GREATER SAFETY ON RAILROADS

In the last three years and ten months no passenger has been killed through collision or derailment on the Southern Pacific, according to the accident statistics of the Interstate Commerce Commission, recently made public. During this period the road carried 150,400,000 passengers an average distance of 42 miles. In the last three years and four months but one passenger was killed through derailment or collision on the Union Pacific. There were 27,000,000 passengers carried during that time.

Railbreakage has been reduced to a minimum by the introduction of the standard rail. Steel cars are replacing wooded cars over the entire Harriman System and automatic block signals will soon be in operation over every part of the lines. The inspection of the rails as they are manufactured, originally inaugurated by the Harriman Lines, has had much to do with the making of this safety record, and several other roads in this country have recently started similar inspection methods. There is one way to reduce the fatality record on American railroads and that is to pass laws that will prevent trespassing on the rights of way. Fifty-three per cent of the people killed on our railroads annually lose their lives because of trespassing. A large majority of those killed are hoboes and others, stealing rides.

The problem of reducing the number of railway accidents requires the cooperation of both the officials of the companies and of the people. It has been one of the real big problems of railroad operating for years and every line in the country looks forward to the time when a death on a railroad because of derailment or collision will be unheard of.

OBEEDIENCE TO LAW.

I am sure the day is at hand when any man or set of men doing business contrary to existing statutes, when such is proved to them, without animosity or unnecessary haste or needless expenses, will set their houses in proper order. For this reason I believe we are on the eve of a new era of better, safer, steadier, prosperous business. America can square itself to war when it has to be and yet more easily to permanent peace. So it can and will square itself in the regulation of tariffs, trusts and stock markets. The highest glory of this century will be for America when it is recognized by the world that its people have become reverent and obedient to laws and have demanded and secured the prompt execution of every law on the statute book that equal justice may be done to the poor and to the rich without delays or favor.—John W. Wamaker.

HOPE.
Hope, of all ills that men endure,
The only cheap and universal cure.
—Cowley.

Hope, thou nurse of young desire!
—Bickerstaff.

True hope is swift and flies with swallow's wings;
Kings it makes gods, and meaner creatures kings.
—Shakespeare.

Hope, like a cordial, innocent though strong,
Man's heart at once insprits and serenest.
Nor makes him pay his wisdom for his joys.
—Young.

Hope, like the glimmering taper's light,
Adorns and cheers the way
And still, as darker grows the night,
Emits a brighter ray.
—Goldsmith.
