the Kaiser is said to have declared that the war will be ended in October, but may find that it was far easier to start than it will be to finish.

Portland has set her Buyers' Week for August 9 to 14, according to an official notice sent us, but the most we could do if we went down would be to stimulate the dairy trade a trifle by the purchase of a milk shake.

We cannot avoid observing that ample liberty has been vouchsafed the esteemed Oregonian to publish Liberty Bell poems.

A dark deed was done when those German submariners kicked a bunch of negro muleteers into the briny.

COHEN PREDICTS BUMPER CROP.

"The greatest cereal crop in the history of Oregon, Washington and Idaho is now being gathered in," says Hyman H. Cohen in the Oregon Journal.

"The crop of the three leading grains will reach a grand total of 113,300,000 bushels compared with 109,100,000 bushels for the same crop in the north-west in 1914.

"Both the wheat and oats crops are greater than a year ago, but the output of barley is smaller. Decrease in production of the latter is not due to any diminished yield per acre, but to a heavy loss in the acreage. The acreage of both wheat and oats is greater than a year ago and the average yield per acre is also better.

"While all crops suffered somewhat from the reactionary weather just previous to the opening of harvest, wheat was the greatest sufferer and the Oregon fields stood the brunt of the loss. Early promise for wheat in the three states was close to 60,000,000 bushels, while the actual crop is close to 66,000,000 bushels.

"Washington and Idaho produced their greatest crops of wheat this season, while Oregon fell somewhat in the rear because of unfavorable weather appearing just as the wheat was in a critical stage.

"The Oregon crop was damaged fully 20 percent, while the total damage in Washington was scarcely more than seven percent and in Idaho less than five percent."

Mr. Cohen puts Oregon's wheat crop at 18,900,000 bushels, Washington's at 36,020,000 bushels and Idaho's at 11,380,000 bushels. He predicts that Umatilla county will harvest 3,900,000 bushels of wheat, and Walla Walla county 4,750,000 bushels. Whitman—the banner wheat county of the north-west—will have 11,000,000 bushels.

YEA, HE "KNOWS A PLACE"

If we were running the Oregonian we would let Deah Collins have a month's vacation at full pay, and turn the Courteous Office Boy loose on Collins' 'collyum' in the Sunday issue. To the place that Collins knows so well he could go, and fish and loaf and soak his system full of ozone and contentment. His prose poem as follows in the Sunday Oregonian, ought to melt a heart of stone, and if we were his managing editor we would even provide him with rod and reel and line and brown hackie and coachman flies and supply the bait—liquid or otherwise. We'll bet the investment would justify itself in a moving song of forest and stream, greenling glades, and speckled trout, almost his day. It expresses the best efforts of a champion B. P. R. hen:

"I know a place where the sun is like gold and the forests a maze of green, where the streams of the mountain are swift and cold, where the fighting trout are seen. I know a gentle and mossy nook, where one can settle and cast his hook, and dream and read from the rippled book of the wimpling water's sheen.

"I know a place where the skies are so blue that it chokes up your throat to see, and you almost feel that you're looking through the depths of eternity. I know a place where the hemlock flings its spears up, up, where the white cloud swings, and you follow its rush with a soul on wings burst forth from your body—free.

"I know a place, 'tis a place that calls on the voice of the winds tuned low, on the distant drone of the waterfalls and the cries that the bluejays throw. Mother, mother, my mother the earth, from a year in the city's dolor and dearth, I have learned your love and I know your worth. Call, mother, and I will go."

THANKS, GOOD BROTHER.

The Leader man is gratified much by the following compliment in the Hermiston Herald, which his modesty almost but not quite prevents him from reprinting:

"The Weston Leader, a venerable patriarch of the Oregon newspapers, has just completed its 25th year. Not all of this span was under the present management. None, however, plished more for the home community and the state at large than the man now at the wheel, Clark Wood."

"We don't know what we have done for the state at large, but what it has done to us—in 'doing' the normal school—is pretty considerable.

