Real Estate Report

The Gresham Real Estate Company has been doing a very satisfactory business the last month. They report having made three sales of farm land within the last ten days. Also some town property.

Mr. D. M. Roberts claims that their greatest trouble is being unable to keep a very large list on hand. Some people seem to think that by listing their property with some Portland firm that their land is just as good as sold, but Mr. Roberts says that he believes that his books will show more sales in the last five years in and near Gresham than any two real estate firms can show in Portland during the same period. And if that is true it might pay you to list your property, if you have something good, with the Gresham Real Estate Co.

HIS VERY WORDS.

The Property Man Cheerfully Quoted Them to Dierbohm Tree.

Beechbush Tree, the English actor, had a casual experience on his first appearance as the corpulent Falstaff.

In the last act he had arranged that Falstaff, "concealed by gibes and buffets of the fairies in Windsor forest, should make one herculean effort to climb the oak tree. The pegs that were to serve as supports for that tree were always conspicuous by their absence. On the morning before the performance Mr. Tree was told they should positively be fixed on the tree. The morning came, but with it no pegs. Eloquent was stilled; even invective faltered. He pointed to the tree and with the calm of despair blurted out to the defaulter, "No pegs!"

Such an ejaculation, spoken more in sorrow than in anger, would he hoped, appeal to that last remnant of conscience which even the paper mache bosom of a property man might be supposed to retain. In the evening there was a dress rehearsal, but still no pegs could be seen. Mr. Tree's form quivered—beneath the padding—with pent-up emotions, and in a torrent of passion and a voice shaken by righteous wrath he exclaimed:

"Where are those pegs?"

"Pegs—pegs!" exclaimed the property master, with exasperating affability.

"Why, gov'nor, what was your words to me this morning? 'No pegs.' And there ain't none."—London Tit-Bits.

Temples of Siam.

Once a year all the Buddhist temples in Siam are visited by the king or his deputies, bearing the phra katlin (yellow robes), in conformity with an ancient custom by which the priests were made to seek their apparel for the ensuing year. During the lifetime of Buddha monks and priests were sent out to beg for old castoff garments, which were afterward dyed yellow and patched together to form the required robes. This ancient mendicant custom gradually gave place to the present one of making the garments from a new cloth of a bright canary yellow, provided by joint contributions of king, princes, nobles and commoners.

When the king goes in the royal throne barge to present the robes in person he does so with great pomp and ceremony. The priestly garments, folded in bundles, are carried to the door of the temple to await the appearance of his majesty and his suit. The king on arriving takes a priestly robe and places it on a decorated altar. The chief priest then lays his hands on the garment and chants an acknowledgment.—Wide World Magazine.

RANGES

This is NOT a time of high prices if you go to the right place. Are YOU interested in saving? Here's a money saving proposition that will just suit you. In company with certain of Portland's large dealers I buy my goods direct from the manufacturers of the East, to be shipped out here in straight carload lots at much reduced rates. This enables me to give you the following unusual bargains:

- $3 iron beds for $2.50
- $6.40 steel couch for $4.95
- Cold rolled steel, asbestos lined ranges (like cut) with well braced ovens, high casets and reservoirs: 14 inch ovens $24.25, 16-inch ovens $26.25, 18-inch ovens $28.25. These are regular $35 to $40 ranges. Other goods are in proportion. Call and investigate.

R. R. Carlson, Gresham

Bursts of Cheer * By Schwartz

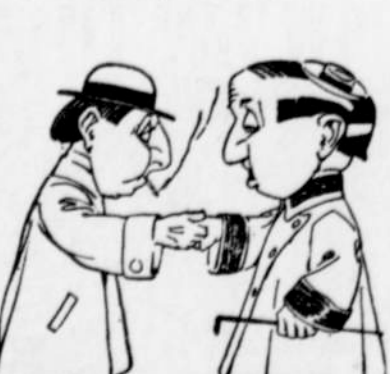

NOT HER FAULT.
Willie—You ought to see that girl. She's great. She's actually knocked me silly.
Sallie—You can't tell that to me. I knew you before you met her.

A PRIOR CLAIM.
Asksit—Who was that prosperous looking man I saw you talking to yesterday? Introduce me, won't you?
Needsit—Not much. I'm trying to borrow money from him myself.

IN ANOTHER PLACE.
First Kid—So you're goin' to get a lickin' when you gets home, are you? What'll you gimme to take it off your hands?
Second Kid—Aw, that ain't de place I gets me lickin'.

THE MORNING AFTER.
First Chappie—Hello! How is your head feeling?
Second Chappie—Immense!
