If the full facts were known it is more than likely that much of the benefit resulting from the application of stable manures to the soil is due to the fact that the alkalis they contain tend to correct and sweeten a somewhat sour condition of soil, as well as to the known fertilizing elements which they contain.

Those starting in the growing of chrysanthemums should keep in mind that these plants are gross consumers of plant food, need heavy fertilizing and frequent watering. If the largest measure of success is to be attained with them. Failure with this fine flower is sometimes due to the fact that the bed in which they are set is placed too near a hedge or shrubs, which are also heavy pullers on both fertility and moisture.

If sheep had no further point in their favor the keeping of a flock of from thirty to sixty on the average farm would be amply justified from the service they render as weed destroyers. It being a matter of statistics that of more than 500 different kinds of weeds they will consume all but about fifty varieties. Along with dairying the practice of sheep raising needs introducing in many grain raising sections of the country, while it needs reintroducing into some sections where it was once in vogue.

The northeast slope has been viewed for many years past as the ideal site for an orchard location. This seems to be due to the fact that on such locations orchards are not only exposed to the cold winds of spring, which tend to retard a development of blossom, bud and leaf, but receive much less directly the rays of the warming sun. In localities where there is never danger from spring frosts these factors are not so vital, but in latitudes where this is a recurrent danger this matter of location is an important one.