Fremont, O.—While Lester Pawsey was automobiling Sunday, a bug flew into his ear. The services of two physicians and the aid of chloroform were necessary to remove the bug.

Amsterdam, Holland—A workman employed at Dusseldorf in the manufacture of ammunition for the German army, has averaged 17 working hours a day for 26 days. This is considered here a world's record. The man's total earnings for his time were $59.50, about 18 cents an hour.

New York, N. Y.—When Mrs. Lena Reaven went to buy some things from Martino Castagrivani, a peddler, he asked her for a kiss. She refused and the Italian picked up a stick and struck her over the head, cracking her skull.

Sunbury, Pa.—Mrs. John J. Carr has applied for a divorce, alleging that her husband assaulted her so hard he broke her breastbone.

ATHENA BALL TEAM WINS COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP

By defeating Pilot Rock two out of three, the Athena team became the baseball champions of Umatilla county, and Doc Osburn's Suburbanites are entitled to and do herewith receive the compliments of this metropolitan sheet for upholding the honor of the East End league against the Blue Mountain organization. The glory is the greater for the reason that the Pilot Rock Pebbles had not lost a game in their own league, and tasted their first defeat of the season when they met Athena.

Some of the credit is reflected upon Weston, as it bested the Athena champions twice during the season. Moreover, one of its star men, Ernie Blongren, was enticed by Athena for the third and decisive game with the Rock, and contributed two bingles to the festivities.

In a beautiful pitching duel at Athena between Shick and Darling, which lasted 12 innings, Athena nosed out a victory by the score of 4 to 1. Sunday at Pilot Rock the Pebbles turned the tables, winning an outright contest by the score of 2 to 1. Harlan, a Heppner twirler who had been pitching for Stanfield in the Blue Mountain league, was used by Manager Osburn of Athena, and beat Turck by an eye-lash.

The third game was played Monday at Pendleton and drew a big crowd of fans from all over the county. It was marked by stronger hitting and lower fielding than the two previous contests. Athena developed the brighter batting eye, and took kindly to the offerings of Harlan and Darling. The Pebbles also connected with the shots of Turck and Shick, but not so effectively. After tying the score and getting a slight lead, they went to pieces under the strain of an Athena batting rally and lost the game and the championship by a final score of 12 to 6.

Pilot Rock's regular pitcher, Darling, had a bad flinging finger, which interfered with his work, and its catcher and first baseman had been crippled in an automobile accident. To these misfortunes, in large measure, Manager Walter Smith attributes his team's defeat.

Evansville, Ind.—"I never use love powders, I simply win them. Men are easy to get." So says Mrs. Polly Anne Weed Strodes, seventy years old, who is seeking a divorce from her thirteenth husband, Harrison Strodes, 82 years old. Mrs. Strodes says as soon as she gets her divorce she will wed her fourteenth husband.

The coal miners of South Wales appear to be "Welshing" on the English government.

Uncle Sam and Kaiser Bill continue to correspond, but the same cannot be said of their views.

Although a grave issue has developed between the United States and Germany, there seems to be no way to bury it.

Curious, isn't it, that our republican friends should be casting about for the "right man for president" when he is president already?

About all we are able to learn from the United States Cashier company trial at Portland is that somebody took the cash out of cashier.

Carranza is "restoring normal conditions" in Mexico City, which probably means that it will continue to be an elegant place to stay away from.

Harry K. Thaw has been declared sane, which verdict will tend to shake the rooted conviction of the rest of us that sanity is a desirable condition.

We will try not to be so unkind as to infer that the Baker, Oregon, man who refuses to stay out of jail finds it the most attractive place in Baker.

We would prefer to remain a live oward than to qualify as a dead hero by dropping 5000 feet, as did Captain William Mattery, upon Mexican soil.

A Pendleton mob compelled a dirty citizen to take a bath, but we are not going to be hypercritical enough to say that the county seat may have to augment its water supply if this practice becomes general.
