

Grange County Convention

All subordinate granges in Oregon will elect delegates to their respective county conventions at their next meetings. The ten granges of Multnomah county will elect three delegates each, with an equal number of alternates. The principal duty of the county convention is to elect representatives to the state grange, which this year will meet at Corvallis on the second Tuesday in May. Multnomah county is entitled to six representatives to be chosen from four of the ten granges of the county. As the representatives always go in pairs—man and wife—three of the granges can be represented, the other one, having to wait its turn with the three next on the list. This year the four granges of Multnomah county to be recognized are Evening Star, Fairview, Russellville and Multnomah. One will necessarily have to be left out in the election. The convention will probably be held in Gresham early in March.

ROCKWOOD

Grandpa Rollin is able to be on again after suffering with the grippe for a week.

Miss Mamie Pierce of Portland has been spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Jensen.

The entertainment to be given by the school children in the grange hall the first Friday evening in March is to be a basket social. All ladies are requested to bring well filled baskets.

Mrs. A. H. Bell of Portland was calling on old friends last Saturday.

The master and secretary of Fairview grange, the two Mr. Stones, and Mrs. Maggie Sales were among the visitors of Rockwood grange last Saturday.

John Richmond is confined to his bed, suffering with the grippe.

Cleo May Rowley was born at Terry, Oregon, October 20, 1909, and passed to the Great Beyond at Lents, Oregon, February 19, 1911, death being due to pneumonia, she being ill about ten days. Little Cleo May was the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Rowley, there being another little daughter, seven years old, to also mourn the loss of a little sister. The parents are well known here, both having lived in this neighborhood before and after marriage, until recently when they moved to Lents. Funeral services were conducted from the chapel in Gresham on Tuesday morning, Rev. J. H. Wood of Melrose, officiating. The funeral was largely attended by relatives and friends of the family. The little one was laid to rest in Hall cemetery.

A darling one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home
That never can be filled.

God in His wisdom has recalled
The boon his lone has given,
And though the body moulders here
The soul is safe in heaven.

M. O. Nelson's Illustrated Lectures

The illustrated lecture given by M. O. Nelson at the grange hall Wednesday evening was a success in every way. There was a good crowd of the leading business men and their wives present. The views were fine, showing parks and residences in Minneapolis, Minn., Kansas City, Mo., and Dayton, Ohio. The Commercial club was very fortunate in securing Mr. Nelson to give the people an idea as to beautifying our town. The Commercial club expects to have a meeting next Wednesday night for the purpose of reorganizing.

Thanks

We wish to express our thanks for the kindness and assistance of our many friends during our sad bereavement, the death of our little daughter.
MR. AND MRS. NATHAN ROWLEY.

MARMOT

Two surveying parties are now at work on the tunnel line for the Mount Hood company. Mr. Taylor, superintendent, and Mr. Ludwig, resident engineer, were here inspecting the work the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Shelley of Sandy are guests at the Aschoff home on Monday last week.

J. H. Foster of Camp Sandy is rapidly recovering from his recent illness.

B. Frame, who is now timekeeper for the Mt. Hood company at Bull Run, was a Sunday guest at Marmot.

A serious accident was nearly experienced at the hotel last Saturday evening, but it ended happily as it saved the life of one of our promising young civil engineers, Eben Holden. Mr. Holden was in a very precarious position when a stove in which a brisk fire was burning fell over on him, thereby saving him from a still more terrible fate.

Miss Rownt and Mr. McCargar took a fishing trip to the Sandy bridge on Sunday.

A necktie social and entertainment followed by a social dance will be given at the Aschoff home on Saturday evening. The proceeds will be used to purchase pictures for the school.

M. and Mrs. E. J. Aschoff and small son, Ott, of Portland are guests at the Aschoff home.

Unclaimed Letters

The following letters remain unclaimed for at the Gresham post office for the week ending January 18, 1911:

Gentlemen's list—Car Repairer, John A. Buchanan, W. C. Snyder, Aug. Huffer.

Ladies' list—Mrs. A. Miller, Mrs. Grace Jones.

These letters will be sent to the Head Letter Office on March 4, 1911, if not delivered before. In calling for the above, please say "advertised," giving date of list.

L. McCOLL, P. M.

Roup easily Prevented

Roup is one of the most common and one of the most annoying diseases among chickens, and it has ravaged the flocks for years without the cause of it being ascertained. It is well known though, that debilitated strains of fowls are very susceptible to it, and that fowls exposed to dampness, filth and cold drafts are easy victims to it, as are also fowls that are run down from lice and mites.

Roup attacks the membrane of the head and throat, often causing a swelling of the head in various places and with the complete closing of the eyes, and a fowl that might otherwise recover will starve.

When the fowl gets a severe case of roup, the best and the cheapest plan is to use the hatchet, as a fowl, though recovered from roup, is worthless as a breeder, as the young chicks (should you succeed in raising,) will be troubled the first year of their existence with roup. The germ of the disease never seems to leave the system after they have the disease once. Then it should be prevented if possible and here are some of the things that should be avoided:

Keep the fowls out of the drafts, it is far better to leave your fowls roost out in trees and open fields than to have a hen house full of cracks, thereby causing drafts. Houses tight except on the south side are to be recommended. We also have muslin or burlap to cover it with. Proper ventilation which is essential, can be had with this plan. See to it that the roof don't leak and try to have a dry floor. You must avoid dampness and filth, lice and mites.

Do not let your young stock roost in crowded, filthy boxes until late in the fall, when it is liable to be wet and damp or your fowls will have roup sure. The better plan is to sell off your surplus cockerels as fast as they are large enough and get the pullets used to roosting in houses before fall.

Next comes the remedy. On the first evidence of a cold, such as a rattling of the throat in breathing, or a running at the nostrils, or froth appears in the eye is the time to begin treatment. If but one or a few fowls are affected, separate them from the rest and confine them to coops.

Sandy, Ore., Feb. 2, 1911.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between Willard Bosholt, Nel Nelson and Antone Mikelson, and known as the Firwood Lumber Co., in business near Sandy for the last three and a half years, will be dissolved the first of March, and that all outstanding accounts due to or against the firm should be paid to Antone Mikelson at Sandy, Ore., on or before the first of March, 1911, and take receipt therefor.

Signed,
Antone Mikelson.

Place coops out in the open air if possible and rub the affected parts with coal oil and a little lard morning and evening; also take a feather and dip in coal oil and swab out the throat. If a cold is taken in time and cared for before it runs into roup, this treatment is all that is needed to effect a cure.
