Further testimony in the Indian killing at Wallula shows it was unjustifiable. James Close, the murderer, was drunk and had a bottle of whiskey by his side. He was sleeping in the open air. The Indians passing found the whiskey and drank it. Close ran to the river, 130 yards distance to get a Winchester rifle. He crept back to the brush and shot nine times. The bullets were all found in the Indians' bodies. Verdict was rendered in accordance, and Close is in jail here. The examination occurs to-morrow.

The quo warranto proceedings of James A. Hinckley against Dorman B. Eaton, Leroy D. Thoman and John M. Gregory, civil service commissioners, came up before Judge Wallace in the United States circuit court at New York Saturday morning. Hinckley asked leave to bring action to remove the commissioners and abolish the commission on the ground of unconstitutionality. At the conclusion of argument for and against the proceeding the court denied the petition for a writ.

It is stated on good authority in railroad circles that the Oregon Pacific proposes to commence work in a month on its eastern extension to Boise City, there to connect with the Chicago and North Western from the East.

Last Tuesday twenty car loads of cattle left Alkali for Chicago by the Northern Pacific. They were bought in Eastern Oregon by Alfred Myers, of Billings, one of the largest stock dealers in Montana. The rate was $215 per car. The cattle will be unloaded, fed and allowed to rest four times en route.

The O. R. & N. Co. are taking down about 1500 tons of what a day from Eastern Oregon and Washington. They could take 2000 tons, but this amount would cause a blockade on the Portland wharves. If all the Inland Empire went that way it would take about 250 days at this rate to carry away the surplus.

This seems to be pre-eminently an apple year in all parts of the country. In Oregon the apples are rotting on the ground. In Connecticut the farmers are groaning over the fact that their crop is so immense that they have more fruit than they can sell, eat or make into cider. In Oregon the cider crop is not cultivated to the extent of orchards fully warrant.

An extensive fire in the timber near the Connor Creek mine last Wednesday destroyed much valuable timber, also, 75,000 feet of saw logs, 5,000 bushels of charcoal, 100 cords of wood and a large quantity of mine timbers, all the property of the Connor Creek Mining Company. The fire originated through the carelessness of a man who built a fire for the purpose of burning brush.

The Portland Construction company closed a contract to erect two grain elevators for the Portland Flouring Mills company, owners of the large mill below Albina. One of these elevators is to be built in Moscow, I. T., and the other in Pullman W. T. The capacity of each elevator will be about 50,000 bushels. They will be provided with cleaning machines run by steam power and grain will be shipped from them in bulk to the Albina mill thus saving the cost of sacks.

Preliminaries have been arranged for a sailboat race for $50 a side, free to all, between Denay Curran and Captain J. A. Brown, who are the only entries so far. They are both possessors of fine Whitehall boats, and propose to have a fair test of which is the faster. Any one that wants to enter a boat can do so by putting up $50. All boats over nineteen feet must allow the Whitehall boats twenty-two seconds for every foot length over that standard.—Astorian.

The man who took Thos. Elgin's horse and cart, whom Mr. Elgin supposed had gone over the mountain and would come out through by Prineville, turned his direction and was arrested in Polk county and taken first to Seaside and then brought to this place last Monday, where he was tried for stealing the horse and cart and bound over under $500 bonds to await the action of the next grand jury; in default of bonds he was committed to jail. It is claimed that he has heretofore served a term in the penitentiary for stealing a horse.—Corvallis Gazette.

An Albany exchange says: On last Sunday at Mr. V. H. Caldwell, living near this city, was driving over the Calapooia bridge on his way to Sunday school with his family, his team became frightened and commenced backing. The hind wheels struck the banister of the approach, and breaking it off, dropped off the bridge. The occupants, consisting of Mr. Caldwell and seven children, were precipitated about fifteen or twenty feet into the bushes below. By almost a miracle, as the hind wheels dropped off, the team crumpled the wagon in such a way that the bounds and fore wheels held it on the bridge and prevented what must have otherwise been a fatal accident, as the occupants of the wagon were directly beneath where it would have fallen.
