POULTRY LIKE GREEN FEEDS

Regarded as Absolutely Necessary Where Fowls Are Confined in Summer.

(By MILLER PURVIS)

I regard green feeds as absolutely necessary to the welfare of poultry, old and young, both summer and winter. Where fowls are kept confined it must be supplied to them and where they have full liberty it may be fed to them with profit during the months when vegetation is somewhat burned by the heat.

A letter from a friend exactly coincides with the experience. He writes that last summer he had a batch of rape which he cut and fed to his hogs. He says his hens ate this rape as greedily as they would if they had not been shut up where they could not be out to find grass for themselves. I have noticed this more than once.

Throw out a lot of fresh lettuce leaves where the hens can get it and they will eat it up clean. Cabbage stumps thrown out to the hens will be picked clean, even where the hens run at large.

Those who must keep their hens confined will find that a small plot of rape will furnish a large quantity of green feed during the summer.

It will be large enough to begin cutting in five or six weeks and as soon as it is cut off will throw up new shoots, thus renewing itself constantly, so the same ground may be cut over time after time.

Lettuce or dandelions make a very good green feed for laying hens or growing chicks. There seems to be some medicinal property about both these vegetables which promotes good health in the fowls.

Both are easily grown and furnish a good supply of feed if the tops are cut off instead of pulling the plants out by the roots when gathering the feed.

Turnips and beet tops, mustard, peas and all other tender green stuff will be relished, and save much feed of a more costly kind.

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.

Pennsylvania Educationalist Thinks They Should Be Abolished.

Public school students have a champion in the person of Dr. Nathan C. Schaeffer, superintendent of public instruction in Pennsylvania, in their antipathy to examinations. Dr. Schaeffer has gone so far as to say that he hoped he would see the day when examinations would be abolished. "They are," he said, "like drugs, since they have a primary as well as secondary effect in that they cause depression if kept up."

Dr. Schaeffer is himself a keen student and observer. He has profited by his years of experience since his connection with the public schools of the state and he knows whereof he speaks, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. But his opinion in this respect is not the result of deductions on the part of one man alone. There are many others who think with him, some of whom have so expressed themselves and others who, while convinced themselves, are too timid to take a decided stand in the matter.

There is little doubt that the examination is in many respects a barbarous institution. Education is, in the last analysis, only a means to an end, a process of gradual mental development, a plan by which each day the mind is broadened. To expect a child to pass successfully on details which it has used only as mental food and forgotten for five, six, seven or nine months seems not only unjust, but ridiculous. The consequence is that an examination time approaches there is a cramming of matter into the mind, mental indigestion ensues and, not infrequently, even the brightest students are injured physically.

In the big world where results count, a man is not examined at the end of each year as to his work during the past 12 months. The caliber of his work and endeavor at the end of each day is what counts, and so it should be in the preparation for this real work.

RUNNING THE DAIRY RIGHT

People Willing to Pay Big Price for Milk if They Are Sure That It is Clean.

(By R. M. STERLING.)

We take pains to let our customers know how we run things in our dairy and charge two cents more than we used to get for our milk. Our customers pay it without grumbling, for they know our dairy is immaculate and our milk pure and clean, and I believe we could get an extra two cents if we had the courage to ask for it. I know a farmer in New Jersey who has built up a dairy herd of 200 cows and by producing certified milk gets 20 cents a quart and cannot supply the demand. Of course he has a big market in New York, you say. That is true, but he manages to sell every gallon of his milk in towns surrounding his dairy, 17 miles from New York city. This goes to show that there are always enough people, even outside the big cities, to buy milk which they know to be absolutely clean, and at prices a great deal higher than they have been paying for ordinary stuff dipped out of a rusty can by slovenly milkmen.

POULTRY NOTES.

Keep no breeding stock that is weak.

Use the eggs while fresh for hatching.

Supply grit and fresh water. Provide shade.

Do not overfeed or overfatten the parent stock.

Feed the ducklings not only grain, but meat or milk (protein food in some form) and plenty of green food. Both mites and body lice accumulate very quickly in hot weather, and cause no end of trouble.

Farm folks are seeing from their more up-to-the-minute neighbors that good housing and feeding pay big returns on the work and investment.

As a rule more may be obtained for a two-pound chick in the summer than for one twice as heavy in the fall, and much feed, work and risk saved.

BIRD CHAT.

What species of bird lays the smallest egg in proportion to its size; likewise the largest?

It has been computed that 300,000,000 birds are annually slaughtered for plumes and other decorations.

The Chinese eat "rotten" eggs—that is, eggs preserved in lime until they get a consistency like that of hard butter.

A fossil raphoryucus, a bird of 50,000,000 years old, sold for $9,000 recently, the highest price ever paid for a bird.

Cranes are used as watchdogs in Venezuela by the natives, who call them "yakanuk," and are said to be excellent guards of poultry.

Cardinals have been known to alight upon window sills of houses and peck at the panes, probably attracted by their reflection in the glass.

Birds are not the only higher animals that lay eggs, two quadrupeds, the duck-billed platypus and the Australian porcupine ant-eater, also lay them.

The rpr n'dooh, or "bird of death," is the only venomous bird known to science, but there is very little known regarding its habits, and especially its venomous qualities.

The hyacinthine macaw is one of the strongest as well as one of the rarest birds of its kind. There is one in the New York Zoo. There appears to be absolutely nothing known regarding its habits.

