HUNTERS RETURN LADEN WITH GAME

Corbett Young Men Report Abundance of Game In Cascades.

A party of four Corbett residents returned last week from a very successful hunting trip in the Cascades near Bonneville. Those in the party were: Clarence Deverell, Louis Benfield, Alvin Kinney and Young Evans.

They were only out two days but returned with four deer. They say there is still abundance of wild game in these regions but that the ground is very rough and perilous.

Mr. Deverell killed one of the biggest deer that ever came out of the Cascades. He is having the head mounted to keep as a memento of the trip. Mr. Evans killed a fine five-point buck which he will mount.

Rub a sore throat with BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT. One or two applications will cure it completely. Price 25c, 50c, and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Lents Pharmacy.

THE AUDOBON SASSIETY.

They met to talk against the cats That kill the birds so sweet That warble in the cherry tree And all the day go "Tweet!"

"The cats must go!" yelled Mrs. Snow. Those women nodded hats All trimmed with pretty birdie wings That were not killed by cats.

"Yes, kill them all!" cried Mrs. Small. "They kill the birds, they do!" She wore a lovely bird graveyard Upon her false hair too.

And thus those Audobons, enraged, Were making cat fur fly When Mrs. Snow glanced down below And there a mouse did spy.

"Help!" "Murder!" "Call the cat!" Those women—where were they? Some perched upon the chandelier; Some fainted dead away.

Then mammy cat came bounding in And nipped up mousey slick. She bore him to her kittens. They gobbled him down quick.

Those females came down off the perch, And each one voted aye— That ratty than have horrid mice The pussy cats may stay.

Thank God that we men aren't birds With fancy tails and wings! These women sick would kill us quick For millinery things.

INTER-CLASS GAMES FOR NOV. 13 AND 14

O. A. C. Arranges its Schedule—Will Take Both Days to Play.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Ore., Nov. 4.—The schedule for the inter-class football games this fall has just been arranged. Since the varsity and second teams have been selected, from the 50 candidates in the field, there are now available a large number of good men for the class teams, and some interesting games are expected.

Each game will take 2 days, one half to be played each day, so that there will be no interference with the practice of the regular freshmen team or with college work. Thursday, Nov. 9, the sophomores and freshmen will meet, finishing the game next day. Nov. 13-14 the juniors and seniors will clash, and the final contest for class championship will take place Nov. 18 as a preliminary to the college game against Willamette.

The O. A. C. football eleven averages less than 150 pounds to each man, while the Washington University eleven has an average of about 178 pounds.

GOD'S COMMANDS FOR THANKS ARE BUT LOVING REQUESTS.

By Rev. Dr. RUSSELL H. CONWELL of Philadelphia.

GOD commands us to give thanks, and all his commands are but directions to do those things which are for our good. His commands are in reality but loving requests.

Thanksgiving day is but a reminder of the great privileges and of the blessing which all receive who train themselves to give thanks.

It is of far more benefit to the recipient of a Christmas present to be grateful than it is to receive a gift itself. It is very wise to be grateful for last year's Christmas presents.

Cultivate a habit of mind which will make you grateful to God and to all your friends and ancestors, for with a grateful heart you will appreciate much more and be in every way a better and happier man.

AN INDIAN THANKSGIVING

Pueblos of New Mexico Do the "Rabbit Hunting Dance."

THE Pueblo Indians of the new state of New Mexico have a day for thanksgiving and prayer contemporaneous with that of the paleface. Their prayer is a dance. That is the Pueblo Indian method of praying to the Great Spirit. The prayer dance is held in the latter part of November, according to the phase of the moon by which their days are regulated. The festival is known as the "rabbit hunting dance." Each village has a festival. There is a generous attendance of Pueblos, and whites are admitted as spectators. The villages of Zuni, Acoma and Taos, being remote, are seldom visited by white people on these festivals, but the one at Isleta, a few miles from Albuquerque, is more generally attended, especially by tourists.

When the chief of the village has officially designated the day the official crier mounts to the top of the "estufa," or place of worship, and announces that the prayer dance of the rabbit hunt will begin at daylight on the stated day. Runners are sent out to notify the Pueblo ranchers.

The dancers are dressed in white cotton pantaloons and cotton skirts of all colors, and some wear loose cotton gowns reaching to the feet. Crown hats with broad colored bands are most generally worn, yet some wear the paleface hat. Others are hatless and let their hair hang down over their backs. Each dancer carries a gun. Three or four men are standing at the head of the line, and they are given the signal by striking on a wooden drum, rattling gourds partly filled with pebbles and singing the song of the rabbit hunt, a slow, monotonous chant, punctuated with an occasional grunt.

