'"

Useless Study.

Mr. Fond Father reproved his little son for having only 75 per cent in arithmetic. "Mathematics, my boy," he said, "is a very useful study, and you must try to do better."

"I thought that was only useful for sailors," said the boy.

"Why for sailors?"

"Well, people on land have adding machines, don't they?"—New York Tribune.

Couldn't Fool Mrs. G.

They were looking at a famous collection of paintings, and had stopped in front of a "Portrait of a Lady."

"Why, that's a Rembrandt!" delightedly exclaimed Mrs. Upsome.

"I'm not so sure about that," said Mrs. Gaswell, bringing her lorgnette to bear upon it. "It looks to me more like a Merry Widow."

Couldn't Stand Exposure.

The member of the legislature, of whom some graft stories had been circulated, was about to build a house.

"You will want a southern exposure, I suppose," asked the architect.

"No, sir," said the man; "if you can't build this house without an exposure I'll get another architect."—Yonkers Statesman.

Not Loud but Deep.

Village Constable (to villager, who has been knocked down by passing motor cyclist)—"You didn't see the number, but could you swear to the man?"

Villager—"I did; but I don't think 'e 'eard me."—Punch.

Richard Brinsley Sheridan fought Mr. Matthews, "a gentleman of fashion," at Bath in order to vindicate the reputation of Miss Linley. It was done in theatrical style. They fought with swords and great courage and skill were displayed on both sides. Sheridan disarmed his adversary and compelled him to sign a formal retraction. Mr. Matthews again challenged Mr. Sheridan. The parties met on King's Down. The battle was desperately contested. After a discharge of pistols they fought with swords. Both were wounded and fell to the ground, where they continued to fight until the seconds separated them. It was found that Matthews' sword was actually broken off in Sheridan's ear.

It usually takes a stronger hint to induce a visitor to go than was required to get him to come.

Its Financial Flavor.
Dealer—That's one of our best imported cigars. Hasn't it a rich, mild flavor?
Customer—Yes; the cigar is mild enough, but the price is about $4 a box too fierce.

FASHION HINTS

A very attractive white foulard with black ring dots, has two deep bands of black on the skirt, one at the knees, and the other at the hem.

The deep crushed girdle and cuffs are also of the black silk.

FAMOUS DUELS IN ENGLAND.

Prime Ministers Sought or Gave Satisfaction in Field of Honor.

At least four of England's prime ministers entered the "field of honor," a "Student of the Code," in a letter to the New York Sun says. The Duke of Wellington challenged the Earl of Winchelsea in consequence of the earl's remarks on the Catholic question. They met in Battersea fields. Lord Winchelsea received the duke's fire and then fired in the air.

George Canning met Lord Castlereagh on Putney common. They fought in sight of the windows of the house in which Pitt died. Both missed. At the next exchange Castlereagh's ball entered Mr. Canning's thigh, inflicting a slight wound. The two statesmen assumed their places for a third shot, when the seconds, seeing the blood streaming from Mr. Canning's wound, put an end to the combat.

Benjamin Disraeli likened Daniel O'Connell to the impenitent thief on the cross. O'Connell also used language which was not parliamentary, and Disraeli offered to castigate the Irishman. O'Connell declined to meet him. Disraeli then challenged Morgan O'Connell, the accuser's son, but Morgan O'Connell also declined to meet a Jew on a "field of honor."

Curran, the Irish orator, fought four duels. The first was with Capt. St. Leger, who had insulted an Irish Roman Catholic priest. The captain fired, but Curran did not. "It was not necessary for me to fire at him," the Irish wit afterward wrote; "the gallant captain died three weeks after the duel of the report of his pistol."

The next affair was with Attorney General for Ireland Fitzgibbon. The parties were to fire at pleasure. Curran fired first, and then Fitzgibbon took aim for nearly a minute. On its proving ineffectual Curran remarked: "It was not your fault, Mr. Attorney; you were deliberate enough!" The third duel was with John Egan, an Irish barister who had the nickname of Bully. Egan was "of immense size, as brawny and almost as black as a coal porter." Curran was facetious on the subject of Egan's size, and they left the field reconciled. Egan became Curran's second in Curran's fourth and last duel, with Lord Buckinghamshire.

They fought with swords and great courage and skill were displayed on both sides. Sheridan disarmed his adversary and compelled him to sign a formal retraction. Why He Led.

The angel was making up the list. "I never asked my fellow man if it was hot enough for him," remarked Abou Ben Adhem.

And lo, his name came in under the wire first.—New York Sun.