Feeds for Young Pig.

Bran, milk and pasturage are some of the bulky feeds well adapted to the real young pig. They help to distend the digestive system, which enables the pig to use cheaper and coarser feeds to better advantage than the pig raised on concentrates.

A HUNGARIAN TALE

ONLY THE FARMER'S FAITHFUL DOG REMAINED WITH HIM.

Balance of the Outfit of Domestic Animals Skiddoo and Take a Fall Out of a Butinsky Wolf.

Once upon a time, the creature living with a farmer grew tired of serving him, and one day deserted him. Cow and horse, cock and hen, duck and goose, left his dwelling. Only a dog remained behind, faithful to his master.

He wandered about all day long in company, and when night came, finding a deserted hut in the forest, they entered it and took possession of it.

The cat laid herself down in the still warm ashes on the hearth. Horse and cow stretched themselves out on some loose straw in one corner. The duck waddled under a bench, the goose under a table, the hen flew up on top of a cupboard, the cock on the chimney piece. Just as they had comfortably settled themselves for the night a pack of wolves came prowling about the hut, and sent the oldest and strongest one among them into it to see who it was who had taken possession there.

When the wolf came in at the door he saw the cat's eyes glowing in the dark, and took them for live coals on the hearth. But when he came up closer the cat flew at him, nearly scratching his eyes out. The horse got up from the straw and gave him a kick in the ribs. And when the wolf turned to flee from the hut the cow butted him against the wall with her horns. The hen sprang clucking loudly on his back, while the duck and the goose nipped his legs with their bills, and just as he, frightened and bewildered with the reception he had got, managed to escape out of the door, the cock on the chimney piece burst out with loud jubilant crowing. Master Wolf came back to his comrades in a very sad plight.

"That was a nice task you gave me," he said, reproachfully. "The hut is tenanted by witches. When I came in and went up to the hearth, where I saw some coals burning, the vixen of a cock flew at me and nearly scratched my eyes out, the groom got up from the corner when he had been lying and almost broke my ribs with a blow of his tail, while the farmer himself, seizing a pitchfork, thrust me rudely against the wall. His wife struck me on the back with her distaff, and two of her maids, crying 'Back, back,' struck me again and again in the legs with their shears. And just as I was fleeing from the house, another maid, from a room under the roof, cried out, in a horrible voice, 'Bring him to me—to me!'"

On hearing this tale of their scout, the whole pack of wolves took to their heels and ran off as fast as they could.

The way the embroidered and plain linen is combined here is very good style. There is a certain dash to it that's due partly to the plain little banding of a contrasting shade.

FASHION HINTS

Questionable Benefit of Baths.

The French comedian, Perlet, was extraordinarily thin. At last he became such a skeleton that he consulted a physician, who recommended him to try some baths in the Pyrenees. Having obtained leave of absence from his manager, he betook himself to the mineral springs, where he bathed unremittingly, but all in vain; he did not increase in size. "Patience," urged the doctor; "there is nothing like our baths for making people fat." One day, while Perlet was waiting philosophically in his bath for an embosment which never came, he heard a conversation in the next room, from which his own was divided by only a thin partition, and which was occupied by an enormous woman, fat as the Hottentot Venus. "Doctor," said she, "I am getting tired of this." "Why?" asked the Aesculapius. "I have been here two months." "Well?" "Well, I am as enormous as I was when I came." "A little patience, madame," urged the doctor; "there is nothing like our baths for making people thin." Perlet hearing these words, sprang out of his bath, dressed, rushed home to his hotel, ordered his bill, and left for Paris by the next train.

Urges Higher Education.

Dr. Simon Flexner, the brilliant head of the Rockefeller Institute, urged, at a dinner party in New York, the higher education of the masses.

"The newest laws of hygiene," he said, "can't be inculcated save among those who thoroughly understand them. Take the case of Dash.

"Dash, a rich country scientist, decided to encourage cremation among the villagers. So, when the old ashman died, Dash urged his widow to have the corpse cremated.

"No, sir," said the old woman. "I'll not cremate him. I'll put him under the soil."

"But the cremation won't cost you a cent," said Dash. "I'll pay all the expenses if you'll let me have him cremated."

"Well, I agree," said the old woman in a hesitating voice. "I'm too poor not to agree, sir."

"Then she gave Dash a puzzled look, half of pity, half of contempt.

"But why do you do it, sir?" she said. "Is it a hobby like golf or stamp collectin'?"

Self-Sacrifice.

"I thought I told you to stop smoking," said the doctor, severely.

"I tried to," replied the patient, "but I haven't the heart to disappoint the members of my family who look to me for prize coupons and baseball pictures."

DRINK DOLE'S
Pure Hawaiian Pineapple Juice

Drink it Pure The Drink Delightful!

All the bouquet of the ripe pineapple field, all the snappy acid tang, with none of the rude "bite" you are accustomed to in the urine fruit-store product you have known; all that's good and nothing that's in the least unwholesome; all that's delicious; all that's satisfying—all this is yours in Dole's Pure Hawaiian Pineapple Juice. Non-alcoholic, of course.

The Dole process of refining the juice of the Hawaiian Pineapple adds no water, no sugar, absolutely nothing to the pure juice. Serve it cold—the colder the better; cracked ice in the glass is a help. An olive, a saltine, a cheese straw, a Welsh-rabbit emphasizes the flavor. It adds interest to any afternoon or evening entertainment, at home or at the club.
