Official Washington Thinks War With Teutons Remote.

Way Plainly Prepared for Germany to Acquiesce Without Loss of Dignity-Peace In Sight.

Washington, D. C. - Optimism -Germany over the sea zones of war controversy between Germany and the United States.

The American note presented to the Berlin foreign office by Ambassador Gerard was interpreted on all sides as decidedly friendly and leaving the way open to a satisfactory solution with honor to both sides. Officials made it clear that the note purposely had been phrased so as to reiterate the earnestness of the United States with respect to the principles of humanity and international law and at the same time to afford Germany an opportunity with dignity to make her practice square with the principles expressed.

It was said officially that a note would soon be sent to Great Britain and her allies insisting on a change in the operation of the blockade conducted by them so as to conform with the principles of international law forbidding interference with trade in noncontraband articles passing to and from a belligerent country through a contiguous neutral country. This, it was generally believed, would be an important factor in convincing the German government that the United States would maintain the same vigorous position on the fundamentals of international law with respect to the allies as has been the case in the American correspondence with Germany.

Close reading in diplomatic quarters of the American note to Germany pre-sented by Ambassador Gerard, the second since the Lusitania was sunk, brought out a variety of predictions and views as to the manner in which

Germany would reply. There was a general feeling of confidence, however, that Germany would accept some of the several avenues of approach purposely included in the note by the American government so as to make possible a friendly settlement of policy.

The note referred appreciatively to the President's efforts and outlined the purposes of the Villa-Zapata leaders to bring about a reconciliation with the Carrangaistas.

In the message to Carranza dated June 11 and sent direct from the camp of the northern general at Aguas Calientes to the First Chief at Vera Cruz, stress is laid on President Wilson's warning that the United States would be obliged to "decide on other measures should a coalition of the factions prove futile." General Villa says:

"In our opinion this declaration in volves two principles, which may frustrate the ends of the revolution and impair our sovereignity. First, the Cientificos, with any other group, might again enthrone themselves with American assistance. Second, should the people not submit to this, the American govrenment might have recourse to armed intervention. In the face of these two imminent dangers, and without recognizing the right of the American government to intervene in our affairs, we think that we should seek means that would permit the reunion and reorganization of the Constitutionalist party, even though it be indispensable to make sacrifices of self-esteem. We believe also that this is what patriotism and the future welfare of our country requires of us. 'In such sense, we propose to you that we take under consideration President Wilson's note and that, if you are so disposed, as we ourselves are, that you advise us that we may discuss and agree at once on the form and terms of procedure in the reorganization of the national constitutional government. We have already placed ourselves in touch with the chief of the convention government, as well as the commanding general of the army of
