BREVITIES

Watts & Rogers against the Steel Trust wire fencing. See big ad. next week.

Joe Read is here from Portland to spend the Thanksgiving holiday with his mother and friends.

R. H. King and family have moved to town for the winter in order to take advantage of Weston's school facilities.

Frank Russell left this week for Portland, having completed his work here as the representative of Portland mercantile interests.

Watch the Submarine Wire Fence of Watts & Rogers as against the Steel Trust Gunboat. We'll beat them on a rod or a carload.

I will sell at a bargain a new buggy, new set of single harness, good double seated carriage and new set of double driving harness. H. Waddingham.

Walter Adams motored over Tuesday from Athena, where he is becoming known as the "barley king." Walter holds about 18,000 sacks of this cereal, and is looking quite pleasant over market conditions.

The Indians on the Umatilla reservation are being looked after by a government specialist who has performed 50 operations for granulated eye-lids and 25 or more for the removal of tonsils and adenoids.

Miss Helen Cumming of Goldendale, Wash., was here recently looking after the erection of a monument above the grave of her father, the late William Cumming, in I. O. O. F. cemetery. During her stay she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Stanfield.

Two deals in town realty were lately completed by Barnett & Turner. Mrs. Maud Keen bought the cottage property of Mrs. Julia E. Hastings on Armar street. L. A. Shellenberger became the owner of the Mrs. H. N. Shanks property on the same thoroughfare.

Noting a "long-felt-want" at Weston, E. E. Zehm has proceeded to fill it by opening a shoe and harness repair shop next door to his bakery in the Dupuis building. Both Mr. Zehm and his assistants are craftsmen in this line as well as in baking, and will be prepared to renew all the old shoes and harness in the neighborhood.

A mountaineer by training and habit, Trajan Tucker could not be content until he got back into the Blues. He lately purchased 21 acres of Albert O'Harra near Fairview Farm on Reed and Hawley mountains. Mr. O'Harra in turn bought 44 acres of orchard and garden land from Mr. Tucker in the creek district. Each will soon take possession of his new holdings.

Miss Cecile Boyd, an Athena girl, who has made a success of her school work along the line of pastimes and athletics, conducted a Folk Festival at the high school auditorium in Pendleton Tuesday evening. Miss Boyd is working under the direction of the state superintendent, and holds credentials from the National Playground and Recreation Association of America.

I. E. Young, county school superintendent, informs The Leader that he "in receipt" a letter from R. E. Arne, superintendent of the Boy's and Girl's Aid society of Portland, in which he states that all donations made to the society will be shipped free of charge by the railroads and steamboat companies until December 31 of this year. It is to be hoped that every school in the county will donate liberally to the society.

Oregon apples are finding a market in far-away Siberia and the call for stock this year is unusually heavy. A shipment some time ago of 125 boxes of Hood River apples to Vladivostok was received in excellent condition and met with ready demand from the natives. Within the last few days other shipments have gone forward, being routed by way of Puget Sound, from which point they will go by steamer to Japan, thence to Siberia.

Glenn McCaw, a 13-year-old boy of Prescott, Wash., has harvested 23 bushels of corn from a single acre of ground, despite the destructive warfare waged upon his crop by cut-worms, blackbirds and beavers. No such a yield was ever heard of before in the Prescott country, and Glenn is mostly receiving the plaudits of the neighborhood. As he made a profit of $50, his would be a good example for Young America of Weston to follow.

J. B. Dupuis was called to Pendleton Monday to perform a surgical operation on one of the county bloodhounds for the removal of a tongue worm. "Johnny" is quite an expert in this line, and this is the second time his services have been requisitioned by Sheriff Taylor, who summoned him a week ago for a similar purpose. He will soon be known as "Doc" Dupuis throughout the local countryside.

The contract for the "fill" at the new waterworks dam on Pine creek was let by the council Monday to C. F. Caris of Walla Walla, and it is expected that the work will begin at once. Mr. Caris bid 25 cents per cubic yard, or $1147.50 for the job. Two other bids were submitted--one by Irwin Wilks of Pendleton at 32 cents per cubic yard, and one by Sim J. Culley of Weston at 47 cents. Work on the concrete core is progressing favorably.

The stock of the Jarman Department Store at Weston was lately bought by Carter & Efteland of Portland, and the new owners are now in possession. They have announced a big sale, beginning tomorrow, which promises to prove one of the greatest merchandising events ever pulled off in this section. Salespeople have been busy during the week preparing and marking the stock, and it is expected that tomorrow the town will be full of bargain hunters.

The Ten-Bar ranch, eight miles east of Bend, consisting of 240 acres, has been listed with the state immigration commission for sale to competent farmers in tracts of 40 and 80 acres. The owner, J. D. Finn, proposes to sell the 40 acre tracts at $2500, and the 80 acre tracts at $5000 each. On the 40 acre tract he will build a three-room house and a barn 18x32; on the 80 acre tract a four-room house and a barn 32x40. The sale will be made on any reasonable terms with 6 per cent on deferred payments.

Walla Walla county products this year are said to have reached the enormous total of $4,272,300 in value aside from dairy, poultry and manufactured products, which would add about $2,000,000 more. Wheat is king, as usual, being rated at $1,310,000. Barley ranks next, at $400,000. Walla Walla is also a fruit county, but its fruit crop is a very small brother to the cereals. Apples, for instance, brought in only $103,000, and yet these lead all the rest of the fruits in value. Both in Walla Walla and Umatilla counties, it would appear probable that many years will pass before the reign of King Wheat is seriously disrupted. The experts will continue to preach diversity and the canny farmers will continue to wink the other eye and sow wheat or barley.

