Ben Dupuis, who is handling Montana land, has returned from another trip to that flourishing commonwealth. He took with him Tony Galiski of Adams, who promptly invested.

Manager Ashworth found a muff at the opera house and insists that the owner call first at the Leader office and pay two bits for this notice, when the article may be recovered at his residence.

Mayor Banister tried to haul some grain sacks out of his field the other day with his Oldsmobile, and found that it was not quite adapted to the purpose. Ross King found the mayor stuck in the mud, and did a good Samaritan act by helping to pull him out.

Chinese pheasants are reported to be unusually numerous along the upper reaches of Pine creek and Wild Horse creek, having left the valleys and got into the uplands. Apparently not so many were killed as was supposed by last winter's frigid weather.

C. O. Metzker, Pacific Coast manager of The Unitype Company of New Jersey, was here this week installing a unitype of the latest model in the Leader office. Boarding at the palatial Wood mansion, Mr. Metzker complained because he could never beat the editor to the table. Otherwise he thinks that Weston is a little bit of all right.

T. A. Lieuallen, the Adams pioneer, was in town Tuesday and ordered the ballots printed for the Adams election December 11th. Adams always uses Australian ballots and always has them printed at the Leader shop—which is a very laudable municipal custom. Only one ticket is in the field this year, as follows: Mayor, Wm. Holdman; treasurer, S. E. Darr; recorder, T. A. Lieuallen; councilmen, Carl Christian, M. A. Baker, W. H. Bunch. Adams will also vote upon a proposition to limit its tax levy to 15 mills per annum.

Wm. MacKenzie, one of the most substantial property owners of the Weston district, and president of the local bank, has disposed of his entire remaining holdings here to C. H. Nelson, a recent arrival from Alberta. These consist of 300 acres of very valuable farm land near town, and a commodious and modern residence on east Main street hill. The consideration is not given. Mr. Nelson, who is a man of family, will take possession at once. Mr. MacKenzie and family will move to Walla Walla to reside this winter. Their departure will be much regretted by the many friends they have made during their long residence here.

WATTS & ROGERS

Saturday, the second, Mrs. F. D. Watts very graciously acted as hostess when the ladies of the Saturday afternoon club entertained their husbands at a five-course dinner from seven until ten. The guests were seated at six elaborately appointed tables in the parlors, which were tastefully decorated in the club colors and flowers—the color scheme also being followed in the table decorations and refreshments. At the conclusion of the dinner several very appropriate and witty toasts were given, with Dr. Watts acting as toastmaster. Games were in order later in the evening. Those present as guests were: W. A. Barnes, S. A. Barnes, R. W. Brown, E. O. DeMoss, W. A. Graham, Wm. MacKenzie, W. S. Price, E. C. Rogers, J. A. McKee, R. Morrison, A. J. McIntyre, J. W. Porter, R. Proudft, J. F. Snider, Dr. C. H. There's a new drayman in town—dropped Tuesday night by an accommodating stork at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Davis. Having three sisters who have heretofore been without a brother, he is welcome indeed.
