TO EAT SPARROWS

NEW DISH'S POPULARITY MAY AID IN EXTERMINATION.

Their Flesh Now Has Market Value Which Helps Naturalists Who Favor Extermination—Chefs Say They Are Good.

Washington, D. C.—Extermination of the English sparrow, desired by naturalists for the reason that these birds have in large measure driven out the native song birds, may soon be accomplished, it having been discovered that "sparrow pottle" equals some of the game food served at fashionable cafes.

Advance in the cost of living is responsible for the adoption of the English sparrow as a food. In the west and northwest, when the prices of fresh meats reached a point prohibitive to the poorer classes, the suggestion was made that the sparrow as an edible bird possessed merit worthy of consideration.

Experiments in serving the sparrow were made, with the result that sparrow pottle became popular and attracted attention of restaurant and cafe proprietors, who discovered that the bird could be served not only in pottle form, but on toast and in other ways not under the name of sparrow on the menu, but with some high-sounding French title. The dish pleased patrons and at once established its popularity and success.

As a result of the popularity of the new dish, it is said that the great droves of English sparrows that have for years been a public nuisance in all of the large cities are being killed in large numbers, the flesh of the birds having a market value which will contribute to their extermination.

Those who have partaken of the sparrow pottle and sparrow on toast say it is preferable to the reed bird, the difference in the flavor of the meat of the two birds being imperceptible even by epicureans.

The chefs of the local hotels and cafes, while not admitting that the sparrow is being served at their tables, say they can see no reason why an English sparrow should not be as good eating as many of the standard game birds popular with diners. It was said that while the birds are a little larger than the reed bird, they are tender and possess a good flavor.

Lebanon, Pa.—Out in the neighborhood of Buzzard's Glory, this county, lives a woman who probably knows more about chickens than any other person in the county. She is Mrs. Sarah Sinclair and she tells of a freakish prank played by one of her own chickens.

Seeing the youngster, but a few days old, which she thought by its action was afflicted with a bad case of gapes, she caught it, opened its bill and discovered that the chicken had no tongue. She was very puzzled, but decided to take a chance, so ran a horse hair down its throat and when she pulled it out it brought forth a piece of bread which the chicken had swallowed.

The miraculous part of the story is that the bread had become wrapped around the chick's tongue and it had actually swallowed the tongue along with the bread. In a few hours the chick died.

DANGER IN THE LARGE HAT

It is Now Declared That Wearing It Tends to Make a Woman Bald.

New York.—The gigantic hat is still fashionable in London and Paris, despite the ridicule heaped upon it by masculine critics. A London hair specialist now declares that the big hat is dangerous as well as ridiculous, a London letter to the New York Sun says. He warns women that if they persist in wearing big hats they will lose their hair. The specialist said: "As grass turns yellow under a mushroom, so women's hair will lose its color and deteriorate under the gigantic hats which are now the mode. There is every possibility of the fair sex going bald unless a revolution in hats is effected.

"First of all, these enormous mountains of millinery shut out the health-giving sun and air. Secondly, they present such vast surfaces to the wind that they tug against the detaching hatpins like a tug on a string. For both reasons they injure the hair."

BOLTS ILLUME THE MINES

Lightning Flashes Play 1,800 Feet Below the Surface and Light Up Cavern.

Pottsville, Pa.—Lightning 1,800 feet below the surface of the earth was witnessed the other evening in the mines in West Schuylkill. When a terrific thunderstorm came up the over-heated earth added to the fierceness of the electrical display, and the lightning managed to find its way along the electric power wires to the bottom of the slopes.

The underground workings were illuminated and made as bright as the sun at midday; but no damage was done, although a number of mules, which have not seen daylight for years, are believed to have been blinded by

Little Viola had developed the habit of holding her thumb in her mouth, even while eating. Mother had resorted to all sorts of methods to correct the child and finally in desperation said:

"Viola, the first thing you know you will swallow your thumb, and then what will you do?"
"Well, mother, I should hate to swallow it because I'd have a heaven of a time without it."
"Why, Viola," said the astonished mother, "where did you hear an expression like that?"
"Well, well," hesitated the little girl, "I didn't hear it exactly like that, mother, but I thought it would sound better."

APPETITE GONE --BEWARE

It is a sure sign of some inward weakness when the appetite commences to lag and you have that "don't care" sort of feeling at meal-time. It is something that needs immediate attention, for neglect only brings on more trouble and often a long illness. Restore the appetite and keep it normal by the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It is for Poor Appetite, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Costiveness and Malaria.