The assessed valuation of Umatilla county property this year is $37,500,000, an increase of $1,500,000 made by the taxpayers themselves over last year in giving in their assessments. The total may reach a cool fifty millions when the property of the public service corporations is added. Assessor Strain has been notified by the state board of equalization that his assessments in this county have been taken as representing 80 per cent of the real value of the property. He contended for a ratio of 81, as against 77 last year, and feels well satisfied with the board's action.

It is expected that Dr. W. H. Bleakney, head of the Greek department of Whitman college, will address the parent-teachers' association of Weston at its meeting on Friday, December 11. Dr. Bleakney is an educator of prominence and ability and is familiar with the school needs of this county, as he was formerly stationed at Pendleton. His visit should be the means of giving an added impetus to the work of the parent-teachers' association, which promises to grow into an organization of much value to the community.

Ed D. Kirkpatrick, a leading reservation farmer, was shot in the leg at a country dance near Pendleton Saturday night by Richard Burke, a young Indian. Burke, who had been drinking, went to the dance unbidden in the company of Billie Clifford, a cowgirl of questionable repute, and grew angry when they were ordered to leave. He drew his revolver and fired four shots, one of which struck Kirkpatrick in the right leg just above the knee and ranged downward to the heel.

Wheat would be worth five or six cents a bushel more than it is in the local market but for the recent advance in freights, says Thursday's Oregonian. As it is, the wheat market is holding up remarkably well under the strain. Where any reaction has occurred it has been due in a measure to the weakness East and the postponement of spot delivery buying until the local docks are cleared.

In the Pendleton Tribune Lue F. Vernon recalls memories of "Billy" Burton, a remarkably good fiddler of pioneer days well known to Pendleton and Weston people. Burton knew little except music and so loved his violin that he lost his life in trying to rescue it from a rooming house fire years ago at Everett.

Louis Christenson has been informed by oculists that he is about to lose the sight of his right eye because of an injury to his head which he sustained last summer near Adams, when his truck was run over by a careless automobilist.

Dr. Smith was called Tuesday to Reed and Hawley mountains to attend Robert Meyer, a well-known elderly resident who sustained a compound fracture of the right wrist while butchering hogs. The accident resulted from falling tackle.

Jack Calder's Thanksgiving was saddened by news of the death of his younger sister, a girl of 16, who was the only child remaining with her parents at their home in Ayr, Scotland. This has been the first death in a family of seven children.

The "Dutch Flyers" of Weston will take on the Milton Gymnasium team in what promises to prove a fast and peppery basket ball game tomorrow evening at Weston opera house. Admittance is 10 and 15 cents.

For Sale--83 acres 3 1/2 miles from Weston. $115 per acre; 40 acres, $115 per acre; 80 acres, $120 per acre; 40 acres, $5000; 40 acres, $4500; 40 acres, $115 per acre. Barnett & Turner.

Messrs. Becker & Cole of Echo have leased the Rugg ranch on Reed and Hawley mountains from E. E. Meyer, and will engage in hog-raising. They have 70 registered brood sows.

The Thanksgiving turkey offered as a ten-pin prize at the Kirkpatrick bowling alley, was won by Orval Duncan with a score of 206. Orval still holds the local record of 245.

Henry Barrett bowled merrily over from the suburbs yesterday, driving the handsome new car which he was privileged to buy under a Democratic administration.

The Thanksgiving display arranged by "Happy" Graham this week for the windows of the O'Harra store has been admired of all beholders.

Mayor Harbour went to Walla Walla Tuesday to look after the legal preliminaries and bond connected with the waterworks dam contract.

Protracted meetings will begin at the Church of the Brethren so soon as the meetings close at the United Brethren Church.

"Rufe" Brown's winter overcoat was stolen Friday evening from his motor car while parked near the public school.

Monroe Turner is crippling around with a dislocated toe, sustained Tuesday while trying to handle a barrel with his feet.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert O'Harra are preparing to leave soon for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Simpson at Portland.

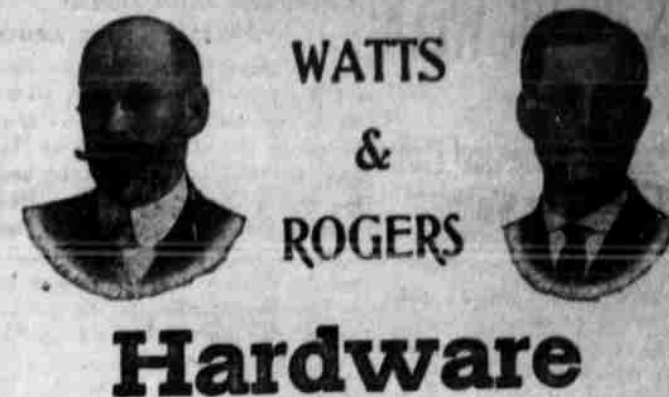

It was demonstrated this week "over at the Corner" that one doesn't have to be much of a musician to play for a goose.

Collections for the local emergency fund at the union Thanksgiving service last evening amounted to $7.50.

We are little--but Oh, My!! How the Steel Wire Trust feels us. Get our prices. Watts & Rogers.
