an effort to settle the Austro-Serbian dispute, and that Germany did actually invade Belgium. The German chancellor's oft-quoted official utterance on August 4th last again becomes pertinent:

"Gentlemen, we are now in a state of necessity, and necessity knows no law! Our troops have occupied Luxembourg, and perhaps are already on Belgian soil. Gentlemen, that is contrary to the dictates of international law. It is true that the French government has declared at Brussels that France is willing to respect the neutrality of Belgium as long as her opponent respects it. We knew, however, that France stood ready for the invasion. France could wait, but we could not wait. A French movement upon our flank upon the lower Rhine might have been disastrous. So we were compelled to override the just protests of the Luxembourg and Belgian governments. The wrong--I speak openly--that we are committing we will endeavor to make good as soon as our military goal has been reached. Anybody who is threatened, as we are threatened, in his fighting for his bigest possessions, can have only one thought--how he is to hack his way through!"

The German mind is studious, inquiring, analytical, with a passion for research and fact-seeking. Very well. Let it seek and produce the facts to show that Germany was "threatened" by England and that "France stood ready for the invasion" of Belgium. Otherwise the neutral world will be prone to believe that it is a mind obsessed--that the most colossal, the most disastrous, the most terrible conflict in history was of psychological origin in the tragic delusion of a people. "Militarism" will no longer explain it, since the whole of Germany, prepared for any and every sacrifice, is devotedly back of the kaiser, his army and his government.

That the war has but begun, that Mars for years may continue to work his bloody will, is now a sinister probability. Germany has failed in her aggressive campaign, but will be well-nigh inconquerable in the defense of her own soil. Meanwhile the utmost circumspection, the most tolerant good nature, become the constant duty of this republic and its people. In view of Italy's probable participation, and Japan's ultimatum to China, the merest spark may yet involve us in a world-wide holocaust.

Although the Columbia river has been opened, we are glad to note that the Celilo celebrants from Weston were tactful enough not to regard this as an invitation to drop in.

A Philadelphia scientist asserts that roses fall in love, and we are not surprised to note that the confirmed bachelor rose leaves so early in the spring.

The Republicans themselves have eliminated Governor Whitman of New York as a presidential possibility, and the Democrats will do the rest in 1916.

Death of Mrs. Bessie Winn Dempsey.

Mrs. Bessie Winn Dempsey, wife of Mr. Stillman Dempsey--a teacher in the Tekoa, Washington, schools--and daughter of Mrs. A. G. Winn of Weston, died May 13, 1915, at 5:19 a. m. in St. Mary's hospital at Walla Walla, after a few weeks' illness.

Mrs. Dempsey was born July 5, 1857, and until her recent marriage had resided from girlhood on the Winn farm near Weston. She was a capable and lovable woman, possessing many graces of heart and mind, and a host of friends unite in the sorrow of those bereft by her death. She was a graduate of the Eastern Oregon State Normal School, and had also been a student at Washington State College. She was a member of the Methodist church, where the funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon in the presence of a large congregation. A feeling sermon was preached, by Elder John Bonewits from the text:

"Set thine house in order, for thou shalt die and not live."
The last words of Mrs. Dempsey had been committed to paper, and were read by the minister. They were embodied in the following prayer which she uttered about 20 minutes before she passed away:

"Dear God, what have I done to suffer so? O Saviour, if it is possible, let this cup of death pass from me. It is appointed once for every man to choose between life and death. If this hour is to be my last, dear Saviour, save me, save me.
"I feel as though my life work is not finished, but Thou knowest best. Not my will, but thy will, be done.
"Dear Father, there is my dear husband. Dear God, guide and direct him through his life work. I love him so. And my dear mamma. Dear God, bless and keep her.
"Save me, save me, and take me to glory."

AN EDITOR'S COMMISSION.

Says the Litchfield (Ill.) News-Herald: Not long ago a man came into this office and stopped his paper because he said it was always printing a lot of things about the same people and he said he was sick of it. Now when something goes wrong with the country the government appoints a commission to investigate and find out what is the matter, and the first thing a commission investigates is the man who made the holier to see if the holier was a reasonable holler. We appointed a commission consisting of ourselves to investigate this man. We just followed the man's career ever since we knew him. The first thing that happened to that man was that he was born, but he had nothing to do with it. However, we mentioned him, although his parents were entitled to the credit. When he was in his early twenties he got married. We mentioned that, including the name of the bride, the preacher, etc. In fact, we mentioned everything but the preacher's fee, which was not worth mentioning. We never mentioned the fact that he never won any premiums at the county fair, because he never exhibited anything. We never mentioned his name in the list of committees, because he never attended anything. We never mentioned his name in the list of donors, because he never donated as much as a doughnut. We certainly have been treating this man shamefully, but we will agree to run a nice obituary when the time comes.

Next Sunday's Games
Helix at Weston, 2:30 p. m.
Athens at Milton-Freewater.

The Helix Jackrabbits (Bunnies for short) have ceased to be timid little animals, and Sunday last turned ferociously upon the Weston Mountaineers, whom they trimmed in nine innings of nondescript baseball.

The nondescript baseball was furnished by Weston, Helix putting up a sifty example of the national sport. While Farmer O'Harra works better on a hot day, and the wintry atmosphere last Sunday was not to his liking, he nevertheless held the Rabbits to three scattering hits. Baseball luck decreed that those should come from men on bases, and Helix's infield. It's a perfectly good infield, too, collected and groomed with much pains by the Weston magnate, but had an off day. Every man Jack of it erred more or less except Blomgren the Swede, who supplied the silver lining to the dark, sunny cloud and whatever other consolation was in order. The Swede is a nice little consoiler.

The Mountaineers garnered no less than eleven full-fledged swats--Fulford, M. Turner and Kennard starring with the stick--which should be enough to win almost any old ball game. It wasn't enough at Helix, however, for the reasons herebefore cogently stated. The Bunnies also connected quite freely with Farmer O'Harra's slants, but were not hitting safely, and their efforts would have gone for naught had the Pos Ridge slabber been accorded better support. They are herewith warned of more skillful trapping when they come to Weston next Sunday.

The game was almost a constant jawfest, with Helix leading the jaundiced conversation, and Umpire Sharpe never had a dull moment. Umpire batting must be a familiar sport in Rabbitville. Don't keep it up, our bucolic friends, until Helix you.

Larry Mitchell made his debut in center field in a Weston uniform and pulled down a high one in pleasing fashion. He has the look and action of an accomplished ball tosser. We are indebted to Mr. Sidney Barnes for the appended growsome tale of the tragedy:

THE LOAFER.

They say that I am worthless and I guess, at least, I be; 'cause kids and other people's dogs they all shine up to me. While decent men is scrambling to nail a dollar down I spend the best part of my time in aimless rambling 'round'. I pity lots of well-dressed folk that coolly pass me by; the weariness that's on their lips, the pain that's in their eye. In winter, just a corner near to some one else's fire; in summer-time a patch of shade's the top of my desire. A gun when fall winds whistle, a pole when fishes bite; three meals, or less if need be, and a place to sleep at night. To turn a little favor for a stranger or a pal, to get a tender smile from a youngster or a gal; to grin with them that's grinning, and weep with them that weep, to never mind my enemies and like my friends a heap, to never hurt a woman's heart, nor do a man a wrong--I ask for nothing else except to drift and loaf along--Exchange.
