BREVITIES

I have straw to sell at $1 per load if taken within a week. Kenneth MacKenzie.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Gordon were visiting in Weston Sunday from their farm beyond Athens.

J. E. Allen and family are moving this week to Milton, where they will again make their home.

Dr. A. C. McCown of Cove, Oregon, was visiting Saturday and Sunday with Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Smith.

Mrs. C. A. Stagg left this week for Milton to join Mr. Stagg, who has employment there in the garage.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Baker was under the doctor's care this week with an attack of chickenpox.

The Weston brickyard is shipping a carload of clay this week to Pendleton for use in making a tennis court.

Miss Frances Saling of Pendleton was in Weston during the week, the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. I. E. Saling.

G. H. Bishop, Free-water's popular legal luminary, bestowed the light of his countenance Monday upon Weston's populace.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Compton left Wednesday for Neely, Idaho, on an extended visit to their sons, who have land claims in that locality.

Some extra good work in sign writing was done for Weston business people this week by Charles R. Smith, who has been visiting his mother, Mrs. W. E. Lytle, at her home on the mountain.

The Pendleton, Adams, Athens and Weston auto stage leaves Weston twice daily for Pendleton at 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. Round trip, $1.75. Headquarters at Goodwin's drug store. A. M. Boyden, proprietor.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Key, pioneer residents of Weston, have both been seriously ill at their home below town, but are reported this week to be in a more encouraging condition. Their daughter, Mrs. G. W. Badgett, has been in attendance upon them.

J. N. York has made good progress with his summer fallowing at Never-fall Farm north of town, having several two and three-bottom gangs in the field. He has 540 acres in grain, all of which looks promising. This year's harvest. None of his grain, not even his barley, had to be resown.

A big truck load of trees brought over by Sam Hutt from Milton were lately set out in Athens's city park, according to the Press. The assortment includes Carolina poplars, sycamores, maples, elms and birch. When they grow up, the shade of the biggest tree will be a good place to look for Colonel Boyd.

The Milton Eagle tells of a school boy, Meric Attridge, 13 years old, attending the sixth grade of the East Side school, who has never been absent nor tardy since he began his studies four years ago last September. The Eagle wants to hear from anybody who can beat this record, and we wonder if any Weston boy has done better.

 MRS. L. S. WOOD, Weston, Oregon

A baseball league consisting of the towns of Helix, Athens, Weston and Milton-Free-water was organized Saturday at Athens, and B. E. Richards of that city was unanimously chosen as its president. Strict amateur playing rules were adopted, and it is expected that the players shall be bona fide residents of the several towns. The schedule provides for fifteen games, and the season opens March 28 with Helix at Weston and Athens at Milton-Free-water. As the old Blue Mountain league was disrupted by this move, Pendleton and Pilot Rock will unite with Hermiston and Echo in another four-team circuit. A match between the league champions would be an interesting event with which to wind up the season.

The public school campus has undergone quite a transformation during the week by reason of the "good looks" put in by Mr. E. E. Giles and the "terrible youngsters" under his charge. All of the shade trees—some of which were in a distressingly "scrappy" condition—have been trimmed, brush and debris removed and broken down fencing repaired. Nor is this all that will be done. The boys have promised Mr. Giles that they will help him repair the baseball grand stand, thus lightening to that extent the burden of care which weighs down the local manager.

Ground has been broken for the construction of the great inter-state bridge which is to connect the city of Portland with Vancouver, Washington, and which will be an important link in the Pacific Highway, one of the most remarkable thoroughfares in the United States. As far as possible all contracts for the work have been let to local firms and preference will be given to locally produced materials and to local labor. Necessary forms are available for driving the work to early completion.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McLean, Mr. and Mrs. George Phillips and Mr. Will McLean returned Monday from an automobile excursion to Washtucum, Wash. They made a quick trip from Milton, driving the distance, 87 miles, in four and one-half hours. They report a good crop prospect in the Washtucum country. Grain is backward, but looking well. Mr. Phillips rented 640 acres ten miles from Washtucum, and will begin farming it in April.