When the music starts the line begins to sway, the men at first moving only their bodies. Then they put their feet in motion, raising each alternately without moving from their position. Later they chant the song and thump the ground with their feet more rapidly and violently, and then they give a yell and trot around the square, one following in the other's footsteps in time to the song and music. After making the round they break into circles after the manner of a quadrille, and the square is filled with parties of dancers. The men forming the circle do not join hands, for they need them in executing the movements with their guns in imitation of the hunt, showing how they will kill the rabbit on the morrow. The circles dance in a direction opposite to the course of the sun—that is, from west to east. This ceremony is repeated several times.

At first the dance is fast and furious, but finally decreases to a mere "hippey-hop" movement and then into the primary movement. The Indians continue their chant and dance as long as strength and breath remain.

Dear Old Thanksgiving Day. I remember, I remember Thanksgiving long ago. The day was always crisp and bright, The ground was white with snow. Neath buffalo robes we nestled close In our big double sleigh And dashed away to grandmamma's To spend a happy day.

I remember, I remember The farmhouse kitchen clean, Upon whose shining, painted floor No speck was ever seen. And, oh, the appetizing sights The pantry shelves would show, Where glockles, doughnuts, tarts and cheese Stood in a tempting row!

I remember, I remember The turkey of great size, The squash and turnips, homemade bread And golden pumpkin pies. Grandpapa's bent and hoary head I never can forget. (I wonder if the dear old man Can be a-living yet!)

I remember, I remember— Oh, I guess that's enough! I really can't write any more Of this old fashioned stuff. I only know of it from books. But this thought gives me joy— We're further from that sort of thing Than when I was a boy. —Judge.

A LESSON IN TRUSTS.

The commissioner of corporations has been delving into the history of the tobacco trust. In 1885, one part of the trust, the Duke Sons' company, was worth $250,000. By the mere process of joining the trust it swelled to $7,500,000 and, later, was treated to a further dose of $22,000,000 in "securities," and "earned" 10 per cent on that. And in 23 years the Duke property, a $250,000 proposition, has "earned" $39,000,000, or 15,500 per cent. How long will the American public stand for the game of watered stock, industrial monopoly, rising cost of living and commercialized politics?

IN RECORD TIME.

It took 1,500 members of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees less than a day to bring the United Railway Company at Detroit, Mich., to time. The men were getting 23, 25 and 28 cents an hour and wanted 25 and 30 cents an hour. The company refused to concede the demands of the union and as a result not a streetcar ran until the trouble was settled. The settlement was reached inside of two hours through arbitration, and the men were awarded a scale of 23 cents an hour for the first six months, 27½ cents for the next year and 29½ cents an hour thereafter. The strike was well conducted. There was positively no disorder and not a man was arrested.

PUTTING IT ON MOSQUITOES.

Senator Gore of Oklahoma, while addressing a convention in Oklahoma City recently, told this story, illustrating a point he made:

"A Northern gentleman was being entertained by a Southern colonel on a fishing trip. It was his first visit to the South, and the mosquitoes were so bothersome that he was unable to sleep, while at the same time he could hear his friend snoring audibly. The next morning he approached the old darky who was doing the cooking.

"Jim," he said, "how is it the colonel is able to sleep so soundly with so many mosquitoes around?"

"I'll tell yo', boss," the darky replied, "de first part of de night de kernel is too full to pay any 'tenshun to de skeeters, an' de last part of de night de skeeters is too full to pay any 'tenshun to de kernel."

GREAT PHOSPHATE DEPOSITS.

When the great coal deposits of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and other States of the Appalachian region were being formed, many millions of years ago, in what the geologists term the Carboniferous age, there was also being accumulated in the Rocky Mountain region enormous mineral deposits which are of a widely different character but which may nevertheless play an economic part in the industrial development of the United States comparable even to that of coal. These are the phosphate deposits of Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, and Montana, which are now known to contain hundreds of millions of tons of phosphate rock, constituting a most important artificial fertilizer. Until recently it had been generally assumed that the phosphate deposits of South Carolina, Florida, and Tennessee afforded an "inexhaustible" supply, but recent estimates by the United States Geological Survey show that at the present rate of increase in phosphate mining these eastern deposits are likely to be exhausted within a generation.
