the ground that those who have no conscientious scruples in thus spending their Sundays are entitled to consideration as well as the church-goers. However, if it is accompanied by betting to any considerable extent, it becomes a thing of evil, and the opponents of Sunday ball are given just ground for its condemnation.

BOXING MATCH AT WESTON

Portland Bobby Evans Will Take on Larry Mitchell.

(Portland Bobby Evans.)

Earl Coutts has arranged a ten-round boxing match between Portland Bobby Evans and Larry Mitchell, to be staged tomorrow evening at Weston opera house. It is expected that numbers of followers of theistic game will be present from Pendleton and Waits Walla, as both these men are well known experts with the gloves. The preliminaries will include a go between Abe Gordon, a fast little fly-weight, and "The Pasco Thunderbolt." Later on another match may be arranged between Bobby Evans and Billy Farrell, who was given a decision over Evans at Pendleton, that was thought to be unjust by the Evans contingent. Evans will also box at Kennewick during the open river celebration there. He finds the Weston climate admirable for training.

Music will be furnished between bouts tomorrow evening by the Grice & Fischer radueville orchestra. Boys will be admitted for 50 cents.

MRS. SALING ENTERTAINS.

Mrs. Ralph G. Saling entertained a number of Weston ladies last Tuesday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Lillian McMorris of Portland.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with apple blossoms and white lilacs, and a pleasing program was given. Mrs. Lillian Fredericks played a piano solo, and also accompanied Mrs. Saling in the rendition of several vocal selections. Other diversion was found in needle work and social chit-chat.

The house was鼻子 in serving ice cream and cake by Mrs. Robert Proffitt and Mrs. C. H. Smith.

The invited guests were:

Mrs. Lillian McMorris, Mrs. L. S. Wood, Mrs. Geo. L. Horseman, Mrs. Eleanor M. Warren, Mrs. Robert Proudfit, Mrs. Marvin Price, Mrs. Geo. Pioneer of 1849 is Called by Death.

Mrs. J. C. McFarland, wife of J. H. McFarland, died April 9 at her home three miles southwest of Eugene, Oregon, at the age of 77 years after an illness of three months' duration.

Mrs. McFarland was among the earliest pioneers of Oregon, having crossed the plains in 1849 with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Boothby. She was born at Pittsfield, Ill., Aug. 6, 1872. Her parents first settled at Zola in Polk county across the river from Salem, where she was united in marriage to William Duran. Six children were born to them. Her second marriage, when she became the wife of Mr. McFarland, took place in June, 1884. Mr. and Mrs. McFarland were former residents of Weston, and are well remembered here. They moved to Eugene in 1900.

Mrs. McFarland was a member of the Christian church, with which she united in her young womanhood. She is survived by the following children: Mrs. O. C. Beck of Eltopia, Wash.; Mrs. Emma J. Phillips of Brewster, Wash.; R. R. Duran of Buhl, Idaho; A. J. Duran of Centralia, Wash.; George W. Duran of Medical Lake, Wash., and Henry H. Duran of Buhl, Idaho. She also left three brothers and two sisters.

When a visiting "sport" offers to back his team, local fans will be doing well to tell him to keep his money in his pocket.

Mr. Bartholomew of the Twin Cities next appears on the Weston diamond he should be presented with a huge bouquet of narcissus and chrysanthemums and immortelle and daisies of the dell and Johnny-jump-ups, and a few sprigs of dogwood and dandelion and fox-tail—and whatever else may seem appropriate.

For this kindly twirler presented Weston with a game of ball that it appreciated very highly. He shot some straight ones over in the first canto—for no other reason, apparently, than to try out Weston's younger players and see if they had any holes in their bats. When he had finished his interesting experiment his offerings had been slammed to every corner of the lot and the locals were five runs to the good. "Jimmy" Kirkpatrick broke auspiciously into baseball by twirling a three-bagger to left field and clearing the bases of his compatriots. A wild heave enabled him to complete the circuit, amidst joyful sounds and loud acclamations.

Mr. Bartholomew was now satisfied. He proceeded to tighten up like a mischievous deacon at a church fair. He put shouts and twists and hops and slants on the ball and pitched like a major leaguer for the remainder of the game, but it was everlasting and hopelessly too late. Milton-Freewater tried hard but in vain to pull off its celebrated come-from-behind-and-get-'em-away stunt. It put over three runs in the final canto and only needed one more to tie the score—while the hearts of local fans had jumped from their throats and were dancing and throbbed on the side lines and local players were going up like a flock of army acrobates—but at last Farmer O'Harris whiffed the third man and all was over but the shouting.

Which reminds us that Farmer O'Harris heaved 'em across in steady and consistent fashion throughout. With faultless support behind him he would have held the visitors to about two runs. At times both teams played ragged ball. The chief offenses of the visitors came in the first and those of Weston in the final inning. Both twirlers, however, were sustained and encouraged by gilt-edged back-stopping.

Before we close let us hear from Mr. Sidney Barnes, whose beautiful song of victory is sung below:

Baseball in the Blues.

Under the management of John English, Weston mountain has organized two baseball teams, the Brush Monkeys and the Red Squirrels. A picked nine from the two played a lively game with Dry Creek last Sunday on English diamond, the score being 8-7 in favor of the locals. Scipio and Hall pitched good ball for the Mountain, while Captain Gould remained behind the bat. Barnes and Cralbel on the mound, and Mitchell and Smith at the receiving end for the Dry Creekers in vain tried to win this, the first match game, from this doughty Mountaineers. Umpire George Bade was firm as adamant in his decisions and once he said a man was safe the odds could not prevail against him. Probably 200 people witnessed the contest. Next Sunday the Monkeys and the Squirrels will settle an old score, and on Sunday, May 2, a return game will be played with Dry Creek on their own ground.