At Champoux, on May 1, will be celebrated the seventy-second anniversary of the organization of the first American civil government west of the Rocky mountains. This will be the fifteenth celebration of the event, the first having been held in 1867. On June 17, at Portland, will be held the forty-third annual reunion of Oregon pioneers—those who came to, or were born in, any part of the original Oregon country previous to 1859.

While out walking Sunday in the Wild Horse district south of town, Mr. and Mrs. George Emerson were followed by a rabid coyote which bit their small dog, necessitating its death sentence. Mrs. J. E. Scribner afterwards shot several times at the coyote, but missed it. It later appeared at the home of Arnold Woods and drove Mrs. Woods from the yard into the house. Mr. Woods thereupon shot and killed it.

Juvenile baseball teams of Weston and Athens clashed upon the local diamond Saturday afternoon in the first game of the season. The visitors led up to the seventh inning by a score of four to zero, but were then beaten by the locals in a fierce batting rally, the final score being six to four in Weston's favor. Ray Gould and Bob Hodgson were in the points for the home team.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Carmichael were in town yesterday from Walla Walla.

Dreamland motion pictures at Weston opera house next Monday and Tuesday evenings.

See E. E. Zehm at the Weston bakery if you want neat workmanship in shoe and harness repairing.

Attend the Athens Band concert next Thursday evening, March 23, at Weston opera house, and enjoy a feast of music.

An eviction suit brought by Mrs. Edith Markham against Joe Garrett is set for next Monday in Justice Liewallen's court.

It is reported that George Bode, large farmer of the Dr. Creek district, was hit especially hard by the winter frosts and will have to reseed about 500 acres of barley.

Cab, livery, feed and board stable, open day and night. Barn on Water street. Telephone connections. Cab to and from depot 25 cents for round trip. Lefe McBride.

Bishop Paddock will conduct services at All Saints' Episcopal church in Weston next Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. A cordial invitation to attend is extended the people of Weston and vicinity.

Dr. M. V. Turley, formerly of Weston, lost his big Maxwell touring car Monday night by fire at a point between Stanfield and the government dam. Back firing of the engine is ascribed as the cause. The machine was insured for $1500.

Chief of Police Leg Wilson is having his troubles now-a-days, it having been found necessary to dig up and repair about 400 feet of the feed pipe supplying the twin waterworks reservoir. The pipe has been leaking badly, and new cement is needed for the joints.

Frank Saling, county clerk, and C. E. Nelson, insurance man, motored up from Pendleton Wednesday and found that Weston is still in the same old place, with Pine creek still murmuring and the beautiful Blues in the near distance. They used to live here, but are not now so fortunate.

R. Torgerson, well known fruitgrower of the Milton district, was in town this week, and says he will be back soon, accompanied by Will Small, with spraying outfit operated by gasoline power. Orders for spraying will be given prompt attention if left at Watts & Rogers' hardware store or Stampfer's livery barn.

R. Parlett, Pendleton agent of the American Express company, has been given an order for 1000 cavalry horses, and perhaps some of Weston's surplus stock of equines might be marketed. The description of the kind of horses wanted shows that the European governments are not nearly so particular as they formerly were as to color, weight, size and age.

E. R. Lovell, formerly of Walla Walla, has opened a meat market on Main street, and announces that he will endeavor to conduct it in a manner to please the Weston public. Mr. Lovell is a son of Mrs. J. B. Farreras. He is a young ball player of promise, having played several seasons with the Touchet team, and is trying out for 3 position with the locals.

The high school debate between Weston and Ferndale occurs this (Friday) evening in the auditorium of the local school. The following question will be discussed: "Resolved, That the Federal Government should own and operate all interstate railroads acting as common carriers, including intrastate lines competing with them, constitutionality waived." Admittance will be 10 cents for grade pupils, 15 cents for high school students and 25 cents for others.

H. A. Brandt has decided to again engage in business at Weston, and will occupy his own building at the corner of Main and Water street—the former stand of Jarman's Department Store. He will carry a stock of dry goods which he has selected with much care, with a view to the people's needs in this line, and expects to open his doors for business the latter part of next week. Mr. Brandt was successfully engaged in the mercantile business at Weston on a former occasion, for the period between 1895 and 1904.

