

BEAVER STATE HERALD

Succeeding Gresham Vindicator, Gresham Gazette, East Multnomah Record, Multnomah Record and Montavilla Herald.
Published Every Friday at Gresham, Ore., by the BEAVER STATE PUBLISHING CO.
H. A. DARNALL, EDITOR AND MANAGER.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Gresham, Oregon.

Special attention is called to the Year-End Edition of the Herald which will be published next week. It will consist of 16 pages of historical articles on this section, especially Gresham, the advertisements of the leading business men in the country and illustrated with many fine cuts. The circulation of the edition is to be twice that of the regular edition and anybody desiring extra copies to send abroad or to file away as souvenirs can procure them at 5 cents each by calling at our offices on Powell street.

The wool men of the northwest are growing anxious about the widespread interest in the wool tariffs. The Mid-Winter Sheep Show promises to be a caucus of the wool lobby that will have for its object the maintenance of the present rates and they evidently think they have a job on their hands as they well may. The people of the country cannot always be misled into believing that the way to improve a man's financial condition is to tax him prohibitive prices for the necessities of life. If the tariff acted to promote the wool growers alone it would be different. As a matter of fact the manufacturer seems to get the biggest slice of profits and the wool growers are only a few cents ahead. If the wool producing business will not pay in this country of cheap rough feed how can it pay in countries like England where feed is scarce and range is at a much higher rate. If the business will not support itself why continue to tax the entire country to make it go. The local consumer buys of the local merchant who can lay the goods down to him at the closest price. As a country why should we not be allowed to do the same thing. The local merchant who does not meet local prices quits business, whether at a loss or not. He does not expect everybody it town to pay into a fund for his personal support. Why should any other business in any other county or state.

James J. Hill played Santa Claus this week by visiting Oregon and promising new railroads. Extensions of the Oregon Trunk Line from the present proposed terminus at Bend south through Interior Oregon, the pushing of the United Railways westward to Tillamook and the building of an independent Hill passenger station in Portland were some of the things the Empire Builder outlined.

The new city engineer, L. C. Kelsey, employed for the installing of the water system for Gresham has been in town for several days and is getting acquainted with the people and his work. One of the first things he did was to call on the Herald and leave the price of a subscription.

The Mid-Winter Sheep Show will be held in Portland January 4 to 7 inclusive. A fine list of premiums has been arranged and prospects are good for an unusual exhibit. Among the names of managers appears that of Chas. Cleveland, our fellow townsman.

Thursday is the shortest day in the year, that is the day that has the least day light. About eight hours and a half is the period for the sun in this latitude, at this date. The days will at once begin to lengthen, tho the change will not be noticeable for several weeks.

The attaching of a new name to the Madison bridge will be objected to by most of the people who have to use it. The country east of the city will prefer the old name.

Oregon's financial condition as shown by the state treasurer is excellent. There is $424,919 on hand with no debts, bonded or otherwise.
