

THE supporters of Senator Jonathan Bourne have not the least doubt but that there are plenty of men in Oregon who are just as powerful intellectually and otherwise as the senator, but the great and all important question now confronting the voters is whether either of the three of his opponents can compare in this respect and whether or not they can attain the high standing in the U. S. Senate now occupied by the senior senator. No senator or representative in congress from Oregon has ever attained the standing and prominence now enjoyed by Senator Bourne to the credit of his constituency. Men who represented Oregon in the senate for double the time Bourne has been in that position never accomplished one half the work that he did during the session of congress recently closed. In fact, few men in congress did accomplish the work with which Bourne is credited. Jonathan Bourne is one of the big men of the senate; one of the few men who did accomplish things and secure just recognition for their states; one of the few men who devote every minute and atom of their energy in securing just recognition and representation for his fellow citizens at home and in the nation.

Now, can we, as citizens of Oregon, who have striven and payed for our just share of appropriations for harbors, rivers and other public improvements, afford to turn down the one man who has succeeded in giving us our just deserts? The election of a senator next Tuesday is not a matter of sentiment, not a matter of simple form, but a business proposition, and one of momentous importance. We are entitled to good representation and have been getting it during the past six years, and who can gainsay the fact that it would be good business to defeat a man who had been tried, found true and not wanting, and instead elect a man who may not accomplish in 20 years service what Bourne has accomplished in a single term? Is it business to discharge a man who has labored faithfully and to your advantage and hire one who is untried? Would you do it in your private business? No, you would not. Then why not use the same good business judgment in the selection of the men who are to serve and represent us in the government of this United States? A vote for Jonathan Bourne next Tuesday is a vote for the interests of every man, woman child in the state of Oregon. Surely Oregon voters will maintain that same standard of good judgment exercised by them in the past six or eight years, and return to office the men who have served them faithfully in the past.

THE Herald does not care to enter into politics so far as local affairs are concerned, but it is hard to understand just why the prohibition party should place a man in the field against George Wise, republican candidate for constable. Mr. Wise has served before in an official capacity and was not found wanting. During the primaries many of the prohibition people pledged him their support and prevailed upon him to accept the nomination. Now an effort is being made to elect another. Where is the consistency of such a movement? If the better element of Lents wants men elected to office who will enforce the laws and maintain order, the best they can do is to let well enough alone and support such men when they are nominated, and especially so after they have had a hand in that nomination. This is written with all due respect to the opponent of Mr. Wise, who is a gentleman and a citizen beyond reproach.

ONE of the interesting things in Mr. Selling's report of his expenses previous to the primary election is that of $84 worth of envelopes, and $9.79 in stamps. At the least count $84 will buy about 75,000 envelopes. How could $9.79 take care of 75,000 envelopes. And then they were two cent stamps at that. It was intended that every voter in the state should get a copy of his letter including folders, etc. At the very least figure it would require $2500 for postage, $500 for printing; $1,000 for the addressing, inclosing, stamping, etc., and yet in the report to the Secretary of State all this was done, and a whole lot more, for $784.16.

VOTE NO. On the single tax number, 365 it is safe to vote no. No section of our country has ever tried single tax or any of its elements and unless you know just what you are doing it is better to vote against a measure than to vote in favor thereof or to not vote at all. We do not believe there is one person in fifty who know anything about single tax, especially those who are opposing it and unless you are absolutely sure you understand the matter it is better to leave it alone.

LEST our local readers are unthoughtful let us add additional caution to that so generally given by the fair minded press of the state. On the "Majority Rule" proposition to be considered at the present election, vote no. This simply means that all voters are to be counted as voting on a measure whether they voted or not. If they cast a vote for anything their names will be counted as voting on all the measures that appear on the ballot, whether they voted or not and negatively at that. On 323 VOTE NO.

On the road measure it is safe to vote for the Grange Road Bills, 324 and 326, it is a safe thing to vote yes. The proposition is simply that should a county at any time see fit to bond itself for road construction the people are to have something to say about how the money is to be spent and where. The bill providing for a state engineer proposes an office which is found to be very practical in other states, and is a matter of economy.

At the coming election it is safe to VOTE NO on all initiative measures that you do not fully understand. That is the way to register your opinion. If you do not mark your ballot you at least offer an opportunity for a bad measure to win a place in the statutes.

Woodrow Wilson lost a nice bunch of votes last week when Marshall jumped on the candidacy of Jonathan Bourne. Many friends of Bourne intended to vote for Marshall but his threats ost him support.

Camphor and water, half and half, has a tendency to contract enlarged pores. But with this, as with all possible remedies, effect should be very closely noted. If it makes the skin too dry, abandon its use.

For the October Table.

After "hog killin' time" a new recipe for cooking ham is always welcome.

Baked Ham with Dressing—Three slices of ham; cut from the center, each about an inch thick. Make dressing as for fowls, spread between slices of ham. Sprinkle top slice with brown sugar and paprika. Roast for three quarters of an hour. Serve with brown sauce.

Angel Cake—Beat the whites of eight eggs until they foam, then add one teaspoon cream of tartar; continue beating until eggs are stiff. Sift one cup flour, one cup sugar and a little salt, four times. Add this gradually to the eggs and continue beating. Flavor with lemon and turn into an unbuttered cake pan, then bake in a moderate oven for about forty-five minutes. After the cake has risen and has begun to brown, cover with a buttered paper. Remove from pan and put on a soft icing. Remember—patience in sifting the flour and beating the eggs—this is the Angel Cake secret.

Iced Jellied Bouillon.

Make a beef bouillon or a consommé, and clear it with egg white and shell. To each quart of the hot bouillon add one tablespoonful of granulated gelatine soaked until soft in half a cupful of cold water. When the gelatine is dissolved, strain into an earthen bowl. Let cool and then put it in the refrigerator for 12 hours. Carefully skim off any fat, when it should be perfectly clear jelly, ice-cold. To serve, take it up in a small after-dinner coffee spoon and half fill bouillon cups.

Sister Susie's Beau.

Sister Susie's got a beau—
His name is Randall White.
He comes around to call on her
'Most every other night.
He's all dressed up, an' nice enough
As fur as fellers go,
But things ain't right around our house
Since Sister got her beau!

We useter do our lessons in
The parlor every night,
'Cause there's a table good an' big
And a dandy readin' light.
I don't see why they want that room
(The lamp they turn down low!),
But we can't use the parlor now
Since Sister got her beau!

We useter go to sister when
Our sums we couldn't do;
But now she ain't got time for us.
As soon as supper's through
She goes upstairs to primp and preen
(She powders, too, I know!),
We're gettin' awful marks in school
Since Sister got her beau!

Substitute for Eggs.
When a cake recipe calls for two eggs, and eggs are scarce and high, use one egg and sift one tablespoon of cornstarch with the flour.
To Bake Custards.
To keep custards from wheying place in pan of hot water to bake.

Taft cannot be elected.
Roosevelt can be elected.
Wilson might be elected if the choice of a President was taken from the people and thrown into Congress.

The election of Wilson means tampering with the wage-earner and the farmer.

It is up to every American to defend his income, upon which always depends his outgo.