If "competition is the life of trade," Weston should thrive this year. For the first time in many moons it now has two meat markets, one being the usual limit, and soon it will have two garages. A Mr. Gordon of Pendleton, has leased the Phillips concrete building opposite the Leader office, and will put in a complete outfit for automobile repairing. A similar enterprise will be started by another man from Pendleton, in the large rear room of Liewallen & Sons' machine shop. It is said that both of the rival dealers expect to carry a full stock of automobile supplies.

The Athens Band will give a concert on Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock at Weston opera house, and a genuine treat is assured for the music-loving people of this community. This organization is far superior to the usual country band, having attained to almost professional excellence under the capable tutelage of Professor A. T. Gordon. It gave most pleasing music at the pioneers' reunion in Weston last spring, but has improved greatly since that time, as will be demonstrated to those who attend its concert. The band's recent concert at Athens was highly successful, despite a rainy evening.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. John of Portland, whose oldest son, Charles, was the first white child born in Pendleton, are planning to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary this week at the Panama-Pacific exposition. They were married in 1865 in a little log house on Goodwin's ranch, the site of the present city of Pendleton. They afterward became residents of Weston, and Mr. John was actively identified with the business life of this town in its stage coach days. He built and conducted the St. John hotel which burned to the ground in one of Weston's big fires.

Hoopeestown, Ill.—This city has an all-Prohibition administration and in a further effort to make it the one real "dry" town of the country, interesting ordinances have been adopted. One measure provides that any member of the city council, the mayor, superintendent of the water plant, police officer, city clerk, city treasurer or other city officer who shall have about his premises or who shall, whether in this city or elsewhere, partake of intoxicants, shall be removed from office.

Death of Mrs. E. E. Turner.

Mrs. Jennie N. Turner, wife of Harry E. Turner, died March 15, 1915, at the Turner farm north of Weston after an illness of six months duration from cancer of the stomach.

Mrs. Turner was born in 1844 in Pontiac, Illinois, her maiden name being Miss Jennie Swaney. She came to Weston in 1888 and was united in marriage to Mr. Turner four years later. She is survived by her husband and two sons, Harry Monroe and Floyd Turner; five brothers and three sisters. Her father, who at the age of 86 is still a resident of Illinois, is also among those who are bereaved by her death.

As a wife and mother Mrs. Turner exemplified the highest type of womanhood, and as a neighbor and friend she endeavored herself to the people of this community. Both in her home and in the social and lodge circles in which she took an active and useful part, her loss will be keenly felt. She was an honored member of the Eastern Star, Pythian Sisters, Women of Woodcraft and United Artisans, and in each of them her influence was for good and growth. She was also a member of the Presbyterian church.

The funeral services were held at two o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Methodist church, with a sermon by Rev. N. D. Wood and appropriate music. The sad occasion was largely attended, and the floral offerings were numerous and beautiful. Interment was had in Masonic cemetery.

Ireland Receives Attention.

The Young People's Christian Endeavor Society of the United Brethren church held its regular monthly business and social meeting at the G. W. Stagg's residence Friday, March 12, with 30 members in attendance.

A short "Irish program" consisting of the following numbers was rendered:

Song—"America."
 History of Ireland—Gladys Smith.
 The Fashionable School Girl—Odesa Kirkpatrick.
 Vocal solo—Lela G. Saling.
 Life of St. Patrick—Velma Gerking.
 Reading—"Almost Beyond Endurance."
 Gladys Banister.
 "It's a Long Way to Tipperary"—Earl Liewallen and Frank Smith.

The remainder of the evening was spent in a most enjoyable Irish entertainment. Each person was given shamrocks to be used as money in the purchase at public auction of works of art which came from an Irish art gallery. A package containing the name Mike was bought by Ora Martin, and one containing the name Pat went to Gladys Banister. After choosing sides, Pat and Mike ran a race in fitting the provinces of Ireland together. The prize, a box of candy, was won by Miss Banister (Pat) after an enthusiastic contest.

The invitations were rather a novelty, consisting as they did of green stockings. Receipts of the evening were $10, and will become part of a fund to help carpet the lecture room of the church.
