JOB PRINTING is our specialty. We are well equipped to do the best work at current prices. Especially farmers and business men's Letter Heads, Envelopes, Butter Wrappers, Statements, etc., in small or large quantities. Auction Bills, Dodgers, Posters, etc., printed on short notice.

Another week and the Herald and the other publications formerly issued from its press will be finally and completely settled for future business. The job of moving has been a big one. The statement that a person never knows what they own till they have moved once or more has been substantiated in our instance. We pretty nearly knew what we had but we did not know how it would pile up. It just took eleven heaping wagon loads to effect the change in location, ranging from a 1000 pounds to 7800 pounds each. The valuation of this institution will be raised forthwith.

Friends and acquaintances returning from the east all have the same story—"too warm for me." But then had they remained at home perhaps the same remarks would have been heard. Still they contend that Oregon heat is preferable to the suffocation and drought that prevailed in early July and from the middle of August. Anyway there is a good deal in being used to the peculiar kind of heat they produce in any locality. The moist heat of Oregon while it does not set the mercury to boiling is about as oppressive due to the relatively larger amount of moisture borne in the air.

The improvements being made at the Grounds of the Fair association at Gresham deserved attention. This year visitors to the Fair will be pleased to see the buildings all wearing a coat of white. Each year will bring additional improvements and before we are well aware of it the Grange Fair will have attained the ends of its original promoters and be known throughout the state.

So the single tax as applied in Vancouver, B. C., is not the single tax proposed by our Oregon friends who are promoting this sort of reform. But then we haven't heard just what our Oregon friends do propose.

Pinchot and Poindexter are planning a trip to Alaska to look over the Controller Bay territory. Then we may expect some more fireworks and a few more executive addresses.

Thirty Years Together.
Thirty years of association—think of it. How the merit of a good thing stands out in that time—or the worthlessness of a bad one. So there's no guesswork in the evidence of Thos. Ariss, Concord, Mich., who writes: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for 30 years, and it's the best cough and cold cure I ever used." Once it finds entrance in a home you can't pry it out. Many families have used it forty years. It's the most infallible throat and lung medicine on earth. Unequaled for lagrippe, asthma, hay-fever, croup, quinsy or sore lungs. Price 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Gresham druggists.

An ordinary case of diarrhoea can, as a rule, be cured by a single dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the summer is over. This remedy has no superior. For sale by all dealers.

Growth Of the Boy Scouts

E. T. SETON.

NO movement ever before started in this country among the juveniles has met with such enthusiasm as the boy scout plan, and certainly none has had such phenomenal growth. A few months ago the idea was only talked of, but today the organization has a membership of over 150,000 lads enrolled in forty-six states. It is believed that by next summer this army of youths will be as large as that organized on similar lines by General Baden-Powell in Great Britain, which has half a million members.

In 1900 Ernest Thompson Seton, the author and naturalist, organized the Woodcraft Indians in this country, but after General Baden-Powell's organization attained such quick results Mr. Seton and those working with him merged the Woodcraft Indians into the boy scouts and adopted its best features. The whole thing has really grown out of the idea that the boy from ten to fifteen has, like a savage, purely physical ideals. Mr. Seton says he doesn't think he ever met a boy that would not rather be John L. Sullivan than Darwin or Tolstoy. He accepted the fact and sought to keep in view an ideal that is indeed physical, but also clean, manly, heroic and leading with certainty to higher things.

The object of the movement is to make boys manly, good and useful citizens, and not to train them as soldiers, but rather to avoid the bringing up of 40 per cent of the lads of the nation without the knowledge of a useful occupation. The idea was received with such enthusiasm in England that the organization is embarrassed in its efforts to keep control of the multitude of recruits which flock to its standard.

Of course the most important work in the order is done by the scout masters, who may be youths or men of mature age, who train the scouts and give instruction in all the degrees which are needful and take charge of them on scouting parties. Scouts must always address these officials as "sir."

Lads of all shades of religious belief have joined the boy scouts, as it is strictly a nonsectarian organization. The oath to God and country or to God and the king, as it is in Great Britain, is considered by the founder to be sufficiently comprehensive, and there is absolutely no distinction made with respect to creeds. Discipline is largely vested in courts of honor, each composed of a scout master and two patrol leaders, which decide upon rewards, awards and punishments. It is the object of the entire movement to promote the scout spirit, to bring the boys in touch with the manly virtues, to interest them in nature, to develop their powers of observation and interest them in lines of endeavor which will prepare them for useful and honorable callings.

When a boy first becomes a scout he is a tenderfoot, but in time he will become a second class scout, the next higher grade, and finally a first class scout. Before the tenderfoot gets a grade higher he must know the scouts' laws and signs and how to salute. He must know the composition of the national flag and how to fly it. Out of the reef, sheet bend, clove hitch, bowline, middleman's, fisherman's and sheepshank knots he must know how to tie at least four.

To become a graduate scout the boy must pass many difficult tests. He must be able to swim fifty yards, send and receive messages either in semaphore or Morse, read maps correctly, understand the compass, how to fling a life line, the position of the main arteries, how to stop bleeding from veins and arteries, how to improvise splints and many other things which constitute "first aid to the injured."

This will give one a pretty good idea of the thorough training a boy scout receives—a training that cannot but prove of great benefit.

AN AVIATION ROMANCE.

Engagement of Pauline Chase and Grahame White, the British Flier. People must not imagine that the aviators are so absorbed in their work that they only think of breaking records and winning big cash prizes. There's Claude Grahame-White, for instance, the British bird man who has performed so many feats of daring in his monoplane in America of late, with apparently no thought for anything but aviation. All this time however, he has been paying court to Miss Pauline Chase, the actress, and now comes the announcement that they are to be married next week. Whether he "popped the question" while they were soaring in his airship is not known, but the fact remains that some of his courting was done high up in the air, she having made a number of flights with him.

Miss Chase is a Washington girl, but has spent much of her time abroad. The actress and the aviator first met in London nine years ago, when she was a member of Edna May's play, "The Girl Up There." Her name has been mentioned frequently in connection with that of various marriageable young men, but she has been quick to deny all rumors of any engagement. It was even reported at one time that she was to marry James M. Barrie, who is her adopted father. Her first stage success was with Edna May's company, when she went to London and later she appeared in "The Liberty Bells" in New York. She has acted Peter Pan in both London and Paris, and in the latter city was the only American girl to have her name in electric lights over the Vaudeville theater.
