REFUGES FOR GAME BIRDS AND ANIMALS.

There is a law in the State of Oregon which may be made to serve a wonderfully valuable purpose, if its provisions were more widely known. The recent agitation requesting the governor to suspend the hunting season, to the end that the damage from forest fires might be minimized, calls attention to the above mentioned provision. It is one of the privileges of the State Game Warden to make private contracts with property owners, setting aside their land as game reservations. When once this is done, it is unlawful for any one to hunt game birds and game animals on the land so set aside.

An impression has prevailed that private owners would suffer some inconvenience were they to take advantage of this act. On the contrary, there is no expense involved, on the part of the owner, nor is the land withdrawn from any useful purpose. It is merely contracted between the owner and the State Game Warden that the land described shall be regarded as a private reserve, upon which no hunting, either by outsiders or the owner himself, shall be lawful. The hunting and killing of varmints however can be carried on by special permit from the warden in charge. The owner merely agrees to act in the capacity of Deputy Game Warden for that particular piece of property, submitting such evidence as he gathers to the proper authorities.

There are millions of acres of timber land in the state that could be withdrawn under contract with the State Game Warden, as well as hundreds and perhaps thousands of other large tracts. Under this law, the danger from forest fires could be almost entirely eliminated, so far as its origin is due to careless hunters. This law is not only a protection against forest fire, but can be made to serve the farmers a useful purpose by making it unlawful for hunters to trespass on their land, damaging their grain and killing their stock besides making the game protection laws of the state of some consequence.

TIME TO AID WOUNDED TREES

Use Cement Bandages and Preserve the Glorious Old Green Pyramids.

Late August is the time to watch your valuable old shade and fruit trees. Watch for the hollow trunk, the broken limb or the exposed wound where fungi may enter and ruin the stately old friend.

From any wound remove all the decayed wood, with a chisel and adz, to the sound, hard wood, and smooth off the edges of the cavity to allow the free growth of the inner bark.

After the cavity has been thoroughly cleaned out, disinfect it with corrosive sublimate, cresote or even paint. Cresote is better, as it penetrates farther into the wood. The cavity should now be filled with concrete, one part portland cement to two parts sand. Make it thin, so that it can be poured in at the top of the opening. When the cavity is large it is necessary to re-enforce the concrete by placing iron bars across the inside. It is also best to drive large nails part way in around the inside, and this enables the concrete to adhere better to the trunk.

As the filling shrinks considerably in large cavities the walls should be first coated with a thick layer of tar. This expands and fills the shrinkage crack, making the cavity air tight. There is now no chance for any disease to enter and get in its work.

After the filling has set a little the surface should be smoothed off even with the inner bark. In a few years the cambium will completely cover the filling, making a good looking tree.

LITTLE TEXAN FARMERS.

School Children in Taft Work Like Bees and Grow Money Making Crops.

Here is a picture showing how in Texas they teach the young idea not how to shoot, but how to plant. In the town of Taft the school children have two acres of farm land divided into individual plots, one of which becomes for the season the absolute property of its little worker.

The children are furnished with a variety of seeds and the necessary hoe, rake and shovel and are instructed as to the best way to prepare the ground and plant the crop getters.

Then they are left to their own devices concerning watering, weeding and the other details of farm work, and the results so far have been astonishing.

There are prizes given for the finest vegetable specimens and for the orderly keep-up of the beds, and the children are allowed to take home or sell all the results of their industry.

Most of the prizes are in medals, but any child so wishing may have a cash equivalent. One boy cleared up $11 on his plot, but a girl beat him by $1.02.

There were 200 children in the first contest and nearly double that number this year, and Professor Moon, principal of the public schools of Taft, who started the plan, expects to have 1,000 happy, earnest little agriculturists at work next year.

This Explains It.

Lady—What! Thirty-eight cents a dozen for eggs! Why, that's more than 3 cents for one egg.

Grocer—Well, mum, you must remember that one egg is a whole day's work for one hen.—Exchange.

Poultry Pickings.

Poultry should be kept free from feather and skin vermin. These are most injurious to chickens and increase with amazing rapidity in summer.

Cut down the quantity of all heating foods, like corn and buckwheat. Nitrogenous foods, like wheat and oats, should be more generally fed, together with a daily supply of green food.

Avoid overcrowding your chicken coops. When too many fowls roost together they crowd, and the animal heat will cause them to sweat. This in itself has been the cause of more summer sickness than anything else we know of.

Many people hesitate to breed pure bred fowls because they are afraid that they cannot find a market for breeding stock. Those who advertise their birds find no difficulty in finding a market for good stock. Buyers are readers, and sellers must be advertisers.

Here is a cheap and simple remedy to paralyze chicken lice and mites. Make a strong brine and apply it hot. Put on the roosts and on the nest boxes and all over. Get the cheap grade of salt. Be sure to have the brine strong and hot and to get it into every crack about the henhouse.
