BREVITIES

O. T. Douglas has been kept at home for several weeks by illness.

That Green Enamel Ware is going at bargain prices. Watts & Rogers.

Mrs. Eugene Wells of Basket mountain is reported to be seriously ill at the Walla Walla hospital.

Announcement is made that protracted meetings will begin November 21 at the United Brethren church.

Trade at home! We'll trade the new for the old in the furniture line, right here in Weston. E. O. DeMoss.

Joe Hodgson will go to Portland tomorrow with a carload shipment of corpulent porkers from Meadowbrook farm.

Not a few Weston baseball fans are promising themselves that they will see the all-star National and American teams in action at Pendleton November 13.

Henry Stamper, well known Weston pioneer who has conducted a livery stable here for many years, is reported to be critically ill at his home on Water street.

C. M. Price was a recent visitor to the metropolis, and helped to make business lively at its stockyards with a carload of hogs. He received seven cents per pound for the shipment.

Among the former Westonians who were here from Walla Walla for Weston Day were Grandma McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Woods, Mr. and Mrs S. T. Gore, Mrs. Linna Sauze and O. M. Richmond.

Jess Powls is back from the Umatilla river, where he spent the summer months. He went hunting for deer with Frank Powls, Shed Price and John Hager, and they did not return empty-handed.

G. W. Mitchell has begun digging spuds at his place on Reed and Hawley mountain, and reports that the quality is better than any he has ever raised. The yield is good, too, one acre so far harvested having produced 80 sacks.

A young apple tree is growing in the yard of Mrs. W. M. Gerking on Franklin street, which seems to be mistaken in the seasons. Its foliage is coming out and it is full of buds and blossoms. The tree was transplanted and trimmed last spring.

Miss Clara C. Young is teaching the school in district No. 65 north of town, with eleven pupils enrolled, and is making her home with the J. N. Yorks at Neverfail farm. Miss Young came to Weston from Portland, but received her professional training in Michigan.

R. W. Fletcher, circulation manager of the East Oregonian—who circulates all over the county in his Ford machine—found himself marooned Saturday with a broken crank shaft on the Dry creek road. Homer Hedrick brought in the car for the necessary repairs at the Weston garage.

Weston's annual city election will be held Monday, November 15. A mayor, three councilmen for two years, a recorder and treasurer are to be chosen. As is usually the case, candidates are somewhat scarce and coy, as service in the city's aldermanic body carries with it no emoluments and sometimes considerable grief.

Loyd Critchlow, formerly of Weston, recently had the misfortune of losing the first crop from his homestead in the vicinity of Durkee, Oregon. Stacked in the field, his barley and oats caught fire in some manner and went up in flame and smoke. As Mr. Critchlow had no insurance, the loss is a serious blow to him.

A valued house pet is missing from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred McGrew, who will pay a reward for its return. It is a gray Persian cat of unusual size, and disappeared last Monday, much to the sorrow of its mistress. This handsome feline is of royal lineage, its parents having taken prizes in bench shows at both Seattle and Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer L. Hedrick entertained Friday evening with a novel and enjoyable Hallowe'en party at their home on East Main street. The rooms were appropriately decorated and the guests, upon entering, were severally introduced to "General Jack o' Lantern," who grinned in welcome. Especial pleasure was found around a cheerful bonfire in the yard, where games were played, stories told and "weenies" and marshmallows toasted and eaten. Further appetizing refreshments were later served in the house by the hostess. The guests were: Misses Anita and Odessa Kirkpatrick, Emma Johnson, Lucile Cogswell, Maude Ager, Olive Kilmer, Nellie Workman, Alberta Dryden, Louise Rintoul; Dr. Alfred F. Sempert; Messrs. Robert Blomgren, H. Goodwin, Claud Price, H. Weber, Clark Wood.

Joseph Wurzer, Weston councilman and for many years a leading citizen of this community, is lying in a serious condition in a Spokane hospital. Mr. Wurzer has land holdings in the neighborhood of Odessa, Wash., where he was kicked in the stomach by a mule. His son Alva, who was with him on the ranch, conveyed him to Spokane, and Mrs. Wurzer hurried to his bedside from Weston in response to a telegram. It was found by the surgeons that the intestines were perforated, and an operation was performed Monday. Under the most favorable conditions, Mr. Wurzer will be unable to leave the hospital for three weeks or longer.

