The Farmers Bank of Weston

Established 1891

Our depositors are increasing in number as well as deposits in value; but we have room for more. Don't hang back because the start looks small. Everything starts that way. Just a short time ago the European war was only talk. See how it has grown; yet a small bank account is worth more than two such wars.

THE CHRIS APPROACHES.

Submarines flying the Austrian flag continue to torpedo ocean liners carrying non-combatants without any apparent concern as to whether or not American lives are sacrificed thereby. Meanwhile, the notes exchanged between the American and Austrian governments are as satisfactory to neither, and the likelihood grows that the Ancona affair will lead to the rupture of diplomatic relations. Similar estrangement with the German government will almost inevitably follow, since the Lusitania affair is still unsettled and the central powers are indubitably supporting each other in their negotiations with the United States.

After all, it would perhaps simplify matters should the United States at last determine upon a diplomatic break with the Teutonic empires. Beyond question they think so ill of us already because we have not recognized the inherent superiority of the German race and its right to go to any length to uphold the motto, "Deutschland Ober Alles," that their rancor would scarce be increased by such a course. Open war need not follow. It would be analogous to the relations between neighbors who, without coming to blows, did not speak to each other. Our nationals would then be well aware that they took their lives into their own hands when they traveled the high seas, and we would be absolved from the necessity of constant posting before the powers. We would be absolved also from any consideration toward Germany and Austria in the punishment of their agents who are stirring up trouble in America, and could turn an indifferent ear to their complaints that our citizens are supplying their enemies with food and munitions.

Moreover, the United States will need friends when the war is over. We will be rich and fat, but virtually unable to defend ourselves against attack. Since the central powers are practically certain to dislike us whether or not an enlightened self-interest would indicate terms of cordial understanding with the entente allies. They would forego their present feeling of suspicion toward us when they found us maintaining no diplomatic relations with their enemies. In all likelihood we have no material future injury to fear from England, France or Russia, but Japan has been casting covetous eyes in our direction since it attained the status of a world power and might easily seek a pretext to invade our shores.

OUR WILD TURKEY.

It was the Progenitor of All Kinds of Turkey the World Over.
Among the aboriginal inhabitants of America the turkey was a favorite fowl. It had its habitat over all that section where grew its favorite food, Indian corn. When Cortez in 1519 first reached the realm of the Aztecs, Montezuma entertained him with a turkey, and among the delicious viands set before the Spanish invaders was roasted turkey. It was found that the Aztecs had domesticated the fowl to quite an extent and that it was plentiful in its wild state.
North of the Rio Grande the bird was equally well known, and the adventurous Columbus found it among the wild dwelling Indians and other tribes he met on his expedition through what is now Texas, Arizona and New Mexico. The Zuni Indians seem to have known of the turkey for centuries, and some of their earliest traditions deal with this interesting bird.
The wild turkey of America is with out doubt the progenitor of all kinds of turkey the world over. Ornithologists in general accept the view that all turkeys have descended from the three forms known today as the North American, the Mexican and the Hon. duras (Central varieties). The bird found in certain forest regions of South America known as the curassow, although sometimes called the South American turkey, is really a turkey to a different family, and scientists hold that any real turkeys found in that continent are immigrants.
In the United States six standard varieties of the domesticated turkey are recognized and grown. These are the Bronze, Narragansett, Buff, Slate, White and the Black. The differences are chiefly in size and coloring.—Exchange.

BEAUTIFUL INHARMONY.

We note with considerable interest that E. W. McCormack, prominent grainbroker and Republican politician of Pendleton, will be a candidate for national delegate as an opponent of Senator Burgess in the event that the Senator enters the race.
This information would seem to indicate that the breach in the ranks of the leaders at Pendleton is growing wider and wider. It first became apparent that these whilom political bedfellows had "split the blanket" during the recent mayoralty contest in Pendleton. Observers of Umattilla county politics can hardly believe their eyes and ears when they read and heard that what has been known for years as "the Furnish crowd" had taken active part on opposite sides in the Pendleton unpleasantness. It was an upheaval, a catastrophe, an irresistible force meeting an immovable object.
These clever gentlemen understand the game. Working together, they have constituted the most effective machine that Umattilla county politics has ever known. Whenever they sought an objectionable candidate's scalp, he could save himself annoyance by removing it himself and handing it over. Just what each disgruntled group of the sundred camp will do to the other is not to be ascertained from the beautiful and edifying demonstration. The victims of their combined attacks in past campaigns will be the most interested observers.

Whatever of grief and dismay may follow this treacherous semantic disbanding in the local ranks of the G. O. P., there will be no sound of sorrow among the Democrats. Indeed, they will greet the sight of Stalwart knives gleaming in the air with a feeling almost of profound relief. When the politicians fall out, good men and true may be enabled to assimilate the loaves and the fishes.
PASTOR RUSSELL AS A PROPHET.
R. F. Johnson of Fairview Farm, sends us a copy of The Fool-Killer, with a request the following article therein be reprinted in The Leader. Mr. Johnson, having seen a Leader number for 22 years, and the article itself being far from dull, we are most willing to oblige.
"Now wouldn't it beat thunder and red lightning if our old friend, Pastor Russell, should turn out to be a true prophet? It may be a bitter pill for us to swallow, but we have to admit that he either knows something or is a mighty good guesser.
"For more than thirty years Russell has been predicting that all existing governments were doomed to fall, and that the year 1914 would mark the beginning of the end. Take particular notice of that date. It is a positive fact, printed and copyrighted over thirty years ago in the Bulletin and over the date 1914 as the time when something big would begin to happen.
"Well, we DO know that SOMETHING started right kerbang on the date that Russell said something would start, and none of us are smart enough yet to prove that it won't wind up just as he says it will. It doesn't require any stretch of the imagination to see how the nations of the East by going on in their present mad course can totally destroy each other. And if this country follows Wilson and Roosevelt and their gang of war jingoes, we will be drawn into it and go just like the rest.
"So and so if Pastor Russell doesn't turn out to be a true prophet that it certainly won't be the fault of the military leaders of the world and their following of war jingoes who are all out whooping it up for the great International Suicide Club of the World."

THE TWO KINGDOMS.

Each man a kingdom may possess;
May play the monarch's role;
And his kingdom is no less
Than that of mind and soul.
Each crown, of course, must make his own,
And therein must live, too,
And by his kingdom he is known—
What kind, good sir, have you?
A poor man's kingdom rich may be;
A rich man's kingdom, poor;
And even through adversity
Some kingdoms may endure;
Their subjects are kind acts and deeds,
Good words, and heart-thoughts
Ire—
What monarch better subjects needs?
What kind, good sir, have you?
Some kingdoms which more pompous are,
And full of brazen show,
Are emptier and poorer far.
Then those that kindness know;
At least to dead sea fruit they turn;
Become as bitter rue,
Dead ashes in the funeral urn—
What kind, good sir, have you?
—Exchange.

MECHANICAL BREED RASER.

"Oh, dear," groaned the young wife.
"I don't know what to do to raise my bread. I've tried everything."
"A rickshaw and a couple of junk screws ought to do it," thought her husband, but he didn't say it aloud.
