A GENUINE SERVICE.

"I believe, says an old subscriber, that every time The Youth's Companion enters a home it does that home a genuine service." That describes the purpose of the publishers exactly. The paper is not filled with mischievous or idle thoughts to fill an idle hour. It provides healthy pastime, recreation that builds up. It is to the minds of eager and impressionable young people what sound athletics are to their bodies.

At a cost of less than four cents a week The Youth's Companion opens the door to a company of the most distinguished men and women in America and Europe. Whether they are revealing the latest discoveries in science, or describing great industrial achievements, or telling of their wanderings in strange corners of the world, or feeding the imagination with rare stories, they are giving Companion readers the best of themselves.

Seven serials at least will be published by The Companion in 1913, and nearly 200 other complete stories, in addition to some 50 special contributions, and a treasure-box of sketches, anecdotes, expert advice as to athletic sports, ideas for handy devices round the house, and so forth—long hours of companionship with the wise, the adventurous and the entertaining. Announcement for 1913 will be sent with sample copies of the paper to any address on request. Every new subscriber who sends $2.00 for the fifty-two weekly issues of 1913 will receive as a gift The Companion Window Transparency and Calendar for 1913, the most exquisite novelty ever offered to Companion readers; also, all issues of The Companion for the remaining weeks of 1912, free.

MUNLY IS THE MAN

M. G. Munly Should Be Elected as Representative in Congress

As a Proven Friend of the People He Should Be Entitled to Their Support

(Munly Endorsed by Federated Trades When Appointed Judge)

To the Editor—In these days when one so soon forgets the favors of the past, permit me to recall a little history. A little over twenty years ago the legislature of this state created an additional office of circuit judge in Multnomah county. The laboring people of Multnomah county felt that they as well as the corporations should have a friend on the bench. Accordingly the Knights of Labor through their assemblies made a choice, as did the Federated Trades Assembly, which organization was composed of delegates from the several labor unions then in Portland. The candidate agreed upon as satisfactory to the Federated Trades Assembly was the same as the one receiving 85 per cent of the votes of the Knights of Labor in Portland. Sylvester Pennoyer was then governor. A committee of three was selected from the two bodies to wait upon the governor and express to him labor's choice for circuit judge. The members of the committee were Martin Ready, president of the Ironmoulders' Union and delegate to the Federated Trades Assembly; Albert Tozier, presiding officer of Mt. Hood Assembly Knights of Labor and also a delegate from Multnomah Typographical Union to the Federated Trades Assembly, and secretary of the latter organization, and John J. Kelly, president of one of the Assemblies of Knights of Labor. The committee waited upon Governor Pennoyer and presented the following:

"To Governor Sylvester Pennoyer:

"The Federated Trades Assembly and the assemblies of the Knights of Labor in the city of Portland in their regular conventions assembled have recommended for your consideration for the position of circuit judge of Multnomah county one who has been our friend and we believe he will prove true to the trust imposed should you give him the appointment. You, governor, have ever proven true to labor's cause, and labor asks that you name Hon. M. G. Munly. Do this, and but this, and we will shoulder the blame for any mistakes he may make."

Governor Pennoyer recognized labor's request, and the records of the Supreme Court will show that Judge Munly had fewer reversals than any of his predecessors.