Rev. Dr. George B. Van Waters, who has been appointed by Bishop Paddock as general missionary of Eastern Oregon in association with Rev. Mr. Powell, and who for more than 17 was rector of St. David's Church at Portland, Or., will conduct services next Sunday morning and evening in the Episcopal Church at Weston. Weston people in general are invited and urged to avail themselves of the opportunity to hear Dr. Van Waters, who is regarded as an able and scholarly man. He will arrive in Weston Friday evening, in order to meet the members of the congregation and of All Saints' Guild.

Weston and Pendleton and the intermediate towns are now served by two auto stage lines as well as by the O.-W. R. & N., and traveling is made both easy and convenient. J. O. Wood has just put a new Ford automobile on this run and issued a time schedule. To meet this competition, A. M. Boyden, who established the first auto stage line, has also put a new Ford in commission to replace his old machine. Served by two other competitive automobiles between the town and depot, Weston doesn't have to walk anywhere or any time.

A very pleasant feature among the social activities of Weston was a Hallowe'en supper given by the Saturday Afternoon Club October 30 to the ladies and their husbands. The home of Mrs. R. W. Brown, the hostess, was most beautifully decorated in the fall colors. Trailing autumn vines and red berries were used in the living room, while in the dining room were the usual Hallowe'en embellishments. A bountiful supper was spread and an informal program was enjoyed later in the evening. The affair was largely attended.

Everybody likes the kind of entertainment given by the Beverly Entertainers. There's enough variety to keep it from palling on the palate of the listener, there is charm in the manner of its giving, and the music is cleverly chosen and well rendered. In sketch work the company is unusually effective, presenting entertaining playlets in a most winning way. The guitaralogues given by Miss Rita Smith are always enthusiastically received. (At High School auditorium November 26.)

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Fontaine were recent visitors here from their farm near Covello, Wash., and remained for Weston Day. Mr. Fontaine was once a printer, but knew when to quit, and now has a ranch and an automobile. Moreover, he refused to trade either one for our G. Wash. When the Fontaines motored back to Covello they were accompanied by Mrs. Fontaine's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Driskell, who will visit them there.

A party of Weston cattlemen consisting of Ralph Tucker, Jim Lieuallen, George Kinnear and P. A. McBride saw a herd of five elk a few days ago on the breaks of the Walla Walla river north of Saling's Camp. They were much interested in watching the movements of the herd, as elk are seldom met with in that vicinity. Kinnear had a grand little adventure of his own, having actually helped Forest Ranger Baker to kill a bear.

A carload of oil was received this week by the City of Weston for application to its thoroughfares. Main street, which was recently improved by grading, has been thoroughly oiled, and while the immediate result is not especially delightful, it is expected that the street will be in fine condition soon. "Baking powder" from the brickyard is being spread on top of the oil.

Sam Banister greeted Weston friends Monday while on his way from Enterprise to Waitsburg. Having traded his Wallowa county holdings for Waitsburg wheat land, Sam is now on another deal. He contemplates swapping his Waitsburg land for 200 acres on the Coppei, between Dayton and Dixie. His family will remain at Enterprise for the present.

J. N. York brightened The Leader office this week with his presence and also with the cheerful rays from shining white metal. Mr. York has formed the commendable habit of sending Weston Leaders to relatives in his native state of North Carolina, and made his customary annual visit to liquidate for his own and these subscriptions.

Concerning second crop strawberries, mentioned now and then in the newspapers, J. E. McDaniel comes to bat from Weston mountain with the interesting news that he has ripe strawberries, green ones and blossoms all on the same vine. Although he forgot to bring us a bunch, we hasten to assert our confidence in Jim's veracity.

Suitable monuments of white marble, inscribed with their names and their army connections, were lately received by Merritt A. Baker from the federal government to be placed at the graves of the late Thompson Warren and James A. Royce in the local cemetery. Both saw honorable service for their country in the civil war.

A baby daughter, weight seven pounds, was born September 15 to Mr. and Mrs. Will S. Preston at their home in Huntington Beach, Calif., and has been christened Eva Vivian.

Some very nice bedroom sets for sale cheap. E. E. Zehm.

See Watts & Rogers' lament over Weston's Free Day in Big Ad.

Two male pigs, full-blooded Berkshire, for sale. I. C. Hopkins.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Turner were among the visitors from Pendleton on Weston Day.

A lady's hand bag left with us "Free Day." Contains some child's articles. Watts & Rogers.

Our stock of second-hand goods is bigger and better than ever and will interest you. Come in. E. E. Zehm.

