A VANCOUVER judge fined a woman for smoking in the city park. How is it that a Vancouver woman has not the same right to smoke in the streets and parks of the town as the men? Is there any particular reason why the women of Vancouver should not enjoy a good smoke the same as their brothers? Washington recently granted the women of the state the right of suffrage and it was supposed that by so doing they granted to the women of the state all the privileges that men enjoy, voting among the number. Why not smoking? If smoking is an immoral act for a woman why is it not an immoral act for men and boys. Or does the man from Vancouver maintain that an immoral act when performed by a woman is any worse than the same thing done by a man? If that is the position is he not open to dispute? Does not the ideals formed by the child depend quite as much upon the influence of the masculine portion of creation quite as much as that of the feminine. If it is wrong for women to smoke on account of the influence it may have on young people, why is it just as bad for the men? Not being a smoker, we presume we are not in a position to judge reasonably. Perhaps the magistrate who made the decision is qualified by habit to understand the matter better.

STATE Game Warden Finley informs us that he has never arrested any one for wearing the plumage of the china pheasant. That comes as a surprise to us. Of course we never had any personal experience being arrested for wearing china pheasant feathers. Its not in our line, but we have read of a number of instances at various times, in reliable papers of the state, and we do not see how they could have been so badly misinformed? They gave the locations and names of the persons who suffered the inconvenience of making deposits to the state funds, and it does look as though some one should have corrected this impression before. We remember seeing a statement to the effect very recently, that the ban had been raised on china pheasant decorations, but even at that we hardly see how apparently honest people could be inconvenienced by interference of the administrators of the law.

RUMORS are busy picking out members for President-elect Wilson's official household. There seems to be no doubt whatever but that William J. Bryan can be secretary of State, and therefore, the Premier of the Wilson cabinet if he so desires. A great many of Mr. Bryan's friends are urging him to accept this high position, and there seems to be some ground for hope that he will do so. Mr. Bryan is probably better fitted for that position than any other man in America. He has twice traveled around the world and has visited Central and South American countries, and has in other ways eminently qualified himself to deal with matters affecting our foreign relations. Furthermore, many critics of Mr. Bryan have charged him with being a "dreamer" and theorist, and therefore, an impractical man. By accepting the office of Secretary of State he would be in a position to show that he is a statesman of a very practical sort and one who can do things.

Lents is coming to the front with another newspaper, the "Optimist," which made its first appearance last Thursday as a four column, eight page publication. Lents is really a big town and with proper support there is no reason why a suburb of 10,000 population should not support two good papers. L. B. Tuttle, formerly of Elgin is the editor and manager of the "Optimist"

One advantage of the single term would be that former presidents would enter upon the enjoyment of their pensions without waiting so long.

Col. Roosevelt is opposed to fusion with any other party, but probably he would not object to having the progressives annex the G. O. P.

It is comforting to reflect that any time we get tired of running our government the Laird of Skibo stand ready to assume full responsibility.

For some reason or other, the chestnuts we buy now don't taste like the ones we used to risk our necks to get.

It's a wonder some College hasn't adopted those most appropriate of all football colors—black and blue.

There isn't much good in the man who can see no good in others.

Much of life's friction is due to a well oiled tongue.

PROF LOWE WRITES INTERESTING LETTER

with her and in due time out came the girl with the coveted beverage. I expressed my gratitude with a 10 cent tip. She expressed hers by a bow. I lit into the spread before me, appeased my hunger, and once again the world seemed bright and happy.

I had a strenuous and wonderful day of it on the 11th. First I went to the top of an adjacent mountain by cable car which took me about as high above the lake as the top of Eifel tower, for the sum of 2 f, but the view was many times grander. This in the forenoon. In the afternoon I ascended another mountain on the opposite side of the lake and enjoyed another view of surpassing grandeur, but of course quite different. Little mere specks all over the lake, when viewed through my glasses, proved to be row boats and launches moving hither and thither in every direction. The day was perfect and I counted over twenty villages dotting the shore of the lake and the adjacent hillsides.

Now Bert, I shall not try to describe the beauty of the place further, as I intend that you shall see it for yourself in a couple of years. They tell me that Como is even more beautiful than this. Well maybe it is. I shall now more about it by this time tomorrow, as it is only an hour's run from here and trains are going all the time. I never saw anything like it before over one track.

Famous Stage Beauties look with horror on Skin Eruptions, Blisters, Sores or Pimples. They don't have them, nor will any one, who uses Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It glorifies the face. Eczema or Salt Rheum vanish before it. It cures sore lips, chapped hands, chilblains; heals burns, cuts and bruises. Unequaled for piles. Only 25c at All Dealers.

NEW MENACE TO FIR FORESTS

Agricultural College Expert Discovers Pest which Stunts Young Fir Trees.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, CORVALLIS, ORE., NOV. 27—The fir tree root louse is a new pest recently discovered by the entomology experts of the Oregon Agricultural College, and efforts will be made to stamp it out. The Prociphilus Bimeline, as it is named, stunts the growth of young trees.

This louse spends the winter in two different stages, eggs found on the bark of ash trees, and hibernating lice on the fir roots, "said Prof. H. F. Wilson, discussing the new pest. "Those on the fir continue to live on the roots, while those on the ash bark hatch from the eggs in spring and crawl to the leaves, where they feed, causing the leaves to curl. In the latter part of May and June winged forms appear and migrate from the leaves to the fir tree roots where they produce wingless lice which remain there until late in the fall. These last then produce a generation which includes both winged and wingless varieties. The wingless remain on fir through the winter, while the winged ones migrate back to the ash tree and deposit the eggs on the bark which remain there during the winter.

"The serious thing about the pest is that the lice attack the young fir trees when they are from 1 to 4 years old, and in many cases the trees become stunted from the injuries caused by the feeding of the lice."

If you have a quantity of soup, vegetables or stewed fruit which you do not care to use at once, and do not want to waste, bring to a boil, heat a quart or pint jar, according to quantity, put on a good rubber and fill to the brim with the food, even allowing a little to run over. Seal as quickly and carefully as if expecting to keep all winter—which it should, if desired. This is particularly handy when ice cannot be procured.

The Best Light At The Lowest Cost

ELECTRIC LIGHT is the most suitable for homes, offices, shops and other places needing light. Electricity can be used in any quantity, large or small, thereby furnishing any required amount of light. Furthermore, electric lamps can be located in any place, thus affording any desired distribution of light.

No other lamps possess these qualifications, therefore it is not surprising that electric lamps are rapidly replacing all others in modern establishments.