The Last Straw.
John Smith fell down the cellar stairs the other day and broke his left leg, his right arm, two ribs, his nose, one finger, and cut his scalp, sprained his ankle, and put his shoulder out of joint. But he didn't really begin to feel bad about it till his wife asked him if he was hurt.—Exchange.

CURE OF HIDDEN TREASURE.

Two Fruitless Trips Have Not Discouraged California Men.

Major W. A. Desborough, who has made two trips to find a reputed buried treasure on Cocos Island, in the Pacific, off the coast of Central America, will prove the charm.

His first trip was made twelve years ago, but mutiny in his crew compelled him to give up the search, although he proved the correctness of his drawings and maps at that time.

Last summer he made another trip, sailing from Los Angeles in the yacht Ramona, the Express of that city says, but heavy and continuous rains and the lack of power to operate machinery prevented him from making sufficient excavations. This time the locality was considerably changed from what it was twelve years ago.

Cocos Island is famous as a pirates' retreat, and others besides Major Desborough have searched it for hidden plunder.

The particular treasure for which Major Desborough is searching is supposed to have been taken from Peru in the middle of the last century and buried on the Island by Capt. John Keating, who died soon afterward. Since his last trip, Major Desborough has met a man in New Orleans who visited the island ten years ago in company with a son-in-law of Captain Keating. They had maps and drawings which appeared correct, but indicated that considerable excavation would be necessary. Keating's son-in-law was an old man then, and he turned over the maps to the New Orleans man, but the latter has never tried to find the treasure. He gave copies of the maps and details to Major Desborough.

Tradition says there is $50,000,000 worth of pirates' loot buried on the island, but the particular treasure sought by Desborough is $17,000,000 in gold bullion. He says that since his visit twelve years ago there appears to have been a great deal of blasting in the vicinity of one deposit, as the hillsides are changed and the creek bed altered.

Where the bullion is supposed to be buried, however, there appears to have been only the change of formation due to the rainfall, which sometimes amounts to an inch an hour, making work difficult.

Major Desborough has had several offers both from New York and on this coast to finance another expedition, which he estimates will cost about $20,000, and he is now looking for a steamer of about 800 tons to make the trip.

Reverie.
Reverie, like the rain of night, restores color and force to thoughts which have been blanched and wearied by the heat of the day. With gentle fertilizing power it awakens within us a thousand sleeping germs and, as though in play gathers round us materials for the future and images for the use of talent. Reverie is the Sunday of thought, and who knows which is the more important and fruitful for man, the laborious tension of the week, or the life-giving repose of the Sabbath—Amiel's Journal.

To a Certain Sweet Extent.
"Do you wholly trust me, darling?" murmured the young man to the fair creature who was sitting beside him on the front seat of the trolley car.
"I do to a certain extent," she responded after a little hitch of hesitation.
"What extent?" he asked, anxiously.
"Why," she explained, "I would trust you to the extent of not being afraid of there being any poison in a box of candy you might send me by mail."

Truly Wonderful Alarm Clock.
A few years ago the French government acquired by purchase from a private collection a wonderful alarm clock which was once the property of the great Napoleon and which not only tells the time of day, but, as well, the day, the month, the year, the mean solar time, the phases of the moon, and indicates, in addition, the quarter hours. Its attachments also include a thermometer.

FASHION HINTS

Set Age Limit on Marriage.
According to Russian law no man or woman who has attained the age of eighty can contract a legal marriage. No other country nowadays imposes such a restriction. In ancient Rome, however, legislation on this point was even more stringent, the maximum age limit for men being sixty and for women fifty.

Delicate Irony.
Makart, the great Viennese painter, was tactful to a fault. It is related of him that once at a dinner party he sat next to Mme. Gallmeyer for a whole hour without uttering a syllable, when his fair neighbor playfully nudged him with her elbow and said: "Come, Herr con Makart, let us change the conversation."

Teach Obedience.
Let children understand that disobedience is sure to be followed by punishment. A child seldom disobeys Nature more than once in touching a hot lamp-glass. It will soon learn to obey you as well. Never allow it to ask why. You know; that is enough.

Physical Powers of Insects.
Ants will carry loads 40 or 50 times as heavy as themselves. The beetle can move a weight 112 times his own weight. The house fly gives 600 strokes of its wings in one second, and this enables it to get a distance of 35 feet.

Useful New Substance.
"Resinite" is the name of a new substance invented in Germany, useful as a substitute for celluloid and ivory. It renders wood, paper and pasteboard impenetrable and makes pine, for example, so hard that it rapidly dulls a planer.