Frank Smith was here Saturday and Sunday from Freewater, where he is clerking in the Shaver mercantile store.

Dr. Sempert was in Walla Walla for several days this week, attending a meeting of the Washington dental board.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Gordon motored over in their Ford Saturday from their farm beyond Athena to attend Weston Day.

As is his annual custom, James Kirkpatrick has gone to the National Soldiers Home in California to spend the winter months.

Motor car service to all points, day or night. Also livery and feed stable opposite the Lieuallen blacksmith shop. Lafe McBride.

The East Oregonian publishes a report that Walla Walla will hold no more frontier shows, having found them a financial failure.

Weston is represented on the student roll of the Northwestern business college at Spokane, by Sylvan Kennard and Cyril Proebstel.

Not a few Weston families dined on venison Sunday, after George Bowers and Sim J. Culley had returned from a successful hunting expedition.

In the county court yesterday a proposed new road up Pine creek from Weston was ordered surveyed, and if practicable will be made a county highway.

Jess York Jr. left yesterday for Mt. Airy, N. C., to visit three months with his grandmother and uncles. He will also look after his father's land interests there.

Shiva Maxa, a young Serbian, killed himself with a revolver at the C. P. Bowman ranch on Butter creek, and left a note saying that "life without friends is impossible."

Mrs. Harriet Mosier and Mrs. Alice Kirkpatrick left yesterday for Heppner to visit Mrs. J. H. Edwards, daughter of Mrs. Mosier, who will remain in Heppner for the winter.

Vocal Culture—A. W. Lundell, B. M., will accept a limited number of pupils in singing and sight reading on reasonable terms. Class forming now. Your piano tuned at city prices.

J. H. Reynolds, a Milton orchardist, informs the Eagle that he has made cash sales this year of $1200 from three acres of peaches. However, he has had to take good care of his orchard to secure these results.

Umatilla county has ten standard high schools, among which is Weston High. There are 161 in Oregon. Umatilla county contains more recognized high schools than any other county in the state in proportion to its population, except Lane county.

Mrs. William MacKenzie was the recent hostess of a delightful reception given for the teachers of Weston by the Saturday Afternoon Club. The spacious parlors were artistically decorated in autumnal colors, and the musical program presented was received with much pleasure and appreciation by the club ladies and their guests. Dainty refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon.

Hallowe'en sprites were somewhat discouraged here by the presence of two special policemen assisting Chief Wilson. Liftin' things isn't very easy with so many cops around. However, they managed to tip over some outbuildings and to put the bell out of commission at the school house on the hill, in order that the janitor might appreciate their activities. "Bowser" or "Bow Wow" Edwards (special cop) was carefully and particularly avoided by the goblins, who called him the above pet names at a safe distance.

Hurrah! Whoopee! Gee Whiz!

Let's do it Some More—but

We'll Wait a Bit

Weston's Free Day made us all glad, and we surely Had a Good Mix

Twelve Hundred and Sixty Four People swapped pasteboards for paper plates—and then some. The Souvenir Woods were full of Hunters—some from Walla Walla, Pendleton, Milton, Athena and Adams—and each found game. Jim King lost his Goose but Ralph Tucker saved his Pig. Joe Hodgson had some Barnyard Pheasants, but they all got away, and Jack Chapin's prize Chanticleer fell to ye scribe. Sim Barnes says Flour (a barrel) is in good demand, and Price reports that Wheat (two sacks) is moving some. James swiped O'Harra's ham, and a prominent lady drew a "Hair Cut and Shave."

WE WILL NOW RETURN TO OUR VOCATION OF

Hardware, Lumber, Fuel and Implements, and Rob says he wishes to give some special bargains in that fine Green Enamel Ware—The Shamrock Style. Come and try him. He prefers to go fishing, but says he would like to close it out before the next trip.

You know that when we say "Bargains" we mean what we say.

Luxurious Table Settings

That Will Worthily Grace the Thanksgiving Table

The President has proclaimed the National Thanksgiving Feast Day. The Old World is in the flames of War, while America enjoys Peace and Prosperity. This will be one of the most notable Thanksgiving Anniversaries in American History.

The thoughtful housekeeper is already thinking about the Turkey. Soon she will provide for the Mince and Pumpkin Pies. She will have the potatoes mashed and beaten to a foam as a delicious vehicle for the rich brown gravy—for the "Thanksgiving Dinner" is the pride of her whole year—and perhaps members of the family are to COME HOME for the feast.

But—Are the Dinnerware and Silverware Provided?

