BREAD BAKING—CORN RAISING.

The best bread baker in Iowa, aged twelve years, sat in the private office of Dr. P. P. Claxton, the United States Commissioner of Education, one morning, being told that "the girl or the woman who can bake bread better, and feed the family better, is more valuable than the man who invents improvements in feeding hogs." About him were grouped ten boys, ranging in age from fourteen to eighteen, who had raised the ten biggest acres of corn in the Hawkeye State; and as Dr. Claxton told them their achievements were of larger ultimate worth than those of an army, they blushed and giggled and looked both pleased and uncomfortable at the same time. The visitors were the prize winners in the first state-wide contest in corn growing and bread making yet conducted, the prizes consisting of ten-day trips to Washington.

In connection with his other remarks, Dr. Claxton made a series of epigrams. "Work," he said, "is the very best possible education."

"It is immensely better to know how to do things themselves than to write about what other persons do."

"If you can grow twice as many bushels of corn to the acre in Iowa, or twice as much hay, or twice as much alfalfa, or twice as much anything else, you double the productiveness of your State, and that is the equivalent of increasing our territory by going to war and conquering a country as big as all New England and New York put together."

"It is a good kind of education to learn to think and to make your hands carry out your thoughts. It is a good, religious, moral kind of thing to make the land produce more, and when the work is done in the proper spirit, then agriculture becomes culture."

The contest which resulted in bringing the children on to Washington involved the award of a number of prizes. In seven out of the ten Congressional districts of Iowa, the Congressman offered the Washington trip to the boy between the ages of 10 and 18 who could grow the most corn on an acre of land in his district. The citizens of Pottawattamie County, which includes the city of Council Bluffs, offered a like prize, while two agricultural journals undertook to send on the State champion bread maker and the State champion corn raiser, respectively. As a bonus a firm dealing in farmers' supplies paid the expenses of the mothers of the two State prize winners on the Washington trip.

The best bread maker in the State is Miss Lois Edmonds, of Clarinda, Page County, who won over 6,000 competitors. The State champion corn raiser is Lester Finch, of Fairbank, Buchanan County. He raised 99.87 bushels of corn on an acre of land at a cost of 11 cents a bushel. This yield is about three times as great as the average for the State. The contests were planned and carried out by Prof. E. C. Bishop, head of the school section of the extension department of the State Agricultural College at Ames, Iowa. In judging the winners of the corn growing contest, Prof. Bishop went on the basis of commercial value and cost of raising the crop, as well as upon the absolute quantities raised.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Little's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Little's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient a chance by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

OLD CUSTOMS THAT STICK.

Blotting Band in the Senate and Quill Pens in the Supreme Court.

Oddly enough, though blotting paper has elsewhere displaced all other forms of drying ink and is extensively used in the senate by the senators as they write on their desks, the blotting paper being attached to a device with a handle to it and hung by a string from the desk, the old type of drying ink by means of sand still is permitted to such as care to use it.

The desk of every senator has a sand duster or pounce box, resting in a hole in the top of the desk, looking like an inkwell. The box resembles a pepper shaker, and they are used, for many of the old senators prefer to pour sand on their ink rather than blot it.

The supreme court also holds fast to some practices almost out of use today in front of the rostrum on which the justices sit and in the space reserved for members of the bar are two long tables for the books and the sheepskins of the lawyers which may be needed by them as they present their cases to the court. On the tables are steel pens, blotters and bottles of ink, but also to be had is a collection of newly cut quill pens, fashioned by one of the attendants of the court, and they are used, for many of the older practitioners prefer them to the steel pens of this day.—Washington Cor. Boston Advertiser.

Saves Leg Of Boy.

"It seemed that my 14-year old boy would have to lose his leg, on account of an ugly ulcer, caused by a bad bruise," wrote D. F. Howard, Aquone, N. C. "All remedies and doctors treatment failed till we tried Bucklen's Arnica Salve and cured him with one box." Cures burns, boils, skin eruptions, piles. 25c at All Dealers.