Is there enough of each to go around? Is it rich and luxurious, to give that gleaming radiance to the festal board? The whole FINISH of the sumptuous Dinner depends on the Table Settings.

Then, how about other furnishings—odd pieces, a rug or two, some draperies? How about some extra bedding for the spare room? The things you need are here in almost endless assortments. No need of choosing something you are not entirely pleased with. Especially is this true of Dinnerware (22 patterns) and Silverware (six high grade patterns.)

NOW, A THANKSGIVING SALE

All this week and next, several hundred items are especially priced. Every department in this big store has provided a lot of THANKSGIVING BARGAINS. Some of these will be sold out before two weeks, some perhaps will last longer. During the last ten days before Thanksgiving we will give a FINE TURKEY FREE to customers whose purchases amount to $25.00 or more, but there will not be so many special bargains. So come early. Space does not permit enumerating these specials, but you may depend on it they are numerous and worth while. Davis-Kaser's never disappoint. They always give at least as much—often more—than they promise.

much use as a Hottentot for a flannel shirt, but this only enhanced the joyous nature of the affair.

Meals were served to 1264 people, and were paid for by Watts & Rogers, who originated Weston Free Day and who have received an enthusiastic tribute of praise from all concerned for their enterprise and generosity. The lunch was a splendid one, served in cafeteria style in the pioneers' pavilion by the ladies of Weston's leading churches, the Methodists and the United Brethren. Each church netted $75. Bill Price, Weston's expert coffee maker, was enrolled by the ladies, and prepared just about enough of this beverage to float the dreadnaught Nebraska in the Culebra cut. It was fine coffee, too.

The free entertainment was provided by E. D. Hewitt's motion picture show in Weston opera house. Mr. Hewitt has a new outfit and presented a fine program during the entire afternoon and evening to hundreds of people. His films are the latest going, and were clearly shown upon the screen.

The business houses and individuals who contributed to the success of Weston Free Day were as follows:

The O'Harra Store, Watts & Rogers, Goodwin's Drug Store, Lundell's Market, Kirkpatrick's Confectionery, Pacific Coast Elevator Co., Lieuallen & Son's Blacksmith Shop, Perry's Market, Joe Hodgson's Meadowbrook Farm, DeMoss Furniture Store, Weston Brickyard, A. James' Weston Barber Shop, F. C. Greer, Snider's Blacksmith Shop, Zehm's Bakery, Stamper's Stables, Dr. S. L. Kennard, Weston Warehouse Co., Weston Mercantile Co., The Farmers' Bank of Weston, Wood's Feed Mill, Lafe McBride, The Weston Leader, Hedrick's Garage, Weston Tailor and Barber Shop, Ralph Tucker, the H. A. Brandt Store, the Webb Hotel, the Barnett Economy Store, J. B. Farrens' Confectionery and Pool Hall, F. G. Lucas' Real Estate Office.

WESTON FREE DAY A BIG SUCCESS

The success and novelty of Weston Free Day delighted both the town and its visitors. It is likely that no similar event—with prizes, meals and entertainment entirely free—was ever "pulled off" in the United States. Certainly no other town in the Pacific Northwest has thus distinguished itself. We look to see Portland, Walla Walla, Pendleton and other burgs with less initiative than Weston, copy its neat little "stunt." Most certainly they are welcome to do so, as "imitation is the sincerest flattery." Neither is New York City barred, although the task of feeding five or six million people might overwhelm the merchants of Gotham.

Two thousands souvenirs were offered by Weston business men—ranging in value from a five cent lead pencil to a ten dollar clock, won by Frank Skinner. The people registered their names in a big book at the DeMoss Furniture Store and drew numbered tickets from a large box with an opening in the top of sufficient size to admit the hand. The prizes were distributed among the different stores about town and bore numbers corresponding to the tickets. The task of hunting for them proved to be a merry and fascinating one for all, and throngs of searchers ransacked every business house in the town. Especially did the little boys and girls take delight in this pastime. Through the thoughtfulness of Dr. Watts, hundreds of toys and novelties were provided for the little ones, and they had a separate box from which to draw their prizes.

About 1600 numbers were drawn in all, and there was a corresponding prize for each, although a number of people did not find their souvenirs Saturday. Record was kept and the gifts given out later to those who came to town again. Gifts of considerable value were bestowed by a number of business houses, although as a matter of course the most of the prizes were inexpensive. Now and then some eager hunter would draw a prize for which he had about as
